

Let's Discuss It 26 February 2010

Some of these links came from my activities this month. Kim, a friend of my cousin, had found a huge cache of letters written to her mother during World War II. These letters were from quite a few men with quite a few stories to tell. These men had written to her mother for over a year and some for even longer, placing mementos and many great stories in these letters. Kim decided to track down these men and get their stories written down for all to enjoy. She contacted me to get an idea of how to find people who might or might not be alive now. We discussed the usual Social Security Death Index, Military Enlistment Database etc. The discussion led me to the various directories online (and not online), census records and birth and death records and marriage records, after we figured out a few birth places. Where would you have sent her on her search?

Derek sent info on www.rootsireland.ie

Sam sent a link to the Virtual Vietnam Veterans Memorial: <http://www.virtualwall.org/iStates.htm>

Helene had a question on the "Census Secrets" CD: offered by Family Tree

The 1940 census will be available April 2012

Trying to talk Marvin into using screentoaster for instruction on backing up data files!

Marvin sent the Feedbooks link (below), which got me started on all the book links

Someone in the December meeting had asked to see the Melungeon book. Roberta had brought it to the January meeting but most had left before she had a chance to let you know she had it.
