WITH THIS ISSUE, The Tennessee Genealogical Magazine — a.k.a. Ansearchin’ News — completes 50 years of publication. That’s quite a milestone ... and something of which all TGS members can be proud. It was the first genealogical magazine in the state, and was begun in 1954 following the Society’s founding on 17 Apr 1952 and its receipt of a charter from the state of Tennessee on 5 Nov 1952.

The magazine’s first editor was Lillian Gardner. She and her husband, Laurence, were guiding forces in the success of both the magazine and the organization itself.

For years, the magazine was known simply as Ansearchin’ News ... and Lillian explained in one of the early issues how the name came about. It seems that the name was coined by member Ruth Duncan’s cook Fanny.

When Lillian called one day to talk with Ruth, Fanny said, “No’m, Miss Lillian, she ain’t here .. she’s gone ansearchin’.”

And thus a title was born. In recent years, the moniker Tennessee Genealogical Magazine has been prefixed to the title in an attempt to reflect the magazine’s subject matter more accurately.

But you know what? Most of us still refer to it as Ansearchin’ News ... it’s easier to say and perhaps this is one case where a rose by some other name wouldn’t smell as sweet.

Our thanks and deep appreciation to Lillian and the many others who have followed her in dispensing Tennessee genealogy across the United States and even into some instances overseas.

A NEW SLATE of officers was elected at the October membership meeting to head TGS for the next two years.

Byron Crain, vice president for the past year, will be the new president. A native of Little Rock, he graduated from the University of Arkansas, Little Rock, with a B.A. in political science. He worked for The Kroger Company for 36 years, and was president of the Grocery Manufacturing Division when he retired. Byron served in the U.S. Navy from 1957 to 1959. He does volunteer work in the History/Genealogy Department of the Memphis/ Shelby County Central Library, and heads operations for the disaster relief program of the United Methodist Church’s Memphis Conference.

Byron’s wife, Virginia, will be the new recording secretary. She, too, is a Little Rock native and received a B.A. in English from the U. of A at Little Rock where she was yearbook editor. The Crains have been married more than 43 years, have three children, and four grandchildren. As the spouse of a corporate executive, Virginia has been a successful homemaker in six states.

TGS’ new vice president will be Mrs. Terry Nelson, a retired school teacher and currently night office manager for Dobbs Ford. Terry taught the sixth grade at Goodlett School in Memphis for 30 years, and is putting her teaching skills to work by conducting classes in genealogy for TGS. She also does a regular stint on the TGS library desk.

George Partin, retired CPA, will be business manager. Born in Richmond, Va., he grew up in Parsons, Tenn. and served with the Navy in World War II and in the Korean conflict. He is a graduate of Athens [Ala.] College and the Southern Law University in Memphis.

Mrs. Jennye Miller Scott of Germantown, Tenn., will be the new editor of The Tennessee Genealogical Magazine. Born and educated in Germantown, she is an enthusiastic genealogist and has been researching her family’s history for about four years. Her hobbies include interior decorating, with special interest in faux painting.

Reelected librarian was Mrs. Loretta Bailey, a native Nebraskan and former auditor for the U.S. Department of Agriculture. Loretta has been TGS librarian since the summer of 1999, and has done -- and will continue to do -- an excellent job.

Col. Lucius Wright, West Point graduate, 25-year veteran of the U.S. Army, and area director of General Business Services for 17 years, was reelected treasurer. Born in Denver, Lucius says he was an “Army brat” and there are few places he hasn’t resided. He and his wife have three children.

Delbert Curlin is the new corresponding secretary and researcher. A native of Benton Co., Miss., he is a retired computer specialist who spent most of his career in the U.S. Department of Defense. Mrs. Lorraine “Lori” Trenk returns as director of sales. A native of Syracuse, N.Y., she is a retired nurse and formerly worked with the Baptist Health Care System in Memphis. The new certificate program director is Phyllis Rothammer of Collierville. A native of Arkansas, she descends from the Looney family [later changed to Luna] who were among Tennessee’s earliest families and settlers of Nashboro. Semi-retired, Phyllis now works part-time as credit manager for Southern Leather Company.

Reelected as a director on the TGS board was Doug Gordon, retired purchasing agent for the Tennessee Air National Guard who lives at Fisherville and does all sorts of chores for TGS. Also serving on the board as a director will be outgoing president, Jim Bobo, native Mississippian who has ably headed the Society’s operations for the past five years and is a retired sales manager for the health care product firm of Johnson & Johnson. Jim and his wife Dorothy recently moved to Olive Branch, Miss., adding only a couple of miles to their commute to TGS headquarters.

From this, you can readily see why I retired as editor. Plain old case of being out-classed!

A lot is said about volunteerism. Some of it positive; some negative. But what is most often overlooked is not what the person volunteering gives to a genealogical society or a library or whatever group in the form of time, energy, and thought .... but what that volunteer gets in return. And that’s the satisfaction of having filled a need, shared a “find,” and enjoyed the company of others on like missions. Looking back over my eight years as your editor, I feel compelled to express my thanks for having had the privilege to serve. I got far more than I gave!
Tennesseean John Lyle Writes of 1845 Oregon Migration

In the year 1845, John Eakin Lyle was among the estimated 5,000 hardy souls who took to the Oregon Trail in quest of land and opportunity. Born in Blount County, Tenn., in 1815, he was the son of William G. and Jane (Eakin) Lyle.1

John's siblings, as named in his father's will of 28 Jul 1834,2 were: Margaret Ann (b. ca. 1824),3 Alfred M. (b. in 1827), and William M. Lyle. John apparently left from Illinois with a company of other residents, and headed for Independence, Mo., where they joined one of the numerous wagon trains bound for Oregon Territory.

When their wagon train stopped at Laramie, Wyo., John penned a letter to the editor of the Lacon (Ill.) Gazette describing the trip to that point. His letter, which was reproduced in the Memphis Appeal Avalanche in its issue of 23 Sep 1845, provides an interesting perspective:

"We arrived here last evening, about one-third of the way to the place of our destination. There have been several companies passed this way in advance of us. There are also some in our rear. No person knows the exact number emigrating to Oregon this season on account of their starting at so many different times and from so many different places. Some wise men say there are 600 wagons on the way and they will average four souls to each wagon. I think 500 high enough with four persons each.

"The health of all emigrants I have seen or heard from is good except such as were laboring under disease before leaving the States, and some of them have recovered rapidly. Only two deaths have occurred on the road, so far as I can learn, this year -- none in this company. Emigrants from Putnam and Marshall counties4 are well -- some of them in much better health and spirits than at the commencement of the journey. Our company has 42 wagons and about 750 head of horned cattle including work oxen as also horses and mules. We are about 90 males over 16 years; the number of women and children I do not know, but there is a very fair proportion of them. We have lawyers 3, preachers 2, physicians 0. There are several physicians in other companies to whom we can apply in case of need. We have mechanics of most descriptions, but the great majority of our company are sturdy farmers and stock growers.

"Traders keep some articles to trade to Indians, hunters, and trappers who frequent posts. Everything sold here is at exorbitant prices; coffee at 50 cents per cup, nearly 75 cents per pound; caps, such as cost 2$ at Lacon, are 8 or 10$ here. Some of our company have bought well dressed Buffalo robes for 4 and some for 6 cups of coffee each. Trade is confined principally to licensed traders, but the emigrant is not prohibited from trading as much as is necessary for his own accommodation.

"We have had excellent roads thus far -- better, I think, than could be found the same distance in the States. The weather has been fine except that it has been rather dry most of the time; nights are generally very cool.

Yours respectfully, J. E. Lyle.5"

1 She was the daughter of William and Jane (Paxton) Eakin of Blount Co., Tenn. William Eakin's will, dated 22 Aug 1838(?), left his plantation in Blount County and his interest in a quarter section of land in Illinois to his wife Jane.

2 Blount Co., Tenn., Will Book No. 1, 1788-1858, copied in 1937 under WPA Historical Records Project, published by Mountain Press, Signal Mountain, Tenn. John inherited his father's plantation, livestock, farming tools and utensils, and the obligation to support his mother during her natural life. He also inherited all of his father's books. When his siblings came of age, John was to give his brother William M. $100, his brother Alfred M. $200, and his sister, Margaret Ann, a horse and saddle valued at $75. In 1845, Alfred and Margaret Ann filed a petition in Monroe County court to sell their parents' land. John and William are described in the suit (No. 439) as both being "of parts unknown."

4 Margaret Ann married Francis M. Roberts, son of John C. and Elizabeth (Blackwell) Roberts of Rhea Co., Tenn., on 31 May 1849. They had five children. Francis died in the Civil War.

5 Lacon is the county seat of Marshall Co., Ill., and Putnam is an adjoining county. The first schoolhouse was built at Lacon in 1837 and it is possible that John taught there. The 1840 census lists John Lyle as a resident of Stark Co., Ill., which was formed 2 Mar 1839 from Putnam and Knox counties in Illinois.
John found his ‘Land of Eden’ at the end of the Oregon Trail, settling in Polk County, Ore., which was created 22 Dec 1845 from the Yamhill District and, fittingly, was named for another Tennessean, President James K. Polk.

On 19 Mar 1846, John inserted an ad in the Oregon Spectator, the area’s first newspaper, announcing that he would open the Jefferson Institute for boys and girls in the Rickreall Valley in April. It would be the first school in the county, and its tuition would be $8 per scholar for the 24-week session. When the school opened, John had a total of 15 students. The school was held in a log cabin which on Sundays served as a meeting place for a non-denominational church and also doubled as a site for county court sessions.5

On 3 Nov 1846, John took a wife — 21-year old Ellen Scott, a native of St. Charles, Mo., who the year before had migrated to California with her parents, 58-year old Felix Scott and wife, Nancy Ellen (Castillo) Scott,6 and eight of her siblings. After a year in California, the Scotts had come to Oregon. In common with John, Ellen had Tennessee roots. Her mother, the former Nancy Ellen Castillo, had been born in Tennessee 13 Sep 1805 and was the daughter of John Castillo and Eleanor Harrison Lowe who married in Nashville on 3 Aug 1795.7

In 1848, John with his father-in-law, Felix, and two of his brothers-in-law, Felix, Jr., and Marion Scott, joined in the Gold Rush to California. They are said to have mined there successfully for a year before returning to Oregon. John was postmaster of the Dallas post office in 1852.

John and Ellen had seven children, all born in Polk County:

John died at the age of 47 on 9 Sep 1862 — a month before the deaths of seven-year old Felix and three-year old Julia. Ellen — with the help of her children — continued to keep up the family farm. The 1880 census lists her as living in Dallas, Polk County, with three of her grown children (Harriet, Joanna, and William) and four grandchildren.8 Ellen died 28 June 1890 in her 64th year, and is buried with her children in Dallas Cemetery just south of town. John’s grave site is unknown.

5 John and several other men obtained a charter for LaCreole Academy in 1856, selling lots in the original town plat to fund the project.

6 Felix was born in Monongalia, Va., 13 Dec 1786. He was a lawyer and member of the legislature in Virginia before migrating to Missouri. Nancy and Felix were married 5 Apr 1821 in St. Charles, Mo. She was his second wife, and they had 9 children. Felix was killed by Indians in Oregon in 1858. Nancy died 9 Dec 1882 in Dallas, Ore. 8 Living two doors from Ellen and her family were former Tennesseans James and J. Mary Grigsby and their five children. Two of the Grigsby children — Milbond (m.), 9, and B. Adria (f.), 6 — had been born in Tennessee. The other three - C. Robert, 4; C. Lula, 2, and an unnamed two-month old infant daughter - were born in Oregon.

Duplicate Land Warrant Sought For Robert Alexander on Duck River

Attorney Robert Henry filed a memorial with the Tennessee General Assembly in 1817 saying he had lost or misplaced a duplicate warrant issued for 2,000 acres of land on Duck River.1 Acting as Robert Alexander’s attorney, Henry had procured Grant No. 396 from the State of North Carolina dated 17 Dec 1784. At that time the Duck River property was in North Carolina, but after the area became part of Tennessee, the grant was dissolved by West Tennessee commissioners who said the boundaries of the land could not be identified.

An affidavit filed with Henry’s memorial shows Alexander swore in open court during the April 1804 term of the Court of Pleas and Quarterly Sessions, Lincoln Co., N.C., he had purchased the land.2 Alexander said he had never been on Duck River or its waters and could not say anything of his own knowledge concerning its location. He entered his purchase with John Armstrong, then entry taker in North Carolina, and hired David Wilson to survey the land. A plat and certificate were then made and the grant was issued.

A duplicate warrant (No. 329) was then issued by the West Tennessee commissioners, but in 1810, Henry — still acting as Alexander’s attorney — lost or mislaid the duplicate warrant. In Oct 1817 he petitioned the Tennessee legislature to issue another duplicate warrant so he could procure the land for the heirs of Robert Alexander, who had died in the meantime. Henry filed an affidavit 14 Oct 1817 in Haywood Co., N.C., stating he had never given the duplicate to Alexander or anyone else, and had not bartered, sold, or transferred the land.3

that 21-year-old Melville M. Murrell of Morristown, Hamblen Co., Tenn., in 1876 made the first attempt at building an airplane? He received a patent for what he called ‘The American Flying Machine’ on 14 Aug 1877 — some 22 years before the Wright brothers built their first plane. Pieces of Murrell’s plane were donated by the family to the Air Force Museum at Wright-Patterson Field in Dayton, O., and later were sent to the Smithsonian Institute. Murrell later became a circuit-riding Methodist minister. He died in 1933, leaving a son Mike and a daughter Rebecca.

Gallatin Citizens Seek Town Bank

Citizens of Gallatin in Sumner County called on the state legislature in 1817 to pass a law incorporating a bank for their town with a capital of $200,000. In a petition6 to the Tennessee General Assembly, residents said they had “long labored under the great inconvenience” of not having a local bank. They pointed out that the distance from Gallatin to Nashville was considerable and made it expensive to do business there.

The Gallatin residents also said the capital of Nashville’s banks was barely sufficient for the wants of its own citizens and those in the immediate vicinity. This deficiency of bank capital was of concern, they noted, because at least two-thirds of the paper money then in circulation was either in North Carolina, Virginia, or Kentucky bills. IN THE CASE OF THOMAS SCOTT

Final Pension Payment Record Yields Unexpected Dividends

(Developed from information compiled by Jane P. Paessler, 4260 Long Creek Rd., Memphis, TN 38125)

In 1847 — ten years after the death of Revolutionary War veteran Thomas Scott of Williamson County, Tenn. — his son and administrator, Arthur Scott, decided to seek the $14.38 the government owed his father for the 175 days that had expired between his last pension payment on 4 Mar 1837 and his death on 25 Aug 1837.1

While $14.38 today might sound like a paltry sum, TGS member Frank Paessler — one of Thomas’ present-day descendants — is glad Arthur decided to go for it. If he hadn’t, the identity of Thomas’ children might not ever have been turned up. The information — from a statement made 1 Feb 1847 by Samuel B. McCowries, clerk of the Court of Monthly Sessions in Williamson County — surfaced in Final Pension Payment #5674 stashed away in the National Archives & Records Administration in Washington.

In his statement, McCowries said Thomas Scott left no widow when he died, but did leave seven children: William,2 Thomas, John, Charles, James, Margaret,3 and Arthur. During the decade following the pensioner’s death, his son Charles Scott had died. The clerk also noted that all of the surviving children were Tennessee residents except Thomas, Jr., who was living in Missouri.

Thomas, Sr., at age 70, had been granted a yearly pension4 for his service in the Revolutionary Army under the pension law passed 7 June 1832. He was to receive $30 a year beginning 4 Mar 1831 and was to be paid semi-annually with payments being made on 4 Mar and 4 Sep every year during his natural life.

The list of the children’s names tallies with the list of five buyers at the sale of his private property. Thomas died intestate, and the inventory and sale of his property was recorded at the county courthouse in Franklin during the February 1838 term.5 Items sold included two books, an oil stone and hone, a razor and strop, his spectacles and case, scales, a trunk and its contents, his watch, a rifle and pouch, his bed and furniture. As it turned out, three of the purchasers — Arthur, Charles, and James Scott — were his sons; a fourth, John R. McKay, was his son-in-law, and the fifth buyer, William A. McKay, was probably John’s brother or other relative. A Negro woman named Lucy, aged 40, was not sold.

Thomas, born 12 Aug 1762 in County Antrim, Ireland, had come to America in 1768 with his parents William, 40, and Mary, 35, and four siblings6 on board the James & Mary from Larne in Northern Ireland (Ulster). When the ship put in at Charleston, S.C., the clerk of Council was said to have boarded and administered the loyalty oath to the Protestant passengers.7 William Scott was granted 450 acres in the area of Berkeley Co., S.C., which in 1785 became Laurens County.

Also arriving at Charleston from Ireland that same year was Thomas’ future wife, five-year old Margaret “Peggy” O’Neal, who came with her parents, John, 40, and Margaret, 35, and siblings Jane, 15, Alice, 12, and

1 That sum would have equaled $471.86 in 2022 (the latest year figures are available). What Arthur didn’t know — since he couldn’t use Milton Friedman’s inflation calculator as we did — was that the purchasing power of $14.38 in 1837 had actually dropped to $11.75 by 1847.
2 He married Eunice Reed in Williamson County on 9 Dec 1819. [Source: Whitley, Edythe Rucker: Williamson Co., Tenn., Marriages, 1804-1850, p. 168.] According to their Family Bible, William was born 17 Nov 1786 and Eunice/Unice was born 10 Nov 1791 in North Carolina. They had nine children: John T. (b. 24 Oct 1820); Margaret Lavlnia (b. 16 Sep 1822); William S. (b. 16 Dec 1823); Elizabeth A. (b. 14 Sep 1825); James R. (b. 16 Dec 1826); Sarah J. (b. 15 May 1828); Charles A. J. (b. 2 Dec 1829); Mary E. (b. 9 Nov 1831), and Martha E. (b. 11 Aug 1835). The family moved to Obion Co., Tenn., in Nov 1830 and settled near what is now Union City. [Godspeed’s History of Tennessee: Obion County, p. 974.] William died 8 Feb 1848 and Eunice died 11 Oct 1856, both in Obion County.
3 Married John P. McKay
4 Pension No. S-3662. [Note: His pension number differs from the Final Pension Payment which was numbered 5674.]

6 Thomas’ siblings were identified on the ship’s passenger list as James, 14; William, Jr., 10; Robert, 7; and Ann, 8. [Thomas’ name was given as John on the passenger list. He was four years old at the time.]

Arthur, 3, on board the Lord Dunagannon. They, too, settled in the area that became Laurens County. John was granted land in that area in Aug 1774. Peggy's mother Margaret apparently died before 5 Jan 1803 because John's will, written on that date and probated 25 June 1805, refers to his wife Annegan.

On 1 June 1781 at the age of 19, Thomas Scott volunteered as a ranger to protect frontier settlements during the Revolutionary War. He entered the Army as a private under command of Capt. Robert Maxwell and Lt. John Adams, serving principally in Laurens and Abbeville counties but occasionally was marched into adjoining counties and into Georgia. In two instances, he and his company marched into the Cherokee Nation, once under Col. Robert Anderson and once under Gen. Andrew Pickens. He also served 40 days in 1782 as a sergeant on horseback in the militia under Capt. Richard Green. After serving some nine months or so, Thomas was discharged about 15 Mar 1882. He returned home and continued living in the Laurens and Abbeville area until about 1810 when he moved to Warren Co., Ky., for several years and then to Montgomery Co., Tenn., for a year. In about 1815 he located in Williamson County, removed to Christian Co., Ky., until 1826 when he returned to Williamson where he remained the rest of his life.

While the date of his marriage to Margaret O'Neal is not known, it apparently occurred some time before 1788. In witnessing a deed her father made to his son-in-law in Laurens County at that time, she is listed as Margaret Scott. In another deed dated 15 Nov 1797, John O'Neal gives a Negro girl "to my loving daughter Margaret Scott, wife of Thomas Scott."

When Thomas Scott died in the 75th year of his age, the Western Weekly Review of 1 Sep 1837 said of him:

"He was an esteemed and respected citizen of this county ... a man of strict integrity who was upright and honorable in all his intercourse with the world ... and beloved by all who knew him."

It was an obituary that would have made the old Irishman proud.

FAMILY BIBLE OF LECIL & HESTER ANN BOBO
Contributed by M. Julia Hook, 5800 E. Sixth Avenue Parkway, Denver, CO 80220, (303) 321-7403, Zephyrtwo@aol.com

This Bible is a New Testament, King James Version, printed and published in 1817 by M. Carey & Son, No. 124 (? Chestnut Street, Philadelphia, Pa. My husband and I have in our possession a very poor photostatic copy of the cover page of the Bible and of the Family Record portion, but I did transcribe the entire Family Record portion some ten years ago while looking at the actual Bible. The ink was faded and the handwriting sometimes difficult to read, but the transcription was as close as I could get it. I have indicated in the footnotes where the handwriting changed from that of the original entries (probably made by Hester Ann Putman Bobo). Entries for the McNeely family were made in the Family Record portion when the Bible came into that family's possession in the late 1860s. These have been excluded.

This is the last Bobo entry. The entries in the Bible for the McNeely family start in 1878 and run through the 1920s. My husband, David L. Smith, is a great-grandson of T. G. McNeely, who married Rhoda Bobo. After a good bit of research, we concluded that the Bible came into possession of William Carroll Bobo and his wife, Amanda Smith Bobo, after the death of his parents (Lecil and Hester). The last entries in the Bible prior to the first McNeely entries are those pertaining to William and Amanda's marriage, her birth, and the death of Betsy Robuck Bobo's husband, Travis Bowden — all in 1850. We believe the Bible remained in William's possession until his death at Fredericksburg in 1862. When Amanda married John Campbell in Henderson Co., Tex., in the late 1860s (or perhaps earlier), it is possible that she gave the Bible to her sister-in-law, Rhoda Bobo Sutton who was living in nearby Anderson County. [Rhoda's second husband, Jacob Sutton, died in Anderson in the early 1860s.]

After 1861 and prior to 1870, Rhoda married T. G. (Thomas Grier) McNeely [born in Alabama, 1820, the son of Joseph (?) and Ellender McNeely]. The marriage probably took place in Anderson County or possibly in Ellis Co., Tex. Thomas and Rhoda McNeely appear on the 1870 Ellis County census (although T.G.'s birth year is wrong, Rhoda's is correct and the birthplaces of both are correct). Rhoda McNeely died prior to September 1876 (when T.G. remarried). At her death, the Bible possibly was among her possessions and remained with T.G. He married Margaret McDaniel Rawson in Navarro Co., Tex., in 1876, and they had three children before he died in 1882. When he died, the Bobo Bible must have been among his belongings. After his widow remarried in the mid-1880s, she died in childbirth, and it appears to be at this point that someone (we do not know who as the McNeely children would have been too young to have done this), made entries about the births, marriages and deaths of the McNeely Family (starting with T.G.). The McNeely entries continued into the 1920s.

Editor's Note: Lecil and Hester Ann (Putman) Bobo came to Tennessee from South Carolina about 1816 and settled in the area of Bedford County from which Coffee County was created in 1836. Lecil was among commissioners appointed to run the boundary line for Coffee and locate its county seat. He was one of the first magistrates in the county, served as county court clerk from 1840-1844, and was Coffee's first representative in the Tennessee General Assembly (1843-1845). In the early summer of 1846 Lecil and Hester migrated to Texas with their daughter, Rhoda, her husband Jacob Sutton, and their two small children, settling in Van Zandt County. Lecil was the son of Burwell and Elizabeth (Robuck) Bobo, Spartanburg, and Hester was the daughter of the Rev. John and Sarah (Howard) Putman, Union Co., S.C.

6 The calculation of Francis Marion Bobo's age in this entry does not appear to be consistent with his birth date of April 24, 1824. This entry is in a different handwriting from the two previous ones.
7 This entry is in the same handwriting as the original entries, including the one about the marriage of Lecil Bobo and Hester Ann Putman — hence our conclusion that Hester Ann made the majority of Bobo entries in the Bible.
8 This entry is in a different handwriting from the others.
9 The handwriting in this entry appears to be the same as the 1850 entries relating to Amanda and William's marriage and Amanda's birth.

An Amazing Two Weeks of Shelby County Probate Court

The Shelby County Probate Court reopened in November 1878 after being shut down during the worst yellow fever epidemic in Memphis' history.

Hundreds of children had been left orphans, and a large number of estates had been left without proper persons to handle them. During the first two weeks of November, virtually all of the court's time was taken up with appointing guardians or administrators, admitting wills to probate, and allowing one year's support for widows. These appointments, listed in the Memphis Avalanche of 13-14 Nov 1878 and the Appeal of 14-15 Nov, are of special interest because they contain the names of some yellow fever victims and survivors whose names might not appear on other lists. Because some names appear in one list and not in the other, the following is a combination of the two. Where surname spellings differed, both versions are included.

CHARMING Kitty Cheatham of the Daly Company is succeeding admirably on the stage. This is ending her fifth season before the footlights. When she left her home in Nashville where her distinguished father had been mayor, and it became known that she had decided to go upon the stage, the good people of that Southern town held up their hands in holy horror and predicted she was going straight to the dominions of perdition. For two seasons, she was a member of the McCaul Opera Company, and then she was secured by Daly for his company. In her brief career, she has praiseworthy enacted nearly 30 characters, a decided compliment to her versatility.

THE BEAUTIFUL country residence of Dr. J. N. Living in the house besides Dr. Brown was his son James, about 19; several female members of his family; and Major Penn, very old and feeble, indeed almost helpless, and his daughter. ONE DAY last week a Mrs. Fulcher of Rutherford County appealed to County Judge Ferriss for information of a son of her husband by his first wife. She said that after the death of the boy’s mother, the boy — a mere child — was turned over to County Judge Caldwell to be given a home. His father soon lost all trace of him but now wanted his son to come back to him. While Mrs. Fulcher was in Judge Ferriss’ office, the son — now 20 years old — came in with ex-Judge Caldwell and said he was anxious to find his father from whom he had been separated for years. Judge Ferriss asked him his name and when he learned it was Fulcher introduced him to his stepmother. Explanations followed and it was learned that the boy had lived the last years on a farm near his father’s but did not know it. Mrs. Fulcher and the young man returned home.

MRS. ANNIE P. TINSLEY whose tragic death at Los Angeles was announced in press dispatches last week, was formerly Miss Annie Pittman. She was reared at Denmark, Madison County, and at Memphis by Mrs. H. D. Harris, now of Jackson. She lived in Jackson a few years and was an accomplished musician. She gave private lessons here and was highly esteemed by all who knew her. She left Jackson about two years ago and was married at Van Buren, Ark., last January.

IT TOOK 12 BALLOTS to do it, but Elizabeth Messick was elected Shelby County superintendent of public instruction by a landslide vote over her three opponents 3 Jan 1905. She won 28 of the 44 votes cast by county commissioners, who earlier had voted to raise the superintendent’s annual salary from $1,200 to $1,500. Other candidates for the job were Maude Moore, the incumbent who was seeking her third term; Mable Williams, and Mildred Minor. All four of the women were well known in the school work of the county. It was thought that one or more of the candidates would drop out of the race early in the balloting, but the seemingly equal division of strength kept them all in the race and made defeat harder to bear when it came. Miss Messick, whose name had been placed in nomination by Justice Thompson, is a native of Shelby’s 11th District and has been a teacher for several years. [Abstracted]

-1 She was shot and killed 27 Dec 1900 on a Los Angeles street by her husband, John W. Tinsley, who then fired a bullet into his own head. He was said to have deceived and defrauded her, inducing her to sell her home and other property in Jackson, Tenn., using her money to pay for their honeymoon, and stealing her diamonds. Tinsley reportedly had another wife in Helena, Mont. Annie [Anna] was born in Memphis, and was the daughter of the late R. P. Pittman, cotton broker, and his late wife, a former Brownsville resident whose maiden name was Taylor. [Memphis Commercial Appeal, 28 Dec 1900]

Lucy Walker Keel
Surely Set A Record
For Forgiveness

Lucy Walker Keel of East Tennessee must surely hold the record for being a forgiving wife.

In 1846 she married John Keel who lived near her father’s house on the edge of Tennessee not far from Hopkinsville, Ky. As told in the Knoxville Evening Sentinel of 19 Sep 1889, the couple lived together 30 years and raised a family of four children. After all the children married and moved away, the old couple became lonely and got a young woman named June Hunter to come and live with them. She was about 20, bright, and attractive. When it became evident that Keel was much attracted to the younger woman, Lucy grew jealous and accused him of falling in love with June. Keel frankly admitted it, and said he would marry her if he didn’t already have a wife. With this, Lucy left and obtained a divorce.

The old man and the young woman then married, moved over the line into Kentucky, and bought a farm three miles from Hopkinsville. They lived together 12 years, then separated, and the second Mrs. Keel obtained a divorce. John came back to Tennessee where the wife of his youth had remained faithful and alone. They remarried 11 Sep 1889, and returned to the farm where they began life when first married 43 years ago.

Alex Casteel And Wife
Of McMinn County
Die Only 3 Days Apart

Alexander Casteel, aged 63, died at his home three miles southwest of Athens in McMinn County on 4 Apr 1862. Three days later, on the 7th day of April at the same place, Mrs. Susannah Casteel died in the 60th year of her age.

The couple had lived together as husband and wife for nearly 40 years, and their longest separation was but a few days in death.

Tennesseneans Slain
In ‘Dawson Massacre’
In Republic of Texas

A list of Tennesseneans who were slain by a Mexican force at the battle of Saludo in the Republic of Texas appeared in the Tuscaloosa (Ala.) Independent Monitor of 16 Nov 1842 under the heading “Another Horrid Butchery in Texas.”

The battle, which took place 18 Sep 1842, is sometimes referred to as the “Dawson Massacre.”

According to the Alabama paper, the list was supplied by James P. Hudson, a citizen of LaGrange, Tex., who was formerly of Winchester, Tenn. He had assisted in burying the bodies of the slain men. The names were arranged under the states from which they migrated to Texas or of which they were natives.

Commented The Monitor: “Contrary to the practice of all civilized nations relative to prisoners of war, 31 of the 47 who surrendered as such were cruelly murdered by the Mexican army.”

A. H. GRANTHAM

He Planted High Principles in Young Minds

For more than a quarter of a century, A. H. “Alex” Grantham was known throughout Tennessee as a leading educator and a school superintendent of unusual and exceptional skills. And when he died at the age of 51 in a Memphis hospital on 19 June 1932, there was a great outpouring of love and affection. As The Covington Leader so aptly put it, he was a man who “had planted in hundreds of receptive young minds the seeds of his finest principles.”

In Memphis, The Commercial Appeal noted that Grantham had taught in schools at Troy, Adamsville, Bethel Springs, and Millington before becoming superintendent of education, first in McNairy County and then in the Covington school system in Tipton County.

“During those long years of service, he had an important part to play in the molding of character and he did his work well,” The Appeal commented. “Professor Grantham erected for himself a monument that will live long after the memory of others is gone.”

The West Tennessee Superintendents’ Group passed a resolution at its annual meeting, recognizing Grantham’s contributions to education as being of “far-reaching, lasting, and incalculable value.” Still another resolution, this one by the Covington Lions Club, described him as “one of Covington’s greatest benefactors and one of its leading citizens.”

His former students had fond memories of him. Typical of their reactions to his death was that of an official at the University of Tennessee who recalled that he had just entered high school at Troy when Grantham began teaching there. “I feel that without a doubt he had the greatest influence on my life of any man that it was ever my privilege to attend school under,” Ralph C. McDade commented. “His influence and his deep interest in all his students made him a man of most exceptional teaching ability.” Reflecting the warm regard in which he was held by students was a telegram from the senior class at Covington’s Byars-Hall High School to him in the hospital on the night of their graduation [12 May 1932], expressing regret that he was unable to be with them and wishing him a speedy recovery.

Grantham died of pneumonia, but family members said he had never fully recovered from the severe injuries he suffered 10 Dec 1931 when a truck from Memphis slammed into his car on the Loosahatchie River bridge near Woodstock, crushing his body.

At the time of his death, he was president of the West Tennessee Education Society and a board member of the Tennessee Secondary School Athletic Association.

Born 20 Nov 1880 at Woodville in western Chester County, Alex was the fifth of 12 children born to James Morgan Grantham and Clarissa Ann Armour, both native Tennesseans.

1 His full name was Alexander Hamilton Grantham.

2 Editorial, 23 June 1932

3 The Commercial Appeal, 20 June 1932. Grantham became principal at Millington in about 1920-21. He was superintendent of education in McNairy County for seven years, and at Covington for the five years preceding his death.

4 Chester County was created in 1879 from parts of Hardeman and McNairy counties.

5 James Morgan Grantham was born 29 Mar 1851 in Woodville, and died 27 Jan 1944 in Chester County. His parents, James Patrick Grantham (b. 17 Oct 1826 in Wayne Co., N.C., d. 15 June 1903 in Chester Co., Tenn.) and Emilline Ruth Franks (b. 7 Oct 1829 in Middleton, Hardeman Co., Tenn., d. 30 Aug 1903, Chester County) were among early settlers of Woodville (then in McNairy County). The 1870 McNairy County census lists their children as: James M., 16; Mary C., 15; Emily F., 12; Nancy E., 10; Susan M., 7; John W., 4; William J., 4; and Richard L., 1. James Patrick's parents, Elias and Martha (Cannon) Grantham, and grandparents, Sion and Rachel?) Grantham, had migrated to Hardeman Co., Tenn., from Wayne Co., N.C., ca. 1826. [Source: Johnson, Ronald E. - "Descendants of Edward Grantham of Surry Co., Va.; Grantham Gazette, Vol. 4, Issue 2, Apr 2000, pp. 4-5, Robbinsville, N.C.]
His siblings, all born at Woodville,\(^7\) were:

- Martha Emily Grantham - b. 7 Jan 1877, d. 25 June 1918 at Bethel Springs, McNairy Co., m. in 1894 to Dr. Thomas Scott Davis (1862-1935). Children: Conan Erskine Davis and Crowley Armour Davis.
- Virginia "Jennie" Rosetta Grantham - b. 6 Nov 1884, d. 12 Aug 1886.
- Doris Cleveland Grantham - b. 1 Jan 1889, d. 23 Sep 1914, m. William Lafayette Sparks (1882-1927). Children: Alma Jo Sparks, Willa Almond Sparks, and Mary Clara Sparks.
- Gertrude Grantham - b. 8 May 1891, d. 21 Sep 1908, m. Earnest Cleveland Cox (1893- ). One child: Roy Leander Cox.

Alex received his early schooling at Bethel Springs, took a course in the preparatory department at Georgia Roberson Christian College in Henderson (Chester County), and then studied at Valparaiso University in Indiana where he joined the Southern Society. He then returned to the G.R.C. College in Henderson — which by then had been renamed the National Teachers’ Normal & Business College\(^8\) — receiving his Bachelor of Science degree in 1909 and graduating as class orator, and president of both Sigma Rho Society and the Philomathian Society (a literary society). While in school at Henderson, he met and in 1912 married Etta May McCallum, a music teacher and the daughter of E. L. (Edwin Lafayette) and Callie Aris (Muse) McCallum.\(^9\) Etta’s family was widely known in the area, her father having been one of Henderson County’s first school teachers and having started the first grocery store in his home in the Poplar Springs community. Her father eventually would become a merchant in Henderson, and her uncles, E. E. and J. D. Muse, owned and operated a general store, Muse & Company, in Lexington for 21 years.\(^10\)

Alex and Etta’s first child — a daughter — died 27 Nov 1913 when she was only three days old.

After teaching at schools in Adamsville, Troy, and Bethel Springs, Alex in 1916 became superintendent of education in McNairy County, a post he held for four years. In 1920, he received a Bachelor of Arts degree from Union University in Jackson, where he was described in the school yearbook as “ever precise in promise-keeping.” His next position was at Millington Central High in Shelby County where he was principal for six years. \(^6\) Clarissa, born 21 Apr 1855 in McNairy County, died 6 Dec 1937. She was the daughter of Mitchell Hicks Armour (b. 14 Mar 1830 in Dickson Co., Tenn., d. 14 June 1905 in Chester Co., Tenn.) and Martha Eliza Isbell (b. 18 Dec 1836 in McNairy County; d. 4 Oct 1897 in Chester County.) James Morgan Grantham and Clarissa were married 2 Oct 1872 in McNairy County. Both buried in Woodville Cemetery.

\(^7\) Woodville was in McNairy County during the birth of the first four children. By the time Alex was born in 1880, it had become part of the newly created Chester County.

\(^8\) The school was founded as Henderson Male & Female Institute in 1869, became Henderson Masonic Male & Female Institute in 1877, West Tennessee Christian College in 1885, Georgi Roberson Christian College in 1897, and the National Teachers’ Normal & Business College in 1907. After 1919, it became Freed-Hardeman College (now Freed-Hardeman University).

\(^9\) Ed and Callie married at her mother’s home in Jackson, Tenn., 12 Jan 1876. [Lexington Reporter, 21 Jan 1876]. They had two children, Muse McCullum (b. 13 Apr 1879, d. 8 Jan 1937) and Etta McCullum (b. 29 Oct 1885, d. 16 Dec 1973 in Memphis). Ed, who served in the 21st Cavalry (Wilson's) during the Civil War, was born in 1845 and died in 1919. Callie, born 12 Jan 1855, was a daughter of Daniel Chaunitn Muse (b. 27 Feb 1811-1-2 Jan 1865) and wife, Eliza Stone (b. May 1817, d. 17 June 1876) who had come to Henderson Co., Tenn., from Pittsylvania Co., Va., about 1836. Callie’s 11 siblings were: Judge Thomas Christopher Muse (b. 23 Jan 1834); Matilda E. Muse (b. 25 Dec 1835); Isaac J. Muse (b. 20 Jan 1838); Mary A. E. Muse (b. 28 Jan 1841); Eliza Jennie Muse (b. 3 Jul 1843); Dr. John Robert Muse (b. 12 Mar 1846); Henry Lawson Muse (b. 1848); William Asher Muse (b. 1852); Emerson Etheridge Muse (b. 29 Sep 1857); Ida Lillian Muse (b. 8 Mar 1858); and James Daniel Muse (b. 19 Feb 1863). Callie died 15 Oct 1933 at her daughter’s home in Memphis. Ed, Callie, and both their children are buried in Henderson City Cemetery.

his tenure, the school became the first in the county to have a gymnasium. It was built in 1922 with funds raised by citizens. Alex's brother, Kirk, was coach at Millington in 1921-22. During the summers, Alex taught at West Tennessee State Teachers College (now the University of Memphis.) In 1927 he accepted the position of superintendent of schools in Covington. During his five years there before his untimely death, new buildings were added and the schools gained a statewide reputation for excellence.

In the meantime, Alex and Etta had four more children:

4. Martha Jean Grantham - b. 27 Dec 1926 in Memphis, Tenn. Married 14 Aug 1948 in Memphis to Charles Karl Frank, Jr. (b. 4 Jan 1923 - d. 16 Oct 1982). Children: Charles K. Frank III (m. Lynda Ballard); Edwin Grantham Frank (m. Rosanne Rast); Gene Frederick Frank, and Louis McCallum Frank. [Ed Frank's son and only child is named Alexander Grantham Frank for his great-grandfather.]

Educators from all over Tennessee attended Alex's funeral services at Covington which were conducted by the Rev. E. W. Crump, and a funeral cortège accompanied his body to Henderson where a short service was held before his burial in the City Cemetery.

An editorial in The Covington Leader eloquently summed up his life with these words:

"Men build fortunes, go deeply into research work for the very love of learning. Their discoveries are vastly beneficial to the human race....Men scale the peaks in hundreds of lines of endeavor and their ambition is laudable .... That man, however, who takes no thought to future laurels, who is entirely forlorn of self in utter concentration upon the lives of boys and girls, is all unconsciously ambitious indeed.....

"Such a man will have planted in hundreds of receptive young minds the seeds of his finer principles which will go out over the length and breadth of the land, perpetuating his memory through the loveliest of perennial fruit -- ambitions young men and women of character and purpose.

"Such a man was Prof. A. H. Grantham, late superintendent of the Covington city schools."

The Spradling Family of East Tennessee

[Adapted from the Athens, Tenn., Post, Historical Number, published Saturday, 11 May 1901, with additional information from other sources included]

Richard Spradling, Sr., came to Tennessee from his native Virginia in 1825, settling near the headwaters of Rogers Creek, then known as the Hiwassee Purchase and now known as McMinn County. Fifty years old at the time, he had been born near Charlottesville in Albermarle Co., Va., in 1775.

He and his first wife, Elizabeth Baber, had seven children:

1. Stanley Spradling — lived and died near the mouth of Sale Creek in Hamilton Co., Tenn.
2. Overton Spradling
3. Richard Spradling, Jr. — born 8 Nov 1813 in Virginia and came with his father to the Hiwassee Purchase in 1825, remaining a citizen of McMinn County’s Third District until his death 9 Dec 1888. He was married to Charlotte Cowan by Justice of the Peace Jonathan Thomas on 17 Feb 1836. Her father, Robert Cowan, had been a Revolutionary War soldier. Richard, Jr., became a prominent McMinn County citizen. He was a staunch Baptist and a Democrat. He and Charlotte had 12 children: Elizabeth, Robert, Jasper, John, Louisa, Amanda, James, Tennessee, Nancy, Adaline, and William — all of whom were widely known throughout most of McMinn and Meigs counties.
5. Mary Ann Spradling — first wife of John Hart, Sr., who was still living in the Third Civil District of McMinn County in 1901 near the old plantation of his father-in-law. Mary Ann died before Oct 1871, leaving three children.
7. Amanda Spradling — born ca. 1823; married on 27 Feb 1843 to James Emberson Sliger (b. 22 June 1823) in McMinn County. They moved to California where they resided at Hamilton in Butte County. The 1860 census shows they had two children, Joe and Mary. James died 8 Aug 1875 near Oroville in Butte County.

Following the death of his first wife, Richard, Sr., married Mrs. Hannah West on 28 Nov 1843. He died intestate in McMinn County probably some time in 1870 or 1871. On 21 Oct 1871 his son Richard, Jr., filed a petition to sell his father’s land for division. Named as defendants in the petition were his siblings, Mortimer Spradling of Meigs County; Stanley Spradling of Hamilton County; John N. Spradling, residence unknown;

1 No information other than his name was given in The Post.
2 Robert J. Spradling, b. 31 Jul 1842 in McMinn Co., enlisted in Co. D, 43rd Tenn. Infantry at age 20. He was captured at Vicksburg, paroled in Jul 1863, and took the oath in Sep 1863. His pension application, filed 16 Jul 1907 in McMinn County, was rejected. At the time he had a 70-year-old wife and a 34-year-old invalid daughter. [Civil War Pension Files, S-9318]
3 The 1900 McMinn County census shows Jasper, then 57, was born in Jul 1842. His wife Susan, born in Tennessee in Feb 1837, was 63. They had two children at the time: Charles, 31 (b. in May 1869), day laborer; and daughter Demie (?), 27, b. Nov 1872.
4 John Liltburn Spradling is listed in the 1900 McMinn County census as a 55-year-old farmer (b. 3 Nov 1844). He and his wife, Elsie, 51 (b. Dec 1849) were living in the Third District with daughters Flora (?) , 25 (b. Oct 1874), and Gertie, 18 (b. Nov 1862). Living with them was Elsie’s mother, Elizabeth Triplett, who was b. in Tenn. in Nov 1820 and was the widow of Perry Triplett of Kentucky. John had enlisted in Co. D, 43rd Tennessee Infantry, in Oct 1862 and served until the end of the Civil War. He died 20 Mar 1902 in McMinn County, and Elsie applied for and was granted a widow’s pension [W602]. Elsie died in 1921 at the age of 71. [Wifeinger, Edna: McMinn County Vital Statistics, 1913-1920, published by Cleveland (Tenn.) Public Library, p. 51.]

Amanda Spradling Sliger, Butte Co., Calif., and Louise Spradling Brandon. Other heirs named in the suit were the children of the late Mary Ann (Spradling) Hart — John Hart, Benjamin Hart, and Elizabeth (Hart) Robeson, wife of James Robeson. In Oct 1874, Amanda and her husband gave Richard a power of attorney to receive their share of her father's estate.

Richard, Sr., would have been especially proud of the accomplishments of at least two of his grandchildren. Robert Spradling, the second child of Richard Spradling, Jr., and his wife Charlotte, was born 23 Jul 1839 at the old home place on Rogers Creek and was educated in the common schools at home and at Fountain Hill Academy near Niota, Tenn. On 29 Dec 1859, he married Sarah E. Jones, only child of the Rev. Milton E. and Nancy C. Jones. During the Civil War, he served in the Confederate Army’s Company D of the 43d Tennessee Volunteers for three years and nine months [to the end of the war]. He and his family took up residence in Meigs County in 1880. Robert was postmaster at Euchee for eight years, a justice of the peace for six years, and county court chairman for two years. In 1890 he was elected to a four-year term as county court clerk, and was twice reelected. Robert served as clerk of the Rogers Creek Church for 20 years and clerk of the Hiwassee Baptist Association for five years. He was named president of the Meigs County Interdenominational Sunday School Assembly when it was organized 1883, and served as chairman of the Eastanallee Baptist Association beginning in 1896. A Masonic leader, Robert had been made a Master Mason in Meridian Sun Lodge No. 50 at Athens in 1872, and was for 10 years secretary of the Ten Mile Valley Lodge. In 1890, he joined Meigs Lodge No. 213 in Decatur and during his long and active membership filled every station in the lodge. Robert and Sarah had 11 children, only five of whom were still living in 1901: Lewis W., Robert Lee, Leotti, Thomas, and Maggie.

Richard, Jr.’s eldest son, Lewis W., became a medical doctor. He was born near the old homestead on Rogers Creek on 10 Aug 1867. After coming out of school, he spent six years as a machinist11 and in 1893 began the study of medicine. He attended Chattanooga Medical College in the winter of 1894-95 and, following an examination by the state board of medical examiners, was licensed to practice in 1896. He attended the session of the Medical Department at the University of Nashville in 1897-98, another in 1898-99, and graduated in April 1899. He moved with his family to Athens on 4 Oct 1900. He had been married in 1889 to Martha T. King,12 descendant of the historic and venerable John Sevier whose remains are at rest in the courthouse yard at Knoxville. At the time of the 1900 census of McMinn County — enumerated 8 June 1900 — Lewis and his wife had three children: Martha (b. Nov 1891); Vivian (b. Sep 1895); and Robbie (b. June 1898). Lewis died 1st Jan 1936 in Athens at age 69.

Smith Seeks Pay for Supervising Turnpike Construction In 1814

John I. Smith of White County petitioned the Tennessee General Assembly in 1815 for compensation for work he and his father, the late Bird Smith, had done on the turnpike road leading through the mountains from East to West Tennessee.13

According to the petition, some time in 1811 Bird Smith was appointed the state’s agent to superintend the building of the turnpike at a salary of $500 plus a $150 annual allowance to pay the gatekeeper. In November of that year, Bird was called to march with the state militia in what became the War of 1812. Before departing, he appointed his son John to act as superintendent until his return. Bird, however, was killed in the Battle of New Orleans on 19 Feb 1814. John continued in his father’s role as turnpike superintendent, doing all the buying for the road work until about 10 May 1815 when another agent was appointed.

John submitted an accounting to the Secretary of State for the money he received the entire time he acted as agent, and asked compensation for the 2 months and 21 days he worked on without pay after his father’s death. He also asked reimbursement for $42 paid John Wintin for reviewing the road several times, including $18 paid to Wintin by James Huit, gatekeeper. The secretary of state, however, refused to allow Smith credit for the $42 alleging it had been accounted for in earlier settlements. Smith’s petition was sworn before Robert Armstrong, acting White County justice of peace, on 30 Sep 1815. The Tennessee Senate referred the petition to the Committee of Claims on 9 Oct 1815, and the House read and referred it to the same committee the following day. [Editor’s note: The outcome of Smith’s petition is not known.]

11 Lewis is said to have later used the skills and experience he gained in this trade to make his own medical tools.
12 Martha was born in Nov 1874, according to the 1900 McMinn County census.

widow with a son, D. S., when her husband, Capt. David Wilson died in Memphis 24 Feb 1859. The couple had married 31 Aug 1848 in Shelby County.

Four years later, on 25 Mar 1863, Sally married David Lauglin, a college professor of Memphis. They had a son,3 Harry W. Lauglin (1868-1953) -- known to the family as "Uncle Wiss" -- who served as circuit court judge in Shelby County for more than 20 years.4

When D. S. came of age, he sold his parents' home on McLemore. By this time he was living in Raleigh Springs where his mother had moved for health reasons, believing in the curative powers of the springs. D. S. married Emma Atkinson Allen, youngest child of S. M. and Margret (Duckworth) Allen on 29 Jan 1874 in Raleigh. They had three children, Eugene, Erma, and Frank Wilson of Oakland, Tenn.

David Lauglin died 20 Aug 1885 in the 60th year of his age, and Sally passed away 9 Sep 1906 at age 78. Both are buried in the Chapel Hill section of Elmwood Cemetery.

McBride Brothers Drill in East Texas, But Not For Oil

Tennessee lost two talented dentists to Texas when James and Henry J. McBride of Benton County left the Volunteer State for the Lone Star State. The brothers were among the nine children of Ezekiel and Rebecca (Jones) McBride. Ezekiel is on the first list of taxpayers in Benton County in 1836, being assessed for 65 acres in Civil District Five. At the time of the 1840 census, he and his wife had seven children, and by 1844 five of them were of school age.²

James, born 13 Nov 1829 in Benton County, was the first of the two brothers to pull up his Tennessee roots and make the journey to Texas, going to Smith County in 1849 with Dr. John H. Warren. He then moved to adjoining Henderson Co., Tex., where in 1857 he married Mrs. Anne E. “Nannie” Messenger, the former Nannie Ramey.³ Born in Alabama in 1839, she was a widow with a three-year-old son, John, when she and Dr. McBride married.

They had six children:⁴

(2) Georgia McBride - b. 1 Apr 1860, d. 20 Dec 1934. Married J. Milo Sharp (b. 26 Apr 1852; d. 6 Apr 1912). He was a Tyler businessman, one-time mayor, and alderman for several terms. Had a son, Jefferson M. Sharp (b. 2 Jul 1883, d. 20 Dec 1934), and a daughter, Anna Sharp (b. 1881-1920). Both buried in Oakwood Cemetery.
(3) William H. “Will” McBride - b. in June 1864, d. in 1921. Worked as a store clerk in his teens; became an insurance salesman and later established his own agency which became one of the largest in Tyler. Was considered an accomplished musician and composer.
(5) James R. McBride - b. in Feb 1871, d. in 1947
(6) Jennie T. McBride - b. in Apr 1875, died in 1954.

The family moved to Smith County in 1871 where by this time James’ brother, Dr. Henry J. McBride, was living. Born in 1832, he had migrated to Texas in 1854, residing first in the little community of Starrville before moving into Tyler. On 9 Aug 1860,⁵ he married Mary Angelina Middleton of Starrville, a native Mississippian who was an adopted daughter of the Rev. J. M. Gill (1808 - 1875), a prominent Methodist minister, and wife Susan T. Gill (23 Dec 1811 - 6 Nov 1884). Born in 1837, she was a direct descendant of the South Carolina Middletons of Revolutionary War fame. Her father was said to have been closely related to Arthur J. Middleton, a signer of the Declaration of Independence.

¹ According to census records, Ezekiel was from Alabama, and Rebecca from South Carolina. She was the daughter of Major Isom Jones, a prominent planter who lived in the Big Sandy community of Benton County near the Tennessee River. He and his wife Lidia were among the first members of Randle Creek Baptist Church which was organized in the county in 1823.

² Ezekiel apparently died about 1845 or 1846 because the 1847 and two subsequent school censuses show Rebecca with seven children of school age. At the time of the 1850 federal census for Benton County, Rebecca, 38, was head of the household, living with five children: Lucinda, 15; William, 13; John, 10; Lydia, 6; and Isaiah, 6.

⁴ Birth and death dates based on 1880 and 1900 Smith Co., Tex., census data and tombstone inscriptions.

⁵ Texas Christian Advocate, 23 Aug 1860
Henry had completed two years of college in New Orleans when the Civil War began. He enlisted as a private in the 15th Texas Infantry, and was commissioned a lieutenant during his second year in the field. He was then assigned to ordinance and later to the staff of Col. Hill where he served until the close of the war. 6 Resuming his studies in New Orleans, he graduated with honors and returned to Texas where he set up his dental practice in Tyler. Henry and Angeline had three children, one of whom 7 died in infancy. The two who lived to adulthood:

(1) Mary McBride - born ca. 1866, [date of death unknown]. Married Jeff G. Jones, a leading merchant in Troupe; later a prominent business man in San Antonio. They had four children: Henry, Bahal, Lamar, and Paul Jones.

(2) James L. McBride - b. in June 1867, d. in 1928. Married Ella R. __ (b. 1887, d. 1925). He was licensed to practice law, but became a newspaper reporter instead. James and Ella are buried in Section D, Rose Hill Cemetery, Tyler.

The McBride brothers set up a partnership in dentistry, and in 1874 were practicing their professions from an office located upstairs in the Boren Building. A later announcement gave their address as “over Abe Harris’ on the north side of the square in Tyler.” Their biographer, Sid S. Johnson, wrote that the two ranked among the best dentists in the state of Texas.

They also were active in the life of the community. Both were long-time Masons. Henry, a member for more than 40 years, was Worshipful Master of the Tyler lodge (No. 53) almost continuously from 1867 on, was Grand High Priest of the Royal Arch Chapter of Texas, and held numerous other high positions in the Masonic order. He was noted as a fine and witty conversationalist and was said to “stand at the head of the class” when it came to relating amusing incidents. He was a leader in the Tyler Literary and Social Club which was organized immediately after the Civil War.

James also was known for his conversational powers and intelligence. He was considered one of the finest violinists in the state, and several of his children inherited his musical ability. His son, William H. “Will” McBride, was president of Tyler’s first music club, which was organized in 1877 as the Mendelssohn Club. 8 Will also was a prolific composer, and a number of the more than 300 pieces he composed were published. One of his operettas, “La Modele,” was produced in Tyler in 1896. 9

Over the next decade, both brothers would become widowers. Henry’s wife, Angeline, died in 1870, and James’ wife, Nannie, died of consumption in 1880. In both instances, the McBride brothers opened their homes to their wives’ relatives, Angeline’s widowed mother, Mrs. Gill, coming to live with Henry and Nannie’s mother, Elizabeth Ramey; brother, Thomas B. Ramey; and son, John Messenger, making their home with James.

James was the first of the McBride brothers to die, passing away 19 Nov 1903, just six days after his 74th birthday. He is buried next to his wife in Tyler’s oldest cemetery, Oakwood, 10 which was begun before the city itself was created.

Henry died in 1910 at the age of 78. He, too, is buried next to his wife in Oakwood Cemetery. 11

As Sid Johnson described the two McBride brothers in 1900:

“Dr. Jim and Dr. Henry are good people, and stand the wear and tear of life well.”

Cannon County — named in honor of Newton Cannon, governor of Tennessee from 1835-39 — was carved from Coffee, Rutherford, Warren, and Wilson counties in 1836. These records are excellent sources for genealogical research because if any of your ancestors sued anyone or were sued, you can easily find them here. All are clearly identified by names and page numbers. Suits range from mundane disputes over land to administration of wills and who will take responsibility for the children of persons who died intestate. Because many early settlers died without wills, the surname list can be helpful in locating them. It also should be noted that the index covers anyone who is mentioned in a record, so you may find an ancestor who was not a principal in a lawsuit but perhaps served as a witness or a bondsman by checking the surname, miscellaneous, or slave index. [Byron Crain]

Family genealogists often are reluctant to try to use deeds in their research because they believe it is difficult to locate surnames without physically going to the county courthouse. With this book, you not only have abstracts of deeds, but also an excellent surname and church index that many times supplies the names of fathers and mothers as well as other relatives. In addition to deeds, this book contains marriage contracts, gifts of poverty to children, adoptions, sales of slaves, mortgages, divisions of family farms among the heirs, remarriages of widows, and other legal transactions. As example of the wealth of genealogical information to be found here is an 1848 deed by Jane Rucker in which she conveys her interest in the property of her late husband, Gideon, to her seven children — giving their names as well as those of their spouses. She also names the 13 slaves deeded to her children. [Byron Crain]

This is a unique book for several reasons. For one, the author before her death extracted most of the obituaries from more than 80 bound sets of newspapers in her personal collection — most of which are impossible to find in any public library. Secondly, she combined related articles so that in cases of multiple stories on the same person (some reprinted from newspapers outside of Tennessee), the reader gets a real flavor of the times. More than 60 newspapers published in Tennessee, and North Alabama from 1851-1899 provide the genealogist not only the flavor of the times, but also the original spelling of names, towns, diseases, and the deceased’s hometown. Thus some men were “hung” while others were “hanged.” People came from Pittsburg as well as Pittsburgh, and some diseases mentioned are not in any medical dictionary. Most newspapers available during the Civil War were “Union” papers, so the language used for “Rebels” is not what a “Tennessee” person would have used. The writer did a great job of indexing. Every name checked was indexed correctly both for spelling and age. [Byron Crain]

Besides its intriguing title, this new work is unusual in that it lists some 7,000 marriages that took place in the Northern Neck counties of Lancaster, Northumberland, Old Rappahannock, Richmond, and Westmoreland from 1649 to 1800, and also provides additional information seldom if ever seen in other marriage books. Included are mentions of the bride or groom from wills, deeds, order books, and Bible records that have been located by the author from both published and unpublished sources. Many brides wrote their own marriage consents, frequently providing the names of their parents. For instance, Mary Dye who married James Kelly, Jr., stated in her consent that she was born 11 Apr 1771 and was a daughter of Faulterroy and Anne Dye. In this particular instance, as in many others, the actual date of the marriage is not known but the date of the marriage bond (signified by the abbreviation “b.”) was 6 Aug 1792 with William Bragg as security. Some entries also give names of grandparents, former spouses, and children of previous marriages or uncertified alliances. Before plunging into the section on marriage references, it’s advisable to read the author’s instructions on how to use the book. Also of interest are his observations on the marriage process in the Northern Neck.

1836 HAYWOOD CO., TENN., CIVIL DISTRICTS & TAX LIST by James L. Douhath. 2003. Softcover, 8x10", 28 pp., full-name index. $10 plus $3.50 p&h. Mountain Press, 4503 Anderson Pike, P.O. Box 409, Signal Mountain, TN 37377.

This book is one in a series designed to help researchers find where in Tennessee their ancestors were residing in 1836. Haywood County was created 3 Nov 1823 and laid off into 12 districts. The author has taken names of county residents from 1836 tax lists and arranged them by districts. Once you find the district in which your ancestor lived, you can go to the 1836 Haywood County map of districts as laid off by William Conner, surveyor, and get a good idea of where your ancestor’s place of abode was. A description of each district’s boundary lines is included.

No, this is not a book about a sorority but about a little village named Theta in Maury Co., Tenn. In 1889 it was described as being “located 13 miles north of Columbia and 16 miles southwest of Franklin, and one of the highest, driest, and most beautiful spots in the county.” It was said to have consisted of only three houses in 1850, all of them owned by Mastin Fitzgerald who had moved to Tennessee from Pittsylvania Co., Va., about 1810. The author was born and reared on the Carter’s Creek side of Theta, and these are her recollections not only of living there but of what life was like in the little village some 50 years or more before her time. Surnames of the families she recalls who lived in and around Theta include Ragsdale, Dortch, Basham, Gooch, Jack, Galloway, Oakley, McConico, Harbison, Judd, Lovins, Lancaster, Peach, McKnight, Taylor, Thompson, Stanley, Hall, Huey, Choate, Walters, Priest, Dodson, Kelley, Burns, Gaskill, Blackman, and Trimble.

This is one of those “here’s where it’s at” books that points you in the direction of places and resources you should check if you’re trying to find genealogical information. A revised and expanded version of the author’s 1997 guide, it describes holdings at Ohio’s major archives and libraries on virtually every aspect of genealogy and provides addresses. The book also includes a 123-page bibliography of Ohio books and periodicals, a collection of historical maps, and Ohio genealogical sources to be found on the Internet and on CD’s.

HARDIN CO., TENN., DEED BOOKS i-1, Feb 1851 - June 1854, Vol. 2 by Vicky L. (Morrow) Hutehings. 2003 8½x11 softcover, 135 pp., full-name index. $35 plus $3.50 p&h. Mountain Press, 4503 Anderson Pike, P. O. Box 400, Signal Mountain, TN 37377-0400.

This abstract of deeds registered in Hardin County over a three-year period from Feb 1851 gives the reader a quick reference guide to the information found in each record. The author in her foreword advises readers to follow sound research practices and retrieve a copy of the primary source document to verify information. Because names are (and often are) spelled several different ways in the same deed, the author uses the signature on the deed as the primary spelling version and includes variations in parentheses. The index not only gives full names of the parties involved in the deeds, but also names of the 57 other counties referred to in the deeds. A work well done!

This remarkable work — the 15th volume in North Carolina’s Civil War Roster Project — contains 7,000 service records of five Confederate regiments raised in the state. The 62nd and 64th regiments recruited in the North Carolina mountains are remembered for being captured en masse at Cumberland Gap on 9 Sep 1863; the 67th and 68th were units of state troops that were raised in coastal and eastern counties and could not be sent out of the state; and the 66th — put together from eastern counties and the Piedmont — did battle at Southwest Creek, Drewry’s Bluff, and other places. Compiled from national and state archives as well as from an impressively large number of other sources, the records contain far more information than is usually found in rosters. For instance, Pvt. Thomas Jethro Ballard, who had been transferred from Co. K to the 66th Regimental Band only a few months before, was accidentally shot and killed while brushing his teeth in a moon-lit creek. Another soldier mistook him for a bear. Then there was 616th Capt. Christopher D. Foy (dubbed Tecumseh by his troops), who had a white beard that reached to his waist. A history of each regiment precedes the men’s service records which are grouped by companies. With so many Tennesseans having North Carolina connections, this book is a highly valuable resource.

MCNAIRY COUNTY DEED BOOK A, 1823-1838 by Barbara Crampton. 2003 Spiral-bound 8½x11 paperback full-name index, 93 pp., $25 free shipping. Order from author at 1455 Chisholm Trail Pkwy., Duncan, OK 73533. Oklahoma residents add 8.25% sales tax.

The loss during the Civil War of all McNairy County court records prior to 1856 (except for the 1823-1851 land grant book and deed books from Dec 1823 upwards) makes these deed books of vital importance to the researcher. The author notes that special thanks are due early-day lawyers, scribes, court clerks, and others who — though not always the best of spellers or penmen — endeavored to record every fact that might interest later generations. A perusal of the county’s first deed book reveals an extraordinary variety of records in addition to deeds. For example, there’s the Revolutionary War record of William Filgo of Limestone Co., Ala., found in a deed to John C. McMinn of Davidson Co., Tenn..., the will of William Marry of Maury Co., Tenn., who had a wife, Rachel, and a daughter, Peggy J....the sale of patent rights to a dough-kneading machine by Nimrod C. Willet, Washington Co., Tenn., to Edward Willet, McNairy County,... the marriage contract between William Steadman and Margaret Turvin, both of Decatur Co., Ala.... and numerous others. A number of deeds are related to the sale of lots in the town of Purdy. The first such acquisition was... reviewed 24 Aug 1825 when John Youants exchanged 50 acres in the county for Lot No. 26 in Purdy. Also of interest is an 1828 agreement among the heirs of Jeptha Rice dividing up 2,560 acres in Hardin County. In another deed on the same date, Jeptha's heirs sold 1,060 acres on Doe River, Tenn., to James Blackmore of Sumner County for $50.

Much can be learned about the lives and deaths of McNairy County citizens from these early deeds book. Deeds of trust (better known today as mortgages) reveal much about an individual's personal property, occupation, and sometimes hobbies. Unexpected tidbits of information also turn up in other records. An 1838 title bond by William A. Price and Fountain P. Duke, for instance, refers to the late William Price of Louisa Co., Va., as their "pretended grandfather" and also reveals that Fountain's wife, Catherine Duke, is the late Price's daughter. Powers of attorney sometimes contain hidden riches. Researchers of Daniel Coffman/ Koffman who died intestate in McNairy County in 1838, for instance, can find the names of his wife, his children, and their spouses in an 1838 power of attorney. An 1839 power of attorney reveals that his daughter Parthena, wife of Martin Denton, had died in Jefferson Co., Tenn., leaving a daughter Elizabeth Catherine Denton. An 1841 deed is apparently equal to the last will and testament of Sarah Lain. In it she leaves to sons James and Thomas what appears to be all of her personal property, taking care to identify individually each of the numerous items including the Family Bible and hymn book, all of her gathered crop, all of her clothing and provisions on hand, and all the money she has plus that owing to her. She even makes sure to list her cow bell.

An 1837 record of widespread interest in Deed Book C is a partition of land and debts between Malcolm and Daniel Gilchrist who, as land speculators for 30 years, had acquired considerable lands in several states and territories. Some was owned individually, some jointly, and some with others including John Austin and Jesse Wharton. In dividing up the land, the Gilchrists paid taxes on 1,400 acres in McNairy County. It was agreed that Daniel would have their lands in Tennessee, Alabama, and the part of Mississippi including the Chickasaw Nation east of the line dividing Ranges 3 and 4E. Malcolm would get the lands in Missouri, Arkansas, the Florida Territory, and those in Mississippi within the Choctaw Nation and in the part of the Chickasaw Nation west of the range line. Besides being recorded in McNairy, the agreement also went into the books in Pontotoc, Miss., Lawrence Co., Ala.; and Bedford Co., Tenn. (where Daniel lived for a time).

An unusual bond/agreement recorded in McNairy County in 1847 was one in which Rachel Gorions, a free woman of color, bound herself and any children she might have to live with James and Esther Willoughby as a servant for their natural lives. In turn, the Willoughbys would furnish her with food and clothing and at their deaths leave her all of their property.

Another unusual entry in Deed Book C is an act passed by the North Carolina General Assembly in 1811 to legitimize 12 children born out of wedlock. The act changed the surnames of: Willis, Nancy, and Sally Patterson to Horton; William Hendrick to Williams; George Clarkston to Herbert; William Garland to Welborne; Wesley Murphy to Speight; William Keel to Osborne; Mark Worrel to Caleyear; Marshall Hodges to Kinsaul; Cynthia Davis to Wilson; and Seth Macy to Coffin. The act, which includes the parents' names and home county, was recorded in McNairy 36 years after its passage in North Carolina.

THEY SERVED THE FLAG by Richard L. Saunders and Marvin L. Downing. 2001. Softcover, 5x8". 114 pp., $16 plus $3.50 s&h. Mountain Press, 4503 Anderson Pike, P. O. Box 400, Signal Mountain, TN 37377-0400

A fact perhaps not widely known is that fire destroyed some 16-18 million files of U.S. military personnel who served in World War II. For this reason, a complete list does not exist and probably would be impossible to compile. In an effort to honor those men and women from Weakley County who nobly served in the conflict, the authors have worked obviously long and hard to put together a comprehensive list from a variety of unofficial but contemporary records.

It was derived from three separate sources: (1) a list of county veterans generated by the War Records Bureau of the Tennessee Adjutant General's office; (2) names from Weakley County newspapers; and (3) male students and Naval V-5 Air Cadet trainees at the University of Tennessee Junior College in Martin.
MAHALA ANN LEA/LEE, who was born 13 Dec 1813 in White Co., Tenn., was married at age 13 to a man 50 years her senior, according to a story in Limestone Legacy, Vol. 25, No. 4, published in Athens, Ala. Mahala had come to Limestone County from Sparta, Tenn., with her parents, Vardeman Lee/Lea and Mary “Polly” Huddleston. Her siblings were Martha, Wiley, William M., Thomas V., and Lucy R. Lee. Mahala and 73-year old widower John Favor were married 21 Jul 1836. He was a Revolutionary War veteran who had moved to Alabama from Kentucky. They had three children – Mary Melissa, Theophilus, and Sarah Ann -- before John’s death in 1846. Mahala had four other children by her second husband, John Covington Edmondson.

JACOB VINSANT of Bedford Co., Tenn., gave a power of attorney to his son, Isaac, in Rutherford Co., N.C., in 1808, according to records published in the Bulletin of the Genealogical Society of Old Tryon Co., N.C., Vol. XXXI, No. 3. The power of attorney, witnessed by Robert Henry 10 June 1808, was recorded 12 Jul 1808 in Tryon County. On 2 Jun 1808, Jacob Vinsant — then identified as living in Rutherford Co., Tenn. — sold 290 acres on Little Broad River to Archibald Dillingham of Lincoln Co., N.C., for $525. The land, adjoining a tract granted Francis Beatty in 1765, had been granted to Jacob in 1795 and 1797. The deed was witnessed by Robert Henry, Jacob Vinsant, Jr., and John Matthias, and recorded 14 June 1808.

THE DEATH of John W. Stephenson in Maury Co., Tenn., as reported in The Watchman & Observer of 2 Dec 1847, is reprinted in the South Carolina Magazine of Ancestral Research, Vol. XXXI, No. 3. Stephenson, who died 29 Oct 1847 of pneumonia at age 63, was in a religious colony which migrated from Williamsburg District, S.C., in 1805-1807 and founded Zion Church in Maury County. He was a ruling elder for almost 20 years. According to The Watchman, several families in the ministerial charge of the Rev. James W. Stephenson, D.D., planned the settlement in Tennessee. “Though the precise point of their destination was unknown, they left their comfortable homes trusting to Providence to guide their steps,” the paper stated.

PRO gangs in four Tennessee counties, 1864-1865: A study of a local aspect of the Civil War

THE 1878 OBITUARY OF Dr. William Tazwell Upshaw, native of Giles Co., Tenn., is reprinted in Limestone Legacy, Vol. 26, No. 1, published by the Limestone Co., Ala., Historical Society, Athens. Born at Elkton on 29 Mar 1829, he was the son of Lewis G. and Alice Thornton Upshaw. He was a Confederate surgeon during the Civil War, and was married to the former Josephine LeBaron of New Orleans. Dr. Upshaw died 31 Jan 1878 at his home near LaGrange (Lee Co.), Ark.

The same issue of The Legacy contains the death notice of Gabriel Laughmiller, who moved from Virginia to Tennessee at an early age and settled in Hawkins County. He was a soldier in the War of 1812, and in 1817 moved to Limestone Co., Ala., where he died 7 June 1878, leaving one son.

AN 1835 DEED recorded in Davidson Co., N.C., shows that James M. Billings of Wilson Co., Tenn., sold three parcels of land containing a total of 200 acres to Thomas W. Broadway of Davidson for $208. The deed, abstracted and published in The Genealogical Journal of Davidson Co., N.C., Vol. XXXIII, No. 3, states that the land was given to Billings by his father, the late Frederick Billings. Dated 11 Nov 1835, the deed was registered 1 Feb 1836.

SEVERAL TENNESSEANS are among alumni of the State Normal School at Jackson, Ala., listed in Northeast Alabama Settlers, Vol. 42, No. 3, Gadsden, Ala. Alumni residing in Tennessee in 1905-06 were: Nannie Williams (Mrs. Dugger) of Chattanooga, class of 1886; Fannie Hammond (Mrs. Grey), Nashville, class of 1891; C. B. Haley, editor, Nashville, and Mamie Ward (Mrs. Adair Holt), Chattanooga, both of the class of 1892; and D. Frank Merrill (Mrs. Elam) of Tennessee, class of 1899.

FORMER BEDFORD CO., Tenn., residents George L. and Martha (York) Bayles are the subjects of an article in Pioneer Trails, Vol. 45, No. 3, published by the Birmingham (Ala.) Genealogical Society. Martha (also called Patsy) had moved to Tennessee from Laurens Co., S.C., with her first husband, Samuel(?), Montgomery, and is listed as a member of New Hope Baptist Church in Bedford County in 1811. Montgomery apparently died between that time and 1818 and she married Bayles, who had just finished a six-month stint fighting the Creek Indians. He was a private under Col. Nicholas Perkins and Gen. Andrew Jackson when the unit was attacked by the Red Sticks in Jan 1814. Altogether George and Patsy raised 13 children — six from his first marriage, four from her first marriage, and three from their marriage. The family moved to Jefferson Co., Ala., in 1819 and purchased the land where Birmingham International Airport is now located.

SEVERAL LAWYERS practicing in Chickasaw County, Miss., in 1937 attended colleges in Tennessee, according to an article in Chickasaw Times Past, Vol. 22, No. 1.

Jeff Busby, who was Chickasaw County prosecuting attorney from 1912 to 1920 and later became a U. S. Congressman, received his B.S. degree in 1905 from Georgia Robertson Christian College in Henderson, Tenn.

Two of Chickasaw County’s “legal eagles” — T. G. Abernethy and Charlie Hill Moffat — studied law for a time at Cumberland University Law School in Lebanon, Tenn.

Abernethy was elected mayor of Eupora, Miss., in 1927-28, and was Okolona’s city attorney for seven years. At age 32, he was elected district attorney for the Third Judicial District, being one of the youngest ever elected to this office.

Moffat practiced law in his hometown of Houston for a number of years and was elected mayor in 1907. He later moved to Senatoria.

The biographical information was excerpted from a WPA Historical Research Project dated 25 May 1937.

A Tip on Finding Family Names --

Anniversary Story Yields Genealogical Information About Metz Family

A story in the Nashville Banner of 19 Aug 1898 about Henry and Pauline Metz' 50th wedding anniversary yields a bonanza of genealogical information. The anniversary celebration, which ran from 6 o'clock Thursday evening (18 Aug) until midnight, was held in their palatial home at 929 College St. in Nashville.

As the couple received congratulations from their friends, they were surrounded by their children and grandchildren, identified in the article as:

- Their only daughter - Mrs. Oliver Timothy and her daughter, Aileen
- Son - W. H. Metz with his wife and their children: Lillian, Ethel, Henry, W. H., Jr., Bernard, Walter, Amelia, Josephine, and Willie
- Son - Edward Metz (unmarried)
- Son - Albert Metz and wife and their children: Ione, Gertrude, and Andrew
- Son - George Metz and wife, and their children: Georgia May and Harold

The Banner said few men in Nashville were held in higher esteem than 74-year-old Henry Metz. A native of Kirkheim-Bolanden, Wurtemberg, he and his brother, Jacob Metz, came to Nashville in the 1840s and opened a clothing store. They conducted the business for some years, and accumulated considerable money before Jacob went to New York and became one of that city's leading clothing merchants. Henry, described as possessing energy and sterling qualities, soon began to progress and for half a century was one of Nashville's leading merchants.

A few years before his wedding anniversary, he retired from active life, turned his business over to his sons, and lived a quiet life, enjoying the fruits of his labors. His 67-year-old wife Pauline, also a native of Germany, was said to be a leading member of the Lutheran Church for years had taken an active interest in its charitable works.

Letter Pays Tribute to John H. Meeks

"To the Banner:

"The death of Gen. John Henderson Meeks of McNairy County marks an era in the history of that county and also of the state. He was about the last survivor of the men who were pioneers in West Tennessee. He was born in 1814, and removed with his grandfather, Maj. John Henderson, from Lincoln County, the place of his birth, in 1830. The war of 1812 had just closed, the American arms victorious on land and sea. His youthful mind was doubtless stirred up with glowing accounts of the heroism of his countrymen in that great war, the second war of independence.

"Maj. John Henderson .. was a brave and distinguished soldier in the war of the Revolution and a near neighbor to Gen. Jackson.

"The writer, who was born two years prior to the coming of Gen. Meeks to the County of McNairy, knew him well and intimately from his earlier boyhood to the day of his death which took place on the morning of 23 July 1898 – being 84 years of age. During all these years we had enjoyed the sincerest friendship. To him more than to any man on earth I feel that I was indebted for good advice, honorable example, and substantial aid in meeting and overcoming the obstacles which beset us on every side....

"Gen. Meeks was not hampered by undue and unholy ambition. His great desire was to serve his fellow man ... He was elected and returned to the Legislature of this state several times over able and popular opponents, and at a time when his party was in the minority. As a lawmaker, he was cautious, thoughtful, and particular in making the burdens on people as light as possible. He was the warmest and ablest advocate, if not the author, of the homestead law in Tennessee, a law which protects homes for the use of the wife and children against the improvidence of the husband and father.

"Gen. Meeks was married to Miss Eleanor Atkins in 1841. She was a member of one of the most respected families in the county, and to this marriage there were born eight children – five boys and three girls. The eldest son, John P., served under Gen. Forrest and was killed in 1864. Another son, Rufus Polk Meeks, is an able and worthy minister of the Christian Church; another son, Marcus Henry Meeks, is a lawyer of ability and success now practicing his profession in Nashville. Gen. Meeks was a member of the Constitutional Convention in 1870. ... He was a staunch friend of education, and all of his children received the best advantages he was able to bestow; and he had the happiness to see them all comfortable and enjoying the respect of the world.....

"Channing has said that the greatest man is not always the one most widely known, but he who chooses the right with invincible resolution, who resists the sorest temptation from within and without; who bears the heaviest burdens cheerfully; who is calmest in storms and most fearless under menace and frowns; whose reliance on truth, on virtue, on God is unfaltering.

"Such a man, in my estimation, was John Henderson Meeks. Blessed is the state and the people who have such a man among them....."

JOHN V. WRIGHT

Ageless Advice from an 87-Year Old Rose

From: Idaho Sporting Goods [Author Unknown]

"The first day of school our professor introduced himself and challenged us to get to know someone we didn't already know. I stood up to look around, when a gentle hand touched my shoulder. I turned around to find a wrinkled, little old lady beaming up at me with a smile that lit up her entire being.

She said, 'Hi, handsome. My name is Rose. I'm 87 years old. Can I give you a hug?' I laughed and enthusiastically responded, 'Of course you may!', and she gave me a giant squeeze.

'Why are you in college at such a young, innocent age?' I asked.

She jokingly replied, 'I'm here to meet a rich husband, get married, have a couple of kids…'

'No seriously,' I asked. I was curious what may have motivated her to be taking on this challenge at her age.

'I always dreamed of having a college education and now I am getting one!' she told me.

After class we walked to the student union building and shared a chocolate milkshake. We became instant friends. Every day for the next three months we would leave class together and talk nonstop. I was always mesmerized listening to this "time machine" as she shared her wisdom and experience with me.

Over the course of the year, Rose became a campus icon and she easily made friends wherever she went. She loved to dress up and she reveled in the attention bestowed upon her from the other students. She was living it up.

At the end of the semester we invited Rose to speak at our football banquet. I'll never forget what she taught us. She was introduced and stepped up to the podium. As she began to deliver her prepared speech, she dropped her 3 x 5 cards on the floor. Frustrated and a little embarrassed, she leaned into the microphone and simply said,

'I'm sorry I'm so jitty. I gave up beer for Lent and this whiskey is killing me! I'll never get my speech back in order, so let me just tell you what I know.'

As we laughed, she cleared her throat and began,

'We do not stop playing because we are old; we grow old because we stop playing.

'There are only four secrets to staying young, being happy, and achieving success.

'You have to laugh and find humor every day.

'Ve've got to have a dream. When you lose your dreams, you die. We have so many people walking around who are dead and don't even know it!

'There is a huge difference between growing older and growing up. If you are 19 years old and lie in bed for one full year and don't do one productive thing, you will turn 20 years old. If I am 87 years old and stay in bed for a year and never do anything, I will turn 88. Anybody can grow OLDER. That doesn't take any talent or ability. The idea is to grow up by always finding the opportunity in change.

'Have no regrets. The elderly usually don't have regrets for what we did, but rather for things we did not do. The only people who fear death are those with regrets.'

At the year's end, Rose finished the college degree she had begun all those years ago.

One week after graduation Rose died peacefully in her sleep. Over 2,000 college students attended her funeral in tribute to the wonderful woman who taught by example that it's never too late to be all you can possibly be."
