We at the Tennessee Genealogical Society want to remind everyone to mark their calendars and reserve Saturday, October 8th, 2005 for the incredibly educational seminar featuring Cyndi Howells. In case you are not familiar with Ms. Howells or “Cyndi’s List,” the online site is available with links to every conceivable genealogical treasure available. TN Gen has contracted with the creator of “Cyndi’s List” to teach us how to stop aimlessly surfing on the Internet and begin researching online with incredible results. If you are one of the many folks who is intimidated by computers and the Internet, this is the perfect time for you to discover the amazing results that can be obtained in cyberspace.

We do hope to see you at this seminar that is to be held at the Memphis-Shelby County Public Library, 3030 Poplar Avenue, Memphis, Tennessee.

At our last board meeting we discussed the fact that the property surrounding our library, which is located in Davies Plantation, is slowly being sold to developers. There is a possibility that in the future the Tennessee Genealogical Society Library will have to relocate. We are in need of an affordable, centrally located building approximately 3,500 square feet, with ample parking. Any suggestions and/or ideas would be most appreciated. Remember this is your library too.

MEDALS OF HONOR

On December 21, 1861, President Abraham Lincoln signed into law Public Resolution Number 82, a provision for a Navy Medal of Honor that was introduced by Iowa Senator James W. Grimes. The medal was "to be bestowed upon such petty officers, seamen, landsmen and marines as shall most distinguish themselves by their gallantry and other seaman-like qualities during the present war." On July 12, 1862, a similar resolution was introduced by Massachusetts Senator Henry Wilson and signed into law for the Army's Medal of Honor, "Resolved by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled that the President of the United States be, and he is hereby, authorized to cause two-thousand medals of honor to be prepared with suitable emblematic devices and to direct that the same be presented in the name of most distinguish themselves by their gallantry in action and other soldier-like qualities during the present insurrection."

One of the first men to actually wear an Army Medal of Honor was Private Jacob Parrott (1843-1908), of Company K, 33rd Ohio Infantry Regiment, on 25 March 1863. He was one of six men bestowed this honor for his actions in "The Great Locomotive Chase" in April 1862. The only woman to receive this honor was the daughter of a country doctor, Dr. Mary Edwards Walker, born 26 November 1832, in Oswego, New York. Upon the outbreak of the Civil War, Mary went to Washington and attempted to join the Union Army. She was denied. She then volunteered as an acting assistant surgeon, placing herself on the front lines including those at Chattanooga and Chickamauga. In September 1863, Mary was appointed Assistant Surgeon in the Army of the Cumberland. She was taken prisoner in 1864 by Confederate troops. After her release she practiced medicine at the Louisville female prison and at an orphan's asylum in Tennessee. On November 11, 1865, President Johnson signed a bill to award Dr. Mary Edwards Walker the Congressional Medal of Honor.

In 1917, a report was released that stated that 911 Medal of Honor awardees were not eligible and did not meet the criteria. These Medals were rescinded, and Dr. Walker's was one of them. She refused to return the medal and proudly wore it everyday until her death on 21 February 1919, in Oswego, New York. However, in 1977, President Jimmy Carter fully reinstated her medal.

There were very few men who fought in the Civil War from the state of Tennessee that received this esteemed honor. There were to be more honored Tennesseans in later wars.

Harrison Collins was born 10 March 1836, in Hawkins County, Tennessee. He was a corporal in the United States Army, Company A, 1st Tennessee Cavalry. Collins was issued his Medal of Honor on February 24, 1865. The citation reads: The capture of the flag of James Chalmers's Division, Confederate States of America, during the battle for West Tennessee, leading an attack against the Army of Tennessee. Collins died 25 December 1890 and is buried in Springfield National Cemetery in Missouri.

John H. Ferrell was born 15 April 1829 in Tennessee. He was a pilot in the United States Navy and enlisted in Illinois. Ferrell was issued his Medal of Honor on June 22 1865. The citation reads: Served aboard the U. S. Monitor Neosho while at Bells Mills, Cumberland River, near Nashville, Tennessee on December 6, 1864. Ferrell gallantly left the pilothouse after the flag after signaled staffs of that vessel been shot away and, taking the flag, which was drooping, over the wheelhouse, made it fast to the stump of the highest mast remaining although the ship was under heavy fire from the enemy. Ferrell died 17 April 1900 and is buried in Price Cemetery, Elizabethtown, Illinois.

Gaines Lawson was born 4 September 1840 in Hawkins County, Tennessee. He enlisted in Tennessee and was 1st Sergeant, Company D, 4th East Tennessee Infantry. Lawson was issued his Medal of Honor on June 11, 1895. The citation reads: Lawson went to the aid of a wounded comrade between the lines and carried him to safety. Gaines Lawson was the son of James Willis and Malvina “Pinney” Lawson. He died 12 September 1906 in Pasadena, California and is buried in Arlington National Cemetery.

George Gillespie was born 7 October 1841 in Kingston, Tennessee. He enlisted in Chattanooga, Tennessee and was 1st Lieutenant, Corps of Engineers in the United States Army. Gillespie was issued his Medal of Honor on October 27 1897. The citation reads: Gillespie placed himself in great danger by voluntarily making his way through the enemy’s lines to communicate with General Sheridan. While rendering this service he was captured, but escaped – only later being captured again and escaped by dashing away under fire. George Gillespie was the son of George Lewis Gillespie and Margaret Alice McEwen. He died 27 September 1913 in Saratoga Springs, New York.

Daniel Dickerson Stevens was born 19 December 1839 in La Grange, Tennessee. Stevens was Quartermaster, United States Navy. The citation reads: On board the U.S.S. Canonicus during attacks on Fort Fisher on 13 January 1865. As the Canonicus moved into position at 700 yards from shore, the enemy troops soon obtained her range and opened with heavy artillery fire, subjecting her to several hits and near misses until late in the afternoon when the heavier ships coming into line drove them into their bombproofs. Twice during the battle, in which her ship sustained 36 hits, the flag was shot away and gallantly replaced by Stevens. Stevens died 7 November 1916 and is buried in Walnut Grove Cemetery, Danvers, Massachusetts.

The following select group, who had ties to Tennessee, fought in the Indian Wars:

George Grant¹⁰ was born 1834 in Raleigh, Tennessee. He enlisted in Indianapolis, Indiana and was a sergeant, Company E, 18th United States Infantry. His Medal of Honor citation reads: For bravery, energy and perseverance, involving much suffering and privation through attacks by hostile Indians, while voluntarily carrying dispatches. Grant died 1 September 1876 and is buried in Arborville Rural Cemetery, Stockville, NE.

James B. Dozier was born 2 May 1820 in Warren County, Tennessee. He enlisted at Fort Richardson, Texas in the United States Army. He was a civilian post guide. Dozier received his Medal of Honor on November 19, 1870. The citation reads: Gallantry in action and on the march. He died c. 1899 in Jacksboro, Texas and is buried in Bottom Cemetery, Jack County, Texas. In 1917 Dozier was one of the 911 that had their Medals of Honor rescinded. It was reinstated on 12 June 1989.

William Harding Carter¹¹ was born 19 November 1851 in Nashville, Tennessee. He enlisted at New York City, New York and was a 1st lieutenant, 6th United States Cavalry. He received his Medal of Honor on September 17, 1891. The citation reads: Rescued, with voluntary assistance of two soldiers, the wounded from under heavy fire. Carter died 24 May 1925 and is buried in Arlington National Cemetery.

Benoni Strivson was born in Overton County, Tennessee. He was a private, Company B, 8th United States Cavalry. He received his Medal of Honor on July 24, 1869. The citation reads: Bravery in scouts and actions against Indians.

George Jordan was born in Williamson County, Tennessee. He enlisted in Nashville, Tennessee and was a sergeant, Company K, 9th United States Cavalry. He received his Medal of Honor on May 7, 1890. The citation reads: While commanding a detachment of 25 men at Fort Tularosa, New Mexico, repulsed a force of more than 100 Indians. At Carrizo Canyon, New Mexico, while commanding the right of a detachment of 19 men, on 12 August 1881, he stubbornly held his ground in an extremely exposed position and gallantly forced back a much superior number of the enemy, preventing them from surrounding the command.

The Medal of Honor is the highest-ranking combat award in the United States. A recipient of this award is automatically granted the right to be buried at Arlington National Cemetery.

On July 25, 1963, Congress established a set of guidelines under which the Medal of Honor could be awarded. These guidelines are: while engaged in an action against an enemy of the United States; while engaged in military operations involving conflict with an opposing foreign force; or, while serving with friendly forces engaged in armed conflict against an opposing armed force in which the United States is not a belligerent party.
Susan Godsey, Obion County Sleeping Beauty

By Jonas Jutton, newspaper correspondent, and published in newspapers in the 1890’s.

Within twelve miles of Union City, there died on October 27, 1873, at the age of 37-years, a lady, who for twenty-four years was a puzzle and wonder to the scientific and medical world. Her name was Susan Carolyn Godsey, known throughout the United States as the sleeping beauty, and she deserved that appellation, for rarely have eyes of man rested upon more beautiful features than those of Miss Godsey.

Before her death, many articles were written about her, some of which were true, in part, while others were base fabrications almost in total. To acquaint myself with the facts, I drove out to the home of Mrs. Mary E. Jurney, Miss Godsey’s sister, with whom lives her brother, B. W. Godsey. Mrs. Jurney has reached the allotted span of life, while her brother has passed the meridian.

They are all that remain of the family. Mrs. Jurney is a widow, whose children all married, and she and her bachelor brother live alone upon a little farm of twenty-four acres, which they own.

Susan Caroline Godsey was born in 1836, in Gibson County, Tenn. When seven years of age she moved to Obion County with her parents, who settled twelve-miles northwest of Union City, near the Kentucky line.

Susie, as her family and acquaintances called her, was as healthy as most children up to her eighth year, when she took the chills. The usual chill remedies would stop them for a while, but they invariably returned. When ten years of age she made a visit to her sister, Mrs. Jurney, several miles away, and while there had a chill. A quack named Wason, who had lately moved into the neighborhood from Middle Tennessee, was called in. He gave her medicines and left others, which were administered according to his directions, but the next day Susie had a chill as usual. The day following, she missed her chill, but had a convulsion resembling a fit. From that day, she began having cramping spells, the 12 Susan was the daughter of Lacy Godsey, born 2 September 1797 in Virginia and Julia Angel, born 1 January 1805 in Virginia. This couple was married 20 December 1823 in Rutherford County, Tennessee. J.(Julia) A.(Angel) Godsey is listed on the 1860 Obion County census as age 54, b. in VA with son, William, age 17, b. TN; daughter S.(Susan), age 21, b. TN. Susan is buried in Antioch Cemetery in Obion County, Tennessee, in an unmarked grave.

13 Mary E. Godsey was born in 1824 in TN per the 1850 Obion County, Tennessee census. She is listed with her husband, James Jurney, b. 1827 in TN and children, Zenobia, b. 1843 in TN, Larenzo, b. 1849 in TN and Jane Blanton, b. 1834 in TN. Mary married James Jurney on 4 October 1847 in Obion County, Tennessee.

14 William Godsey is listed on the 1880 Closs School House, Obion County, Tennessee census as age 32, b. TN, farmer, both parents born in Virginia; Julia Godsey, mother, age 75, b. VA, keeping house, both parents born in VA; Cey A. Godsey, niece, age 23, born in TN, keeping house, both parents born in TN.
peculiarity of which was that in a second, her heels would strike the back of her head, and before one could snap his finger, her knees and chin would come together.

Other physicians were called in who declared that the medicines Wasson had given her were the cause of her peculiar malady. But two of the remedies were known, delphinium and sulfuric ether. Of the former, he gave her a spoonful, enough to kill any three men. But Susie's system was such that it did not kill her, but in conjunction with the other drugs, threw her into a condition to which death would have been preferable. Susie's father was going to prosecute Wasson for malpractice, but he fled to Middle Tennessee, where he soon died.

Daily, for three years, Susie had these twisting, cramping spells, and every night, exactly at twelve o'clock, she would vomit blood after suffering terrible tortures. In three years, her peculiar afflictions left her, and she went into a sleep, which, with frequent awakenings, kept her in bed twenty-four years until death relieved her.

When her sleep was prolonged past the usual time, physicians were called in, but none of them could arouse her from her deathlike slumber.

Her condition soon became widely known, and physicians from abroad came to see her and study her case, which proved beyond all their skill. A physician came from Paris, France to see her, and procuring an interpreter at Hickman, KY, visited the sleeping beauty at her humble home, but the satisfying of his curiosity as to the truth of what he had heard was all that was accomplished by his visit.

In 1867, her brother, B. W. Godsey; her brother-in-law, James Journey; her niece, Zenoba Journey; and Mr. Jonah Montgomery, a friend, carried her to Nashville, where for several days under the care of the celebrated Dr. Robert Eve, she was exhibited to the students of a medical college of which Dr. Eve was president.

In 1870, her physicians, Dr. C. P. Glover and Dr. John Ray, accompanied by Susie's mother, her brother, B. W. Godsey, and Zenoba Journey, niece, carried her to a medical college in St. Louis. While in that city, celebrated physicians from all parts of the country came to see her but her case baffled the skill of them all.

During the twenty-four years of her sleep she would awake every morning at six o'clock, then every hour until noon. In the afternoon she would wake at three o'clock and then at sunset, and at night at nine and eleven o'clock. These hours were never varied, except every Wednesday, when she would wake at ten a.m. She would have cramping spells in the chest and hiccoughs, followed between ten and eleven o'clock by a vomiting of blood, sometimes as much as a pint.

She generally remained awake but five minutes, never over seven. Doctors present when she awoke would endeavor to keep her awake by animated conversation and by 15 On 2 November 1857, James Journey was appointed administrator of Lacey Godsey's estate, mother of Susan, deceased in Obion County, Tennessee. On 5 December 1860 The Obion County court allowed $20 to supply wants of Widow Godsey and daughter who are in a helpless condition and appointed E. S. Howard to oversee allowance.

telling her of the pretty things they were going to bring her, but no diversion could prevent her falling asleep at the expiration of five minutes.

The house was visited daily by sightseers, and all were welcome to see the sleeping beauty, and no charge was made, though some left small presents of money. When feeling that she was going to sleep, she would invariably bid them good-bye, ask them to call again, and then fall into her death-like slumber.

Her sleep was more the appearance of death than a peaceful slumber. There was no sign of life. A mirror held to her nose and mouth exhibited not the slightest blur of moisture upon it, the lightest filmiest down laid upon her nostrils would not be agitated.

She was a small eater, though she enjoyed three regular meals a day and was fond of sweets and knickknacks.

Though Mr. and Mrs. Godsey were poor and had to battle for a living, they were too proud to gain wealth by their daughter's misfortune, notwithstanding they had excellent opportunities to do so. May showmen and museum managers offered them princely sums for the privilege of exhibiting their daughter, among them was P. T. Barnum, who made them several propositions, the last being $1000 a week and the expenses of the family. To all these tempting offers the parents turned a deaf ear and when they died left their children but a few acres of land.

Though but thirteen years of age when she went to sleep, Susie grew to a full sized woman. Her head was crowned with a mass of coal black hair which grew rapidly, but strange to say, her fingernails and toenails never grew a particle after she went to sleep, and were not trimmed in the twenty-four years.

Miss Godsey was quite bright and intelligent and when awake enjoyed conversing upon any subject with which she was familiar.

During the twenty-four years of her sleep, she was subject to disease the same as others, and had several spells sickness, one of which was scarlet fever, which she caught from a negro boy who came to the door, no other member of the family contracting it.

It was the opinion of many physicians that if she could out live the effects of the medicines Wasson gave her she would regain her normal condition, and this theory is borne out by the fact that for several days prior, her daughter could be aroused from her slumber, such being impossible before. This would indicate that the effects of the drugs were wearing out, but her poor, tired body had also worn out, and she passed away, apparently of no disease but that produced by Wasson's remedies.

She departed this life October 27, 1873 and was laid to rest beside her mother in Antioch Cemetery, not far from her home. Watchers guarded her grave several nights for fear her body would be disinterred and offered as a sacrifice upon the altar of medical science.

Marriages

- PARKER-CARROLL
  Manchester, 28 July - Esquire J. L. Carroll of the Eighth District of Coffee County and Miss Oata Parker of the same district were united in marriage in front of W. M. Malone's restaurant on the Public Square here yesterday afternoon by County Judge John A. Lawing. Mr. Carroll is one of the youngest and most prominent and popular members of the County Court, and his bride is a most attractive and popular young lady. The marriage was not a Gretna Green affair, as the parties did not clandestinely steal away from home and parents for the purpose of having the nuptial knot tied, but willfully and for the pleasure of the novelty and romance of the affair, chose the manner of getting married as they did.

MOORE

Jackson, July 22 - The remains of W. L. Moore, late cashier of the Second National Bank, arrived here yesterday from St. Mary’s Parish, La, where he accidentally killed himself about noon last Tuesday [19 Jul 1898] by a pistol shot. The news of his death received here Tuesday evening was a great shock to the community. The deceased temporarily resigned his position as cashier and about three weeks ago went to Hot Springs, hoping to repair his declining health. Failing to be benefited, he, with his wife and two children, left here last Friday to visit his sister residing in St. Mary’s Parish where the unfortunate accident ended his life. He was a genial gentleman who was exceedingly popular in business and commercial circles. The funeral at 10:30 o’clock yesterday was under auspices of the local Knights of Pythias lodge with religious services being conducted by Rev. G. T. Sullivan. The banks closed during the funeral hours as a mark of respect, and a large procession followed the remains to Riverside. Immediately following this procession was that of the late John Wagner, who was accidentally killed by an engine in the Big Four operation was going on, her head suddenly fell forward. Across the Southern Frontier to Tennessee:
The Story of Stephen Beaver

Michael A. Ports
5427 Mission Road, Fairway, Kansas 66205
Member, Tennessee Genealogical Society

Introduction

This is the first in a planned series of articles on the family of Stephen and Nancy (White) Beaver summarizing the results from more than thirty-years of genealogical research. In the first article, essentially every scrap of information concerning Stephen and Nancy (White) Beaver, from every source is presented, hopefully, in its proper historical context. Subsequent articles will focus upon each of their children. We originally embarked on this journey to identify and document the persistent family tradition of a Native American connection. Unfortunately, no such connection has been found; although, several tantalizing possibilities remain. We trust that the following will be of interest to other researchers, especially those confronting burned or otherwise destroyed courthouses, persistent and undocumented family traditions, as well as undocumented genealogies published many years ago.

One note concerning the spelling of the name is in order. In most, but not all records, the name is spelled Beaver. Our own line of the family seemed to consider that spelling as correct. However, the name frequently appears spelled in numerous imaginative ways.

Settling on the Georgia Frontier

Stephen Beaver was born circa 1774. Many researchers have stated that he was born circa 1755 in Pennsylvania, where he served in the American Revolutionary War. Mr. Melbourne Moose claimed that Stephen "...moved from Pennsylvania to Tennessee about the last decade of the 17th century. He was married twice. The first wife was Nancy White. Two sons are known about, one by each wife: (1) Stephen Beavers II, (2) Michael Beavers, (3) William (probably another son)." Other researchers claim that Stephen Beaver changed his name from Christoph Bieber and then migrated to Tennessee. Christoph Bieber, born February 23, 1756, was the son of Johannes and Magdalena (Hagel) Bieber of Berks County, Pennsylvania. While some or even most of these claims may be true, absolutely no documentation has been found to substantiate them. A careful review of the extant records provides absolutely no proof that Stephen Beaver or his wife, Nancy, came from Pennsylvania. At least one researcher maintains that the Beaver family was of Irish and Welsh descent, rather than of German origin.

16 Beaver, Rev. L. M., History and Genealogy of the Bieber, Beaver, Biewer, Beeber Family, Reading, Pennsylvania, 1939. (The book is widely quoted and its contents widely circulated, but much about Stephen Beaver is wrong.)
Our Stephen Beaver first surfaces in 1798 on the tax digest for Franklin County, Georgia.\(^7\) That year his dwelling house was assessed at $45. He owned a 408-acre tract of land assessed at $351. The tax digest for the year 1800 indicates that his property was located on the waters of Broad River in Captain John Barnett's District.\(^8\) Unfortunately, no record of him acquiring that or any other land in Franklin County has been found. Just when Stephen settled in Franklin County also is uncertain. It is presumed that he married elsewhere and brought his young bride to the newly-opened lands in northern Georgia circa 1796. Of course, it also is possible that he met and married his bride there on the northern Georgia frontier.

On June 13, 1803, Stephen and Nancy Beaver sold a portion of their land.\(^9\) Francis Hanby paid $75 in cash for the 120-acre parcel. Both Stephen and Nancy signed the deed that left them with just 288 acres from their original tract. On October 6, 1804, Stephen and Nancy Beaver sold another portion of their remaining land to Castleton Lyon of Elbert County.\(^10\) The 200-acre parcel sold for $400 and left the couple with just 88 acres of land. Both Stephen and Nancy Beaver signed the deed. John White made his mark on the deed as a witness.

In 1805, Stephen Beaver of Franklin County registered for the Georgia Land Lottery.\(^21\) As a free, white male, married, with wife or minor child, with one-year residence in Georgia, and citizen of the United States, he was entitled to two draws in the lottery. Unfortunately, he drew two blanks. No record has been found of Stephen and Nancy selling or otherwise disposing of their remaining 88 acres. It is possible that they simply abandoned their property. Of course, it also is possible that they sold it and the purchaser simply did not take the trouble to record the deed of sale at the courthouse. That was not an uncommon practice during that period.

Soon after losing the land lottery, Stephen moved his family further west into the frontier of northern Alabama. Not surprisingly, no record has been located of Stephen in any records there. In fact, the first local government, Madison County, was not formed until 1808 from land acquired through the Cherokee and Chickasaw Cession of 1806. The only evidence that Stephen was in Alabama is based upon the statement made by his daughter, Sarah, many years later that she was born in Alabama in 1805. Perhaps Sarah was born during the family's trek to Tennessee.

Migrating to Tennessee

Stephen Beaver next appears in Lincoln County, Tennessee, which was formed from Bedford County in 1809. Unfortunately, Stephen does not appear in any extant Bedford County records. But it is clear that he migrated to what was then Bedford County sometime prior to the organization of Lincoln County. He was styled "Stephen Beavers of Bedford County, Tennessee" when he purchased a tract of land in Lincoln County on October 20, 1809. He paid $250 to John Whitaker for the 50-acre property located along the east fork of Mulberry Creek. Hardy Holman, John Whitaker, Jr. and Joseph Whitaker signed the deed as witnesses.

On December 5, 1811, the Lincoln County Court ordered several men, including Stephen and Michael Beavers and John White, to work on the public road leading from the mouth of Mulberry Creek to George Abel's. The two neighbors, Stephen and Michael Beaver, were brothers, although no contemporary records prove their relationship. Proof that they were brothers may be found only in the words of their descendents. Michael Beaver's son, Stephen, married his first cousin, Elizabeth, the daughter of Stephen Beaver. Descendents of the couple handed down the tradition that they were first cousins and recorded that tradition in various letters and other documents. In addition, of course, it is easy to presume that John White was related to Stephen's wife, Nancy. Perhaps he was her father or her brother.

Stephen Beaver entered into a business partnership with Samuel Ramsey. The nature and purpose of their partnership was not recorded. But, on April 2, 1813, the two men together purchased a tract of land from Abraham Noblet. The 400-acre tract was situated on the south side of Mulberry Creek adjacent to the old Eastland tract. The land was either adjacent to or very near the 50-acre tract that Stephen had purchased in 1809. At least both of Stephen's other two tracts also were adjacent to the old Eastland survey. Thomas Hickman and Robert Edmonson signed the deed as witnesses.

The Lincoln County Court, on February 7, 1815, ordered Thomas Dart to be bound out as an apprentice. Stephen Beavers was ordered to take the fifteen-year-old orphan to live with him until he arrived at the age of twenty-one. During that term, Stephen Beaver was to teach the young man to read and write, as well as the trade of the cabinet business. From that record, we conclude that, in addition to farming, Stephen Beaver worked as a cabinetmaker. We also conclude that Stephen Beaver was a literate man. On September 3, 1815, Stephen Beavers witnessed a deed conveying land from John P. Wiggins of Franklin County, Tennessee to Joseph Mooney of Lincoln County. Then, on December 2, 1815, Stephen Huff sold a tract of land to Stephen Beaver. Located on the east fork of Mulberry Creek, the tract contained 194 acres of land. James Holman and Daniel Whitaker witnessed the deed.

As previously noted, the specific nature and purpose of the partnership between Stephen Beaver and Samuel Ramsey remain unclear. Perhaps the two men simply joined together in order to facilitate the purchase of that 400-acre tract. More likely, the land purchase facilitated some sort of business venture, such as timbering, mining, farming, milling, or mere speculation. Perhaps the timber on the land was the source of wood for their cabinetmaking business. In any event, the two men apparently dissolved their partnership in a little over three years. On August 20, 1816, they split the 400-acre tract into two parcels of 200 acres each and recorded the transaction in two separate deeds. The first deed conveyed the half located on the waters of Mulberry Creek adjoining Stephen Huff’s corner to Samuel Ramsey. The document was witnessed by Edward Tatum and James Holman. The second deed conveyed the other half located on the waters of Mulberry Creek adjoining George Maxwell’s corner to Stephen Beaver. The second deed was witnessed by Edward Tatum and James Hamilton.

Stephen sold a portion of his 200-acre tract to John Dusenbury on July 17, 1816. He sold the 50 acres of land on the waters of the east fork of Mulberry Creek for $75. John Beaver and Thomas Dark witnessed the deed. The identity of John Beaver is uncertain. Surely, Stephen’s son, John, was too young to witness the deed. Thus, it is presumed that John was one of Stephen’s nephews. At the November 1816 Session of the County Court, Stephen did his civic duty by serving on the local jury. In 1820, Stephen Beaver’s household consisted of sixteen persons.

It is presumed that Stephen is the oldest male and his wife is the oldest female. Because he is over 45, but his wife is under 45, it is estimated that he was born circa 1774 and that she was born circa 1776. Such estimated birth years are consistent with the births of their known children. The two older boys probably are their sons John and Thomas. The two younger boys probably are their sons James and Carroll. The oldest girl probably is their daughter Nancy. The next oldest girl probably is their daughter Sarah. Their daughter Elizabeth, then just one-year-old, is presumed to be one of the two younger girls. The other is an unknown daughter about 7-years-old. Stephen Beaver owned six slaves, four males and two females. However, certain questions remain. Where were their oldest two daughters? It is likely that they both had married prior to 1820 and were living in other households. Where was Thomas Dart, the young apprentice? Had he graduated early from his apprenticeship? Had he absconded? Had he died? The early court records are silent as to his fate.

Three other Beaver families were living in Lincoln County in 1820. Michael Beaver, then between 26-and-45-years of age, headed one household. Heading the other two households were Rigdon Beaver, between 16-and-26-years-old, and William Beaver, between 26-and-45-years-old. What relationships existed between the four men remains uncertain. Stephen and Michael Beaver were brothers. Many family researchers have postulated that the four men were brothers, but no documents have been cited to substantiate that conclusion. Perhaps the four men were brothers. Only further research may provide sufficient evidence to prove that supposition.

Stephen Beaver was a devout Baptist. He took an active part in the affairs of the local Ball Fork Baptist Church of Christ. On the third Saturday of July 1818, the congregation received a petition from the Tuckers Creek Church requesting help in settling a certain difficulty. Brothers John Whitaker, Sr., Benjamin Boone, D. Warren, Stephen Beaver, and John J. Whitaker answered the petition. Unfortunately, the precise nature of the difficulty was not recorded. Again, on the third Saturday of May 1819, Brother Mark Whitaker brought a complaint against Brother John White. Brothers Stephen Beaver and Hodges were assigned to summon the offending brother to the next meeting. John White attended the next meeting on the third Sunday of June and gave the congregation satisfaction. Rachel White also came forward and was received into the congregation by letter formerly granted by the congregation.

On the third Saturday of June 1823, the local congregation voted Brother Beavers out of their fellowship because he had left the neighborhood in a disorderly manner. However, on the third Saturday of September 1824, the congregation received a letter from Stephen Beavers asking for a letter of dismissal, which was granted. Those events mark his move to Henderson County.

Moving to Henderson County

Settlers first arrived in Henderson County soon after the Chickasaw Treaty was signed in 1818. However, because the treaty allowed the Chickasaws continued use of their hunting grounds for two years, migration did not begin in earnest until 1821 and 1822. Stephen Beaver was among the first significant wave of immigration into that section of western Tennessee. Unfortunately, genealogical research is difficult in early Henderson County. The sturdy courthouse, styled the "Temple of Justice," was destroyed by fire in 1863, thought to have been the doing of the Third Michigan Cavalry, who were then quartered in it. Most of the county records were consumed in this fire. A new courthouse was completed in 1867, but that one also succumbed to the ravages of fire early one morning in 1895. Nearly all of the county records were destroyed by that second conflagration.

When county records are missing, the family researcher must rely upon records from other primary sources. Foremost among them are the federal census schedules. Also important are the records kept at the state level, as well as those from the surrounding counties. Of course, private records, such as church records, cemetery records, family bibles, letters, etc., also are important sources of information. And lastly, when the primary sources are exhausted, secondary sources should be consulted if available. A published history in speaking of the early settlers in the vicinity of Mifflin states that, "A little south and west lived Stephen Beaver, Samuel Neill, and James Neill. It is believed they were from North Carolina." The first mills in that vicinity were those of Jere Hendricks and Richard McCleary on Forked Deer and Stephen Beaver on Clark Creek. In 1830, Stephen Beaver's household included seventeen persons.

The oldest male is presumed to be Stephen. His age category is consistent with an estimated birth year of 1774, but is not consistent with a previously published and widely quoted birth year of 1755. The oldest female is presumed to be his wife, Nancy, who probably is listed in the wrong age category. The youngest boy is presumed to be their son, Stephen, then about eight-years-old. The next oldest boy probably is their son, Carroll, then about 14-years-old. Their son, James, then 21-years-old, probably is the next oldest male. Their son, John, probably was one of the two males in their thirties, but the identity of the other is uncertain. The unidentified young man may have been a relation or, more probably, a hired hand or lodger. The younger girl probably is their daughter, Lucinda, and the older girl probably is their daughter, Elizabeth. By the time that the census was taken, their four oldest children had married and left home. In addition, Stephen owned eight slaves, six males and two females.

In 1836, Stephen Beavers paid taxes on his real and personal property. His real estate consisted of a 254-acre tract of land valued at $1,400. His personal property consisted of six slaves valued at $2,000. But Stephen paid no poll tax, indicating that he then was over sixty years of age. In all, he paid a tax of $9.20, a considerable sum in that era. By the following year, his land had increased in value to $2,240, and likewise, his five slaves increased in value to $4,000. Yet, his total tax increased to just $9.48. Because he does not appear as the head of a household in the census, it is presumed that Stephen Beaver died prior to 1840. No records from the probate of his estate have survived. However, some details concerning his estate were recorded in a deed in a neighboring county.

"Whereas in consideration of the circumstances created with our claims through our father, John Beaver, deceased, to a legacy of Stephen Beaver, his father deceased, and we having instituted a suit in the Chancery Court at Huntingdon, Tennessee against the heirs of Stephen Beaver, deceased, namely: James Thompson, but called John in the Bill, Benjamin Leach, John Miller, John L. It is clear from the foregoing deed that the jurisdiction of the Chancery Court included not just Carroll, but Henderson, and possibly other counties as well. The deed provides the only definitive listing of the heirs of Stephen and Nancy Beaver. It is presumed that his wife, Nancy, had died previously, although no further record of her has been found. It also is presumed that the children are named in their correct birth order, except for the deceased son, John. A careful search of the surviving loose probate records for Carroll County uncovered nothing. However, at its August 1845 Term, the Chancery Court appointed James Robertson as the administrator in the matter of Wilson T. Beaver, et al., vs James Beavers, et al.40 At the same August Term, the court disallowed depositions from Henry W. Beaver, Valentine S. Abell, James Abel, John Waller, Malinda Waller, Nancy E. Shepperd, and Elizabeth Beaver.41 Unfortunately, the identity of these people and their relationship to the deceased was not recorded — neither was the substance of their testimony recorded. Later during that term, the court dismissed the entire suit.42

After so many years of research, Nancy White mostly remains an enigma. She is mentioned by name in only the Franklin County, Georgia deeds. From those deeds, we conclude that she was at least literate enough to sign her name. It is presumed that she was enumerated, although only by a number, in the censuses taken in 1820 and again in 1830. That her maiden name was White comes only through family tradition. That same family tradition holds that her father fought in the Revolutionary War with her husband's father. Of course, research efforts continue in order to identify the two soldiers. It is presumed that Nancy was born circa 1776, possibly in North Carolina, and died after 1830 in Henderson County, Tennessee. It also is presumed that she married Stephen Beaver circa 1793 in North Carolina. From the meager evidence available, it seems unlikely but not impossible that Nancy White was a Native American.

Just where Stephen and Nancy were buried is not known. If tombstones ever graced their graves, they do not seem to have survived the ravages of time. They may have been buried in the cemetery adjacent to the nearby Clark's Creek Primitive Baptist Church. The children of 1. Stephen and Nancy (White) Beaver were:

+ 2. i. Susan, born circa 1795, probably in Chatham County, North Carolina.
+ 3. ii. unknown female, born circa 1799, in Franklin County, Georgia.
+ 4. iii. John, born circa 1801, in Franklin County, Georgia.
+ 5. iv. Nancy, born August 26, 1803, in Franklin County, Georgia.
+ 7. vi. Thomas, born circa 1807, in Bedford County, Tennessee.
+ 8. vii. James, born June 10, 1809, in Bedford County, Tennessee.
+ 9. viii. unknown female, born circa 1813, in Lincoln County, Tennessee.
+ 10. ix. Carroll, born March 1, 1816, in Lincoln County, Tennessee.
+ 11. x. Elizabeth, born June 14, 1819, in Lincoln County, Tennessee.
+ 13. xii. Lucinda, born February 10, 1823, probably in Lincoln County, Tennessee.

Musings on the Origin of Stephen and Nancy Beaver

Only three of their twelve children lived long enough to be included in the 1880 Census, which indicates where the parents were born. A summary of the relevant census enumerations follows:

The entry for daughter, Lucinda, does not help. Probably, one of her children, a servant, or even a neighbor, was the source for her entries. The other two entries for son, Carroll, and daughter, Elizabeth, while contradictory, are intriguing. It is noteworthy, but not conclusive, that neither point to Pennsylvania. If one of the two entries must be in error, then nothing precludes both entries being wrong. Stephen and Nancy may have been born in Georgia, but Franklin County was not likely their place of origin. Franklin County was created from lands ceded by the Indians in 1783. Settlement began in earnest soon thereafter, mostly from the Carolinas and Virginia. Thus, North Carolina seems more likely than Georgia. However, Stephen may have migrated to the northern Georgia frontier prior to the Indian Cession and married an Indian maiden there. But, that would push the estimate of his birth year back at least a decade.

Only Carroll and Elizabeth survived until 1900. In that census, Tennessee is given for the birthplace of her father and Pennsylvania for her mother. Georgia is given for the birthplace of both of Carroll's parents. No explanation for the contradictory census entries seems satisfactory. At least the entries for Carroll are consistent, even if they are wrong. Taken together, the three entries are not definitive; although Tennessee may be discounted as Stephen Beaver's birthplace. One can only conclude from the foregoing, that the continuing search for the origin of Stephen and Nancy Beaver should focus on Georgia and North Carolina, while keeping in mind that Pennsylvania should not be ignored. It is tempting to conclude that Stephen Beaver came to Georgia from Chatham County, North Carolina. In his last will and testament, dated December 30, 1801, Henry Bagley instructed “that my two sons Joab and Elisha pay Stephen Beaver and Wiley Estes’s three sons, Henry, John, and James Estes, 10 pounds each.” Unfortunately, Henry Bagley did not explain why he wanted his sons to pay the four men. Nor does the will reveal any relationship between any of the men. No further records concerning Stephen Beaver in Chatham County have been found. Yet, other Chatham County records contain other tantalizing clues to the origin of the Beaver family. On April 1, 1780, the State of North Carolina granted 300 acres in Chatham County to Michael Beaver. The State of North Carolina granted 200 acres in Chatham County on October 1782 to Rigdon Beaver.45

Conclusion

The foregoing article presents all of the public and private records that have been found concerning Stephen and Nancy (White) Beaver children. We are indebted to the staff of many public and private institutions for their patience, cooperation, and assistance. Special mention is due the helpful staff at the National Archives and Records Administration, Library of Congress, South Carolina Department of Archives and History, Georgia Department of Archives and History, Tennessee State Library and Archives, Chatham County Courthouse, Franklin County Courthouse, Lincoln County Courthouse, Henderson County Courthouse, and the very kind ladies at the National Society Daughters of the American Revolution Library, Mid-Continent Public Library, Dallas Public Library, and the Clayton Library in Houston. Also, many thanks are due to our cousins Orpha Jewel Weaver and Billy B. Lassiter, who generously shared their research with us.

Murphy, 08/1843, widow, farmer.

The same issue of The Melting Pot contains a pedigree chart for Norval Finn Ziegler, Jr. (date and place of birth not shown). His paternal grandparents were Robert Michael "Bud" Ziegler, b. May 1861, McMinn Co., TN, and Evaline Norman, b. 9 Nov 1876, Saline Co., AR; Robert’s parents were Benjamin Tyson Ziegler, b. 1820, Franklin Co. VA, and Susannah “Susie” Mansell, b. Abt. 1823, McMinn Co., TN, d. Abt. 1879, Rhea Co., TN. Evaline’s parents were James Clinton Norman, b. 9 Dec 1853, McMinn Co., TN, and Sabilas Angeline Godbehere, b. 7 Feb 1858 in TN.

Norval’s mother, Gladys C. Riley’s grandparents, were Daniel Riley, b. 9 Jan 1852, Gibson Co., TN, and Anna Elizabeth Rucker, b. Nov 1841 in TN.

PHILIP ALEXANDER WRIGHT (1838-1910), born in Obion County, TN, was a Confederate soldier and a farmer. Philip and his wife, Duinda Caroline Everett, and their seven children moved to Texas—first to Erath County (about 1875) and then to Brown County (sometime between 1880 and 1900). Duinda Caroline died in Brown County in 1906. Two years later, Philip moved to San Antonio. He died on July 18, 1910 and is buried in San Antonio City Cemetery #4. The article and a picture of Philip can be found in Our Heritage, Volume 46, Numbers 1 & 2, published by the San Antonio Genealogical and Historical Society.

MIGRATION of TENNESSEE FAMILIES from Hamilton County to Southeast Georgia and to the boarding areas of North Florida is covered in the article From Walden Ridge and Chickamauga to Wiregrass, Suwannee and Beyond, published in Huxford Genealogical Society, Inc. Magazine, Homerville, Georgia, Volume XXXI, No. IV. Four subject families include Thomas and Henry Daughtry with their wives and children. The first record found of them in Tennessee was their appearance on the 1818 Tax List for Williamson County and also on the 1820 census with Thomas “Dautry” as head. Thomas and Henry appeared on the 1830 census of Hamilton County. The third family was James Pafford and his wife, Wealthy (Corbitt) Pafford and their children. Evidence of them in Tennessee is first found in the 1820 census of Warren County. The fourth of the subject families is Isaac Curry and his wife, Francis (Maze/Mays) Curry and their five children. The earliest record of Isaac in Hamilton County is a Deed of Trust to Asabel Rawlings made August 11, 1835. Isaac is also listed in District #1 on the 1836 Tax List Hamilton County and shows no taxable land. The article includes the names of the men from these four families who joined, with many of their neighbors, as volunteers in military units in the period 1836-1839 to serve in the so-called Cherokee Wars.

JOSEPH H. HAYNES'S biographical record is included in Ray County Reflections, Volume XIII, No. 3. Joseph was a highly-respected farmer. He was born in Ray County, Missouri in 1846. His parents were James P. (born about 1815 in Tenn.) and Jane (Schooler) Haynes. Joseph's paternal grandparents were Joseph and Sarah Haynes, natives of Tennessee.

WORLD WAR I DRAFT REGISTRATION, De Soto Parish, Louisiana includes the following born in Tennessee: Jake Hibeman, born 3 March 1887, in Danville. He was a white male, single, blue eyes, dark brown hair, medium height and build. When he registered in 1917, he was working for Frost Johnson Lumber Company, and his address was South Mansfield, LA; Hans Herron Hubbard, born 19 December 1888 in Sulpher Springs. He was married with two children, self-employed farmer. He was medium height and build with blue eyes and red hair. He had lost his right leg. His address was Oxford, LA. Information was printed in The Louisiana Genealogical Register, Volume LI No. 4.

CHARITY BRADLEY, widow of J. F. Bradley filed a Widow's Pension Application #46667, June 13, 1930. She showed her deceased husband's full name as Joseph Fowler Bradley, born September 14, 1851 in Wayne County, Tenn. They married there on April 13, 1870. His command originated in Tennessee and he served 4 years. 1st Tenn. Reg., Co. F was shown on the application, and he transferred from infantry to cavalry but date not known. Joseph resided in Red Oak, Texas for sixteen-years prior to his death in Ellis County, Texas on June 19, 1905. Charity died on July 2, 1932 in Lancaster, Dallas County, Texas.

The War Department could not locate the name J. F. Bradley on the muster rolls on file for Company F, of any Confederate States Army organization from the state of Tennessee. The records did show one Joseph Bradley served in Company F, 7th (Duckworth's) Tennessee Cavalry. Information was in an article in Searches & Researchers, Ellis County, Texas, Volume XXVII, Issue 2.

SHEMWELL FAMILY NOTES published in the Bulletin of the Genealogical Society of Old Tryon County, N.C., Volume XXXIII, Number 1, contains the following references to former Tennesseans:

- Probable descent of several lines from Isaac Shemwell (b. by 1692 in St. Mary's Co., Maryland) included Elisha M. Shemwell, born about 1837, died 23 June 1863, Greenville, Tennessee in Company F, 62nd Regt. CSA.
MARRIAGES and DEATH RECORDS from The Raleigh Register 1850, in The North Carolina Genealogical Society Journal, Volume XXXI, No. 1, includes the following with a Tennessee connection:

Saturday, 23 March 1850 – Married on Thursday, February 28, 1850, by Rev. B. K. Cunningham, Capt. William Burges, aged 79, to Mrs. Abigail Fields, aged 82, all of Grainger County, Tenn. (With comment ‘Go it while you are young.’);

Robert, son of James and Mary Paine, was born in Person County, N. C., November 12, 1799 and came to Giles County, Tennessee, with his parents in 1814.

Esquire James Paine’s tombstone inscription in Pulaski, Tennessee shows he was born in Person County, N. C., March 18, 1776 and died 19 Aug 1840. Some descendants still live in Giles County.

In the fall of 1846, Bishop Paine moved to Aberdeen, Miss, where he lived until his death on Oct 19, 1882. His wife (not named) died at Aberdeen Jan 3, 1904. The following

G. B. CURRY was born in Tennessee June 7, 1824 and departed this life January 31, 1917. He was a Confederate soldier and a Mason. He married Miss M. A. Thompson, December 12, 1844. She died at Miles, May 1906. Nine of their 12 children lived to adulthood. At the time of Mr. Curry's death the following six children were still living: D. T. Curry and Mrs. Mollie Wilson, Henrietta, Texas; N. S. Curry, Los Angeles, California; C. L. Curry, Gatesville, Texas, T. M. Curry, Blanket, Texas; A. M. Curry, Miles, Texas. Two sisters and two brothers, and 54 grandchildren and 71 great-grandchildren also survived him. His obituary was extracted from the Miles Messenger, February 9, 1917 and appears in Stalkin' Kin, Volume XXXII, No. 3.

3/8 - A. J. Wornack of Bradford County, TN and his son, J. C., of Athens rented the Carter Mill. J. C. was the miller and postmaster of the Carter community.

Robertson Family/Hardin County, Tennessee originally published in Planters, Patriots, and Pioneers, One Hundred Ninety-Five Years in Limestone County appears in the same issue of Limestone Legacy. Samuel and Hannah (Elizabeth) (Litton) Robertson had moved around in the Mississippi Territory during the three-year period of their removal by the government's force of soldiers stationed at Fort Hampton. Pension records from the Revolution show that Samuel was in Hickman County, Tennessee and Madison County, Alabama. Other family members in the area included: Michael and Mary and a son named Samuel; Michael's siblings and their spouses, Eli and Mary (called Polly) Holland Robertson (married 1815); Tillman and Tabitha Robertson Holland (married 1816); Elizabeth Robertson and John Grinder. The article also contains Hardin County survey records; Robinson (spelled as shown) listed on the 1833 Hardin County Census records, an inventory of the property of Samuel Robinson, sold July 1836 and family sheets for John Grinder and Elizabeth Robertson.

George Smith Houston, former Governor of Alabama, was born in Williamson County, Tennessee in 1809. He moved to Lauderdale County, Alabama in 1821 with his parents. George was admitted to the bar in 1831 and represented Lauderdale County in the legislature. In 1834, he moved to Limestone County and continued service in the legislature. He was elected to Congress in 1841 and served until 1859. George was elected governor in 1874 and is credited with saving Alabama from a near state of bankruptcy and putting the state well on the way to social, political and economic recovery. He died at Athens on 17 January 1879. Additional information can be found in the article Belle Mina, Alabama and published in the same issue of Limestone Legacy mentioned above.

Crenshaw Cemetery in Limestone County, Alabama contains the name Doct' George W. Crenshaw, born in Davidson City, Tenn. 21st Feb 1813 and died 10 March 1844. Inscription reprinted from a plat book and appears in the same issue of Limestone Legacy.

Donation Update

The Tennessee Genealogical Society library has been the grateful recipient of about sixty genealogical books and periodicals and a lifetime of genealogical research papers of Francis Marion Duke. This material was donated by his widow, Iska, and his two daughters, Mrs. Dale Crenshaw and Mrs. Donna Orner. A few of the books donated and recently added to our collection are family books with the following surnames: Kuykendall/Kirkendall, Lindley, Shelby, Van Zandt and Hoffmann. Some of the books added for research are: Yalobusha County Mississippi Cemetery Records (4 volumes), South Carolina Land Grant Maps, and South Carolina in the Revolution. The research papers are being sorted and will be indexed by surname.

We want to extend our thanks and appreciation to the family for this excellent donation.

Holt Marries His Mother-in-Law

Pages have been written about mothers-in-law, much of which no doubt is untrue, but few chroniclers have been called upon to announce the marriage of a mother-in-law to a son-in-law, the Nashville Banner noted in its issue of 1 Aug 1898.

Such a thing happened in Davidson County on Saturday night, 30 Aug 1898, however, when A. J. Holt, a well-known resident of the 23rd District, and Mrs. Dora McCool were made one at the home of the groom by Rev. John Gardner.

Mrs. McCool’s daughter, who preceded her mother as A. J.’s wife, died four months earlier.

THE ELUSIVE ANCESTOR
By MERRELL KENWORTHY

I went searching for an ancestor. I cannot find him still. He moved around from place to place and did not leave a will. He married where a courthouse burned. He mended all the fences. He avoided any man who came to take the U.S. Census. He always kept his luggage packed, this man who had no fame. And every twenty-years or so, this rascal changed his name. His parents came from Europe. They should be upon some list of passengers to the U.S.A., but somehow they got missed. And no one else in this world is searching for this man. So, I play geneasolitaire to find him if I can. I’m told he is buried in a plot, with tombstone he was blessed; but the weather took engraving, and some vandals took the rest. He died before the county clerks decided to keep records. No family Bible has emerged, in spite of all my efforts. To top it all, this ancestor, who caused me many groans, just to give me one more pain, betrothed a girl named Jones.
Shelley R. Cardiel, of Kirkland, WA, submitted this vintage photo of Elizabeth Turner Thompson. This photograph was taken circa 1865-70 at the Moyston’s Star Gallery in Memphis, Tennessee. The photograph was found in an album belonging to Clem McClellan and also includes photographs of Mary Elizabeth Rather, born 6 October 1899, in what appears to be a christening dress. These photos were taken in Luling, Texas.

Shelly enjoys recovering family treasures as a hobby and would like to reunite the photograph with the family.

If anyone has any information on these families or this photograph, please contact Jennye Miller Scott.
71st Annual Sandlin Family Reunion

The Sandlin family reunion will be held at the Decatur Recreation Center at 610 Fourth Avenue SE in Decatur, Alabama on August 6, 2005, the first Saturday in August. Please bring a covered dish and refreshments; plates, cups, napkins and utensils will be provided. Everyone will be meeting in the gym at Fort Decatur Recreation Center. The gymnasium is air-conditioned.

Directions from Highway 31 in Decatur: Take 6th Avenue Southeast, turn west on Gordon Drive, and Fort Decatur is the rock building. Please bring your Sandlin relatives. Contact Chairman: Dr. Randall Sandlin at 1318 Stratford Road Southeast, Decatur, Alabama 35601 or Secretary: Yvonne Sandlin Braly, 3704 Colorado Court Southwest, Decatur, Alabama 35603, (256) 353-8624, vonbraly@hiwaay.net

One of the local Sandlin lines came from Orange County, North Carolina to Cayce/Mount Pleasant, Marshall County, in the North Mississippi area, circa 1838, while others moved to Morgan, Walker, Blount and Lawrence Counties of Alabama, with lines settling in Lincoln and Shelby Counties of Tennessee.

The Marshall County, Mississippi and Shelby County, Tennessee lines have relations to the following surnames: Attaway, Boling/Bowling, Carrington, Harris/Harriss, Hays/Hayes, Lambert/Lambeth, Loftin and Walker.

For further information on the Sandlin family check out The Sandlin Clan by Dale S. Sandlin, 1970.
An extra of the Clarksville Chronicle, dated Saturday, July 22, 1862, preserved and kindly lent the Veteran by Miss Blanche Lewis, contains the casualties of the Fourteenth Tennessee in the seven days battles, June 26th to July 2nd, and of Seven Pines. The following notes:

Company A -- R. D. Duke and J. M. Hatton were killed and nine were wounded. Names of the wounded are given in every instance.

Company B -- W. J. Martin was killed and eighteen were wounded.

Company C -- Jos. Gambol, J. M. Jones, B. F. Anderson, James and Titus Powell killed and thirteen were wounded. Of the wounded, Richard Pike and William Erwin had died.

Company D -- Captain C. L. Martin, Johnathan Cherry and W. E. Largin were killed and nine were wounded.

Company E -- Lieutenant Grice, Joseph Burns and F. Warford were killed and four were wounded.

Company F -- R. T. Brooks was killed and fourteen were wounded.

Company G -- Dallas Booth was killed and of the twelve were wounded, T. H. Collins and William Hamilton had died.

Company H -- C. C. Tilley and W. H. Reagan were killed and thirteen were wounded -- T. M. Broaddus of the list had died. Of the severely wounded was the esteemed and faithful veteran of today, Captain J. J. Crusman.

Company I -- W. T. Baber and Richard Chandler were killed (the former on picket) and seven were wounded.

Company K -- J. W. Gunn was killed and fourteen were wounded.

G. A. Tompkins, who was among the wounded, died soon afterward.

The circular contains an error, as it names a “Company L,” when there was no such. Under that letter, however, J. H. Slaughter is reported killed and the names of eight were wounded. The closing note reports that General R. J. Hatton was killed and that Adjutant R. C. Bell was mortally wounded.

The Men From Tennessee

Judge Robert Farrell, the genial friend and brother of every true Mason, has blossomed out as a poet. His poem on the Tennesseans, partially uniformed, marching up Market Street on Friday, June 17th, with a weather-stained and battle-scarred flag captured by their fathers during the rebellion, has made him famous. We like to see the amaranth encircling the brow of the judge, for he is a worthy brother. We know that he was capable of brilliant things, as his Masonic addresses long since proved, but we never knew that he was capable of springing, at a single bound, into national distinction. We copy the poem below from the Knoxville Journal & Tribune, 3 June 1899:

Again the troops came marching and music's in the air;
Again the streets are crowded, with old and young, and fair;
Again the long line passes in soldierly array;
But something more than usual is the pageant of today;
For through "Old Glory's" waving in every shape and size;
One faded piece of bunting brings tears to many eyes;

Why do the people wildly shout, why do they run and cheer?
What is there in the passing show that seems to all so dear?
Look for yourself, down the line, where a stalwart youth holds high
A faded, torn and tattered flag that moistens every eye.
It needs no words to tell its tale of battles fierce and glory.
Shot and shell have told too well that tragic, thrilling story.

Brave Southerners, far from happy homes in grand old Tennessee,
We bid you welcome, one and all, to our city by the sea;
The memories of other days, which cluster round your state,
Are stained by no mean jealousies, no base, ignoble hate.
Your battlefields are holy ground, where heroes fought and died;
The valor of the Blue and Gray is now a nation's pride.

Beneath that flag you proudly bear, great Jackson won his fame,
And every son of Tennessee now glories in his name;
We do not care what clothes you wear, we know your hearts are true;
Your fathers may have worn the Gray, their children wear the Blue.
Good luck attend you, gallant boys, from brave old Tennessee,
Your noble state is never late to strike for liberty.

The past is dead, save when it brings great thoughts of brave deeds done.
The living present now demands true faith from everyone;
The fighting stock of freedom's soil, united as of yore,
Will plant the banner of the stars on many a distant shore,
Shoulder to shoulder, brethren, all, no section lines can sever
The bonds of love that make us one, forever and forever.
OBITUARIES FROM EARLY TENNESSEE NEWSPAPERS, 1794-1851, edited by the Rev. Silas Emmett Lucas, Jr., originally printed 1978, reprinted 2005, 6” x 9”, hardcover, 432 pages. $42.50 plus $3.50 s&h, Southern Historical Press, Inc., P. O. Box 1267, Greenville, SC 29602-1267

If your ancestor died in the early 1800s, you probably don’t expect that you’ll ever find his death notice. But you will at least want to search through this reprint of obits that were published in Knoxville and Nashville dailies and the Franklin, Tennessee Western Weekly Review over a 57-year period beginning in 1794. The reprint contains about 7,000 death notices, with many of the deceased persons having been born in the 1700s. Besides death notices of Tennessee residents, the book also reproduces those of a few prominent citizens of nearby Kentucky, Alabama, Virginia, Maryland and other states. As was customary in the early years of Tennessee newspapers, most of the notices were brief but include valuable hard-to-find details. Like the marriage records in the preceding review, these death notices were only available on card files at the state archives until publication of the original book in 1978.

EARLY MARRIAGES, WILLS, AND SOME REVOLUTIONARY WAR RECORDS, BOTETOURT COUNTY, VIRGINIA, compiled by Anne Lowry Worrell, 1958, repr. 2004, 5½”x 8½”, softcover, 69 pp., $10.95 plus $4.00 s&h for first book & $1.50 for each additional book, Clearfield Company, Inc., 203 E. Eager St., Baltimore, MD 21202 (410) 625-9004
Botetourt County, Virginia was formed from Augusta County in 1769. These records begin in the late 18th century and continue through the early 19th century. The marriage records are arranged alphabetically by grooms and include the names of brides, sureties and dates. The probate records are arranged alphabetically by decedents and include the names of heirs with their relationship to the decedent and the date of probate. At least 2,000 persons are named in these records. Revolutionary War records are exact copies of original records found in the courthouse in Fincastle in Botetourt County. If your ancestors were in this area during the period covered, it would be well to check out this little book.

1830 CENSUS OF ARKANSAS, by L. E. Presley, pub. 1971, repr. 2004, 88 pp. plus new index, softcover, $20.00 plus $3.50 s&h, Southern Historical Press, Inc., P. O. Box 1267, Greenville, SC 29602-1267 (800) 233-0152

Finding your ancestor in the census is one of the first steps the researcher must take. Before you can go further, you must find just where and when your ancestor was at a given place. This census was taken when there were twenty-three counties in Arkansas. The counties covered in this issue are: Chicot, Clark, Conway, Crawford, Crittenden, Hempstead, Hot Springs, Independence, Izard, Jackson, Jefferson, Lafayette, Laurens, Miller, Monroe, Phillips, Pope, Pulaski, St. Francis, Sevier & Union Counties. This census was to start June 1, 1830 and end in six-months. The head of household only is listed by name. The remainder of the residents are listed by the number of persons in age groups, head of household included. The last number is the number of slaves owned. Free coloreds are also listed. This volume was reproduced from a 1971 edition in the publisher's private library.

1840 CENSUS OF ARKANSAS, by L. E. Presley, pub. 1971, repr. 2004, 268 pp. plus new index, softcover, $30.00 plus $3.50 s&h, Southern Historical Press, Inc., P. O. Box 1267, Greenville, SC 29602-1267 (800) 233-0152

The census for a given period is one of the most important tools for the genealogical researcher, as it is difficult to proceed without finding out just where your ancestors were and when they were there and when they left. This 1840 census was for the thirty-nine counties in existence at the time. This census was to begin June 1, 1840 and to end ten-months later. The thirty counties in this census are: Arkansas, Benton, Carroll, Chicot, Clark, Conway, Crawford, Crittenden, Desha, Franklin, Greene, Hempstead, Hot Springs, Independence, Izard, Jackson, Jefferson, Johnson, Lafayette, Lawrence, Madison, Marion, Mississippi, Monroe, Phillips, Pike, Poinsett, Pope, Pulaski, Randolph, St. Francis, Saline, Scott, Searcy, Sevier, Union, Van Buren, Washington and White Counties. The format is the same as for the previous census before 1850. This volume was reproduced from a 1971 edition in the publisher's private library.

MISSOURI TAXPAYERS 1819-1826, by Lois Stanley, George Wilson & Maryellen Wilson, pub. 1979, repr. 2004, 144 pp., softcover, indexed. $28.50 plus $3.50 s&h, Southern Historical Press, Inc., P. O. Box 1267, Greenville, S.C. 29602-1267, (800) 233-0152

This is the first listing of male and sometimes female residents of Missouri for the period when it became a state. It can also be used as a first census, 1820-1825.
Missouri became a state in August, 1821. The population at the time was about 60,000, with about 10,000 adult heads of families. This book is most important to the researcher, because the first census was in 1830, and by that time, many of these early settlers were gone because they had died or had moved on. This work includes lists of taxpayers, some from territorial days, covering fifteen counties in existence before 1826. It also includes list of taxpayers on writs, deeds, executions, convictions, etc., as well as licenses to sell goods, run a ferry, deal in groceries or “spirits”, as well as some from newspapers, such as from legal and other notices, statements of counties, and lists of delinquent taxpayers. Some from these lists cannot be found anywhere else. For the most part, the years covered are 1820 through 1825, but in some instances, the list might be from 1819-1826. For Scott County, the 1826 delinquent list is the only source available. For Montgomery County (a burned county), the years from 1819-1825 are included.

WILSON COUNTY, TENNESSEE, CHANCERY COURT RECORDS, 1842-1892, by Thomas Pardlow, pub. 2005, 261 pp. softcover, indexed, $32.50 plus $3.50 s&h, Southern Historical Press, Inc., P. O. Box 1267, Greenville, SC 29602-1267, (800) 233-0152

This a new publication on a county where many people who migrated to the west came through or stopped for a period of time. The surrounding counties of Cannon, De Kalb, Rutherford, Smith and Sumner Counties are often mentioned, as well as other counties and states. Chancery court records are most important to the researcher because they include actions and details of families that cannot be found elsewhere. These records include settlements, some for people who did not have wills, land transactions, divorces and some Civil War information. An example of an entry is “Bill of Complaint of A. B. Comer against Stephen E. Comer and his children, to wit, William, Caroline, Catherine, Elizabeth, and Rueben of Arkansas; Jessie Sparks and daughter Sophronia of Mississippi; Hall Marrs of Gibson County; and Randall Gresham and children of Arkansas. Said complainant’s grandfather, Hugh Marrs, died in 1825. He gave his wife use of the land during her lifetime and then to my seven girls. All seven girls are dead, having died in the lifetime of the mother. Said A. B. Comer is the only child of his mother, Mahala. The defendants are the only heirs of their mothers, Martha Ann Comer, and Julia Sparks. The other four girls died with issue 20 April 1866.”

CD THE GENEALOGIST’S ADDRESS BOOK, fifth edition, by Elizabeth Petty Bentley, $19.99 plus $4.00 s&h, #7427, Genealogical Publishing Company, Inc., 1001 N. Calvert St., Baltimore, MD 21202 (800) 296-6687 or < www.genealogical.com >

Previous editions of The Genealogist’s Address Book have been published in book form. However, since this fifth edition is so much larger, the only practical format is the CD. This CD is organized by subject, and contains the names, addresses, phone numbers, fax numbers, e-mail addresses, Web sites, contacts, and business hours for more than 16,500 national and state archives, government offices, vital records offices, libraries, historical and genealogical societies, and independent publishers. It also contains the same information on ethnic organizations, religious research centers and other special resources. This CD is easily and fully searchable and is indexed by national, state, local, lineage, heredity, and patriotic societies. This CD is the only source of such a comprehensive list of resources and will give the researcher ideas of places to go that most people do not know exist. It is a must for libraries and a great tool for all researchers.

INDEX TO THE 1810 CENSUS OF VIRGINIA, compiled by Elizabeth Petty Bentley, 1980 repr. 2004, softcover 5½"x8½", 366pp, #470, $35.00 plus $4.00 s&h, Clearfield Company, Inc., 200 E. Eager Street, Baltimore, Maryland 21202 (401) 625-9004 <www.genealogical.com>

Locating early Revolutionary War period settlers in Virginia can be done more easily with this index than scrolling the 1810 census for Virginia to locate surnames. This reprint of the Index to the Census of 1810 allows the researcher to locate Virginia's colonists much more quickly than using microfilm at the National Archives, Family History Centers or public libraries. Great care was given to transcribing the alphabetical listing of heads of household from the original lists. The variety of spellings increases the chances of locating a surname. These names become a stepping-stone to locating court and land records for an ancestor. Tables include a list of the counties, their abbreviations, and the number of the roll where the original record can be found. A second table gives details of each roll as to townships and pages. The compact size of this book makes it easy to take along to libraries or to use when online searching for early Virginia colonists.

$2.50 for each additional book.
Supplement, 120 pp., with genealogical data of 2,600 Woolfolds from 1600s to present $10.00, s&h for both $9.00,
Wymnton Publishing, 6524 San Felipe, No. 94, Houston, TX 77057 (713) 465-2505, fax (713) 465-3039 <www.woolfolkbook.com>

The primary character in this book is John Woolfolk, 1781-1861, of Augusta, Georgia and his ancestors and descendants, however, it is much more than a family history. This book is also a comprehensive history of the early settlement of the states of Virginia, Kentucky, North Carolina, South Carolina, Tennessee and Georgia, of which the Woolfolk family were some of the earliest settlers. The book is the story of a small group of families, neighbors, friends, and relatives who traveled together, lived in the same communities, intermarried, and their descendants who moved on to settle other areas. The genealogy and events in this book are fully documented. In addition to the names of people involved, the book shows the reactions of those people to local and national events at the time. The pages of the book contain maps, illustrations, pictures of historic homes, diaries, land plats and deeds, wills, court proceedings and military records. Some surnames mentioned are Adams, Alexander, Baker, Barr, Murray, Phillips, Taylor, Walker and Waller. This book is a great history of the early settlement of the South, as well as the ideal for a family history.

This is the third edition in the series of Maryland marriages from 1633-1820. The contents were taken from church records at the Maryland Historical Society and the Maryland State Archives, St. Paul's Lutheran Church in Cumberland, and from marriages recorded by individual ministers. The records from marriage licenses by county courts were not used because most have already been published. This book contains a list of sources by county, or in the case of the Society of Friends, the name of the meeting. The source list gives the code numbers, name, and locations of the records. An example of some marriages listed are: George F. Janney (s of Mary), 16 d, 5 mo., 1816, Sarah H. John (d of Reuben and Lydia of Uwchlaub Twp., Chester County, Pa.); 09 SF, Samuel Sherwood, 14 June 1820, Johanna Forrester 17 BA-23. This book is another great source of the marriage information you are seeking but have not found in previous publications.

contains plats of the earliest documented North Carolina land patents or grants in Bedford County, beginning with the 5,000-acre grant to Alexander and Thomas Greer in the Pleasant Grove area. The land was located by Alexander in 1783 and surveyed in 1785. The plats show neighboring properties and in many instances identify property owners. Another highly interesting entry is an unknown eyewitness account of the 1830 tornado that destroyed the county's first courthouse. Lists of Revolutionary War soldiers residing in the county, definitions of terms used in early documents, a directory of Bedford and Marshall County settlers, and an explanation of the school land law which required land to be set aside in the various counties for school buildings (many of which were never erected) are among other goodies to be found in this great addition to genealogical information about Bedford County.

GUIDE TO NATURALIZATION RECORDS OF THE UNITED STATES, by Christina K. Schafer, 1997 repr. 2004, 406 pages, hardback, ISBN 0-8063-1532-6, $30.00 plus $4.00 s&h, $1.50 each additional book, Maryland residents add 5% sales tax, Michigan residents add 6% sales tax, Genealogical Publishing Co., Inc., 1001 N. Calvert St., Baltimore, MD 21202-3897 <www.genealogical.com>

A reference book for those with naturalized ancestors. The book gives a detailed description as to the location of all naturalization and related records. The Guide is arranged alphabetically by state and then alphabetically by counties within each state. In each, all repositories of naturalization records are identified. The types of records, dates of coverage and location of original and microfilm records are given. In Tennessee, for example, it states "Naturalization records in Tennessee can be found in county, state and U.S."
district courts. It then lists the statewide records and locations and indicates that they may also be found at the National Archives Regional Branch, East Point, Georgia. Following these counties with records and the status of the records are given. In addition to the naturalization records, the book includes a history of naturalization, Native American tribal citizenship records, information on Japanese and Chinese Americans and internment records of American citizens by the U.S. Government. A great source for locating naturalization records that are found in a variety of places.

"Bonneau, Anthoine. He was born at La Rochelle, France, the son of Jean Bonneau and Catherine Roi. His wife was Catherine DuBliss. Their children were Anthonie Bonneau, Jean Henri Bonneau and Jacob Bonneau. Their first and second children were born in France, and the last child was born in South Carolina. They were naturalized in South Carolina 10 March 1696/7. He is a cooper. His son, Anthony Bonneau, Jr., was a gunsmith." This is an excellent source book that should be in all genealogical libraries.

DENIZATIONS AND NATURALIZATIONS IN THE BRITISH COLONIES IN AMERICA, 1607-1775, by Lloyd deWit Bockstruck, 2005, 350 pages, paperback, full name index, ISBN 0-8063-1754-X, $30.00 plus $4.00 s&h, $1.50 each additional book, Maryland residents add 5% sales tax, Michigan residents add 6% sales tax, Genealogical Publishing Co., Inc., 1001 N. Calvert St., Baltimore, MD 21202-3897

Bockstruck has listed alphabetically more than 13,000 persons who received British citizenship by naturalization or denization during the period 1607 to 1775. Individuals who lived in the colonies and other European nations that were annexed by the British are also included. This was the case in New Netherlands [New York], Acadia, Quebec, East Florida and West Florida. The individuals are arranged alphabetically, and there is also an index of spouses, children and other parties mentioned in the records. At minimum, the data furnished on an individual is name, date and place of naturalization or denization. Many contain additional data such as country of origin, religion, current residence and occupation. The following is an example of additional data given:

A BIBLIOGRAPHY OF AMERICAN COUNTY HISTORIES, compiled by P. William Fiby, 1985, repr. 2005, 449 pages, paperback, ISBN 85-1126-6, price $35.00 plus $4.00 s&h, each additional item $1.50, UPS ground service, one item $6.00, each additional item $2.50. Maryland residence add 5% sales tax, Michigan residents add 6% sales tax, Genealogical Publishing Co., Inc., 1001 N. Calvert St., Baltimore, MD 21202, <www.genealogical.com>

This is a state-by-state listing of county histories. Each listing includes title, author, place and date of publication and information on indexes, editions and reprints. In some cases, publications that cover a region are also given. This is a valuable source of information for any genealogist moving his or her research to a new state or county.

CUMBERLAND COUNTY, PENNSYLVANIA QUARTER SESSION DOCKETS, 1750-1785, by Diane E. Greene, Accredited Genealogist, paperback, 5½ x 8 ½”, 346 pp, full name index, map, 2000, reprint 2004, $32.50 plus $4.00 s&h for first book & $1.50 for each additional book, Clearfield Company.
Ms. Greene used a typescript collection of extracts prepared by John G. Orr in 1925 and a microfilm copy of the original records photographed by the LDS Church and compiled a complete collection of abstracts of the Cumberland County Court Quarter Session Dockets for the period 1750 to 1785, with the exception of the period 1771-1785 for Bedford County. The Quarter Session records extracted by Ms. Greene apply to the original boundaries of Cumberland County. During the 1750s, when the county seat was at Shippensburg, a number of the entries pertained to criminal cases dealing with assault and battery, larceny, neglect of highway duty, and so on. Other matters before the court included appointments to the grand jury, defaults on payments, selling spirits without a license, and horse theft. In the 1770's, by which time the court sessions were being held in Carlisle, the dockets mostly listed the names of county officials, such as constables and overseers of roads, members of grand juries, and persons who had petitioned the court to lay out new roadways. The Quarter Sessions Dockets have placed individuals in Cumberland County at a particular point in time during the second half of the 18th century. If your ancestor shows up in the 10,000-name index, then you have found the clue needed to conduct further research in the records of Cumberland County.

In 1753, Bedford County was formed from Albemarle and Lunenburg Counties. In addition to the names of some 3,000 brides and grooms, the names of many of the parents and/or sureties are also included. Examples of some entries are: James Branch and Frances Terry, October 9, 1789, James White, Surety. Consent of Polly Terry, mother of Frances, and John Smith and Susanna Scarborough, March 22, 1787, William Thornhill, Surety. Consent of Robert Scarborough, father of Susanna. Several hundred names are listed alphabetically in the index of wills. The records in this book are some of the oldest for Bedford County, making it a valuable resource for the genealogist.

INDEX TO VIRGINIA ESTATES, 1800-1865, VOL. 5, compiled by Wesley E. Pippenger, 2004, hardcover, 547 pp., $40.00 (VGS member price $32.00) plus $4.00 s&h for first book & $1.00 for each additional book. Virginia residents add 5% state sales tax. Order from: Virginia Genealogical Society, 5001 W. Broad St., Suite 115, Richmond, VA 23230-3023 (804) 285-8934

This book is a continuation of the series on Virginia Estates by this author. Volume 5 covers a geographical area and includes an index of all items recorded in the will books of those counties and cities of that area for the period 1800-1865. The area covered by this book includes the counties of Appomattox, Bedford, Campbell, Charlotte, Halifax, Pittsylvania, and the city of Lynchburg. Each volume continues the alphabetical listing of names, followed by county name, type of record, year, and a reference code. The codes and abbreviations are delineated in the front of the book. This continuous alphabetical listing makes it easy for the researchers to check on the same surname in adjoining counties. Volume 5 also contains a map showing which counties are covered in each volume. An example of the data given in the index is: Marshall, Sarah c/o Spain, Halifax Guard, Acct. 1814 WB 11:105. This means that the Guardian Account records for 1814 for Sarah Marshall, child of Spain Marshall, are in Halifax County Will Book 11, page 105. The code section in the front of the book for Halifax County shows Will Book 11 has inventories, accounts, etc. for the period 1817-1820 and can be found on Reel 40 (microfilm reel number in the Library of Virginia). This book contains 4,389 wills and several thousand related documents for a total of 32,712 entries. Several entries indicate a Tennessee connection. This series is an excellent source for Virginia researchers.

WILLS & INVENTORIES OF LINCOLN COUNTY, TENNESSEE, 1810-1921, by Helen C. & Timothy R. Marsh, Pub. 1989, repr. 2004, paperback, 200 pp., indexed, $30.00 plus $3.50 s&h, order from: Southern Historical Press, Inc., P.O. Box 1267, Greenville, SC 29602-1267 Visa/MC orders only (800) 233-0152

The sources of the wills and inventories abstracted in this book were the records at the courthouse in Fayetteville, Tennessee and from the State Library and Archives in Nashville, Tennessee. Although these were not some of the “burned records”, many records for this county were lost during the Union occupation of Fayetteville during the Civil War. A similar book was originally published in 1977 and sold out in a short time. Rather than reprint it, the authors have chosen to extend the term covered by the book until December 1921. The index in the front of the book contains the name of the person whose will is recorded and the page number in the original record. The index in the back of the book contains all surnames, including heirs, executors, witnesses, etc., with the book page number, thus aiding the researcher. Sixteen-hundred wills of persons who died in Lincoln County, Tennessee are listed, and about ten-thousand to twelve-thousand persons are mentioned in these wills. Wills and other court records are one of the best sources for the genealogist who is trying to connect family members.

SECOND STAGES IN RESEARCHING WELSH ANCESTRY

Edited by John & Sheila Rowlands, pub. 1999, softcover, indexed, 348 pp., Cost: $13.00 plus $4.00 s&h for the first book and $1.50 for each additional book. Order from: Genealogical Publishing Co., Inc., 1001 N. Calvert St., Baltimore, MD 21202-3897 (800) 296-6687

The University of Wales has offered the study of family history since 1986. These courses resulted in the first book in this series of Welsh Family History, A Guide to Research. In time, more advanced courses were needed which resulted in this book. A few of the topics covered by the authors are: Religion and Society; Industrial and Occupations; Documents and Specialized Studies; People and Places; the Welsh at Home and in the Professions. The sixth topic consists of papers of students who attended the courses offered at the University. The surnames of Lloyd, Reginald and Jones are the topics of some of the students’ research. Because of the uniqueness of research in Wales, I would recommend starting with Welsh Family History, A Guide to Research and following up with Second Stages in Researching Welsh Ancestry before beginning you quest in Wales.

This book is not intended for the novice genealogist but for someone knowledgeable about general research who needs to locate information in Wales or is having difficulty with their Welsh ancestry. Many people are unaware that the social, cultural, religious customs and lingo of Wales are quite different from that of England. Also, many of the records have not survived, and this book aids the researcher in knowing what is available and where to find it. Some of the topics covered in the book are: Some Basic Welsh; Archive Repositories in Wales; Civil Registrations and Census; Surnames of Wales; Wills and Other Records of Inheritance; Church and Court Records; Printed Pedigrees; and Migration and Emigration. This is an important book for anyone contemplating genealogical research in Wales.

Memphis-Shelby County, Tennessee: The Early Years, Selected Court and Land Survey Books: 1820-1855

This fully indexed volume of more than 1,700 surnames is a compilation of material published in various formats by TGS during the 1980s. It includes abstracts from the first county court minutes, 1820-1824 and selected survey books and maps. It is an excellent single-source for the genealogist or historian researching early Shelby County, Tennessee. Prominent names such as Winchester, Overton, and Alexander are recognizable. The early settlers who bought land and/or were involved in the courts are names you will recognize. Even if you have no early Shelby County ancestors, the court records are entertaining and informative. Its 135 pages are produced on 8 1/2" x 11" paper in a ridged spine softback. Price is $20.00 each plus $4.00 s/h. The following list is the first segment of surnames listed in this informative book. Each issue we will list another set of names from the index.

HAPPY HUNTING
Ansearchin’ News Policies

Contributions
Every member of TGS is welcome to submit unpublished material of genealogical value. Material from all Tennessee counties, pre-1900, is our priority. This includes diaries, letters, tombstone inscriptions, deeds, church records, military records, etc. If a photo is needed for an article, please send a photocopy.
We are a nonprofit organization and are unable to pay for contributions, however, we do acknowledge the contributor and give by-lines.

Queries
Members are entitled to one free query per membership per year. Queries must be 50 words or less and will be edited for length and clarity and published in the order in which received. Please submit queries typed or printed and furnish your name, address and e-mail.

Surname Index File Cards
Members are urged to send vital statistics of ancestors from any locality to be included in our Master Surname File. Please type or print information on a 3x5 index card. Information should include subject's: surname, given name, middle name, dates of birth, marriage, death, parents, spouse, children, origin, state and county. Please include your name and address on the back of the card.

Book Reviews
Books will be reviewed in Ansearchin’ News if the book is donated to The Tennessee Genealogical Society. After a book is reviewed, it will become part of our library. All books will be reviewed in the order received.

Tennessee Ancestry Certificates
TGS sponsors this program to recognize and honor the settlers who came to Tennessee before 1880. To place your ancestors in this roll of honor, please request an application from Mrs. Phyllis Rothammer, Director of Certificates, at TGS. Upon completion of the application, please return it along with supporting documents or other proof of your ancestor’s residency, along with a $10 application fee. Attractive certificates suitable for framing are issued to each person whose application meets program qualifications. Certificates are inscribed with the prime ancestor’s name, date and place of settlement in Tennessee along with the applicant’s name.

Photo Gallery
In the future, a section of Ansearchin’ News will be provided as a tool in assisting our members with pre-1900 unidentified photos relating to Tennessee. Please send clear front and back photocopies along with any available background information you have. Please advise us of the origin of the photo and any other information that might aid our search. Provide us with your name and address, and if you wish the photocopy returned, include a S. A. S. E.

Letters to The Editor
All letters to the editor should be addressed to Jennye Miller Scott. Please feel free to forward any comments or suggestions.

In many instances throughout the quarterly, grammar was left verbatim in order to preserve the character and charm of the era.

Hours
The TGS library is open Tuesdays, Thursdays and Saturdays from 10-2. Visits are free to all members and $5 for non-members. We have a large selection of books, microfilm, disks and personal papers, and although we are focused on Tennessee, we also have a large selection of the above data relating to other states. We look forward to seeing you soon.

Volunteering and Donations
TGS is strictly a nonprofit organization. We exist to keep the history of Tennessee and our ancestors alive. Volunteers run every aspect of the society, and if you would like to join the ‘cause,’ please contact us. There is no job too small – remember, Tennessee is the Volunteer State! If you wish to make a donation, please contact us, and remember that all contributions are tax deductible.

Library Update

On page 60 of this issue we feature the book, Memphis-Shelby County, Tennessee: The Early Years, Selected Court and Land Survey Books: 1820 – 1855. The surnames Abbot thru Gann are the first installment of names listed in the index of this book. Please make sure to check out all of the surnames. They are not individually listed in our master index on page 61.

We ask for your continued prayers and support on behalf of Byron and Virginia Crain's daughter, Beth, who is still seriously ill. Our well-wishes are extended to Beth and her family.
