From the Editor

On page 6 of this issue we have an alphabetical listing of the Distinguished Service Cross recipients with Tennessee connections. There are 2 family bible transcriptions in this issue as well. I hope something you find something worth reading, even if its not about your family research.

The past three years working on this magazine have been interesting and rewarding. Finding new and varied content to publish has been challenging. I could not have done it without the hard work of Loretta Bailey. She is always on the look out for interesting things to be published; these include family Bibles, histories, autobiographies, records not found anywhere else.

I have worked this quarter with Janice Ingram on getting this issue ready for publication. It is nice to know that I'm leaving the magazine in such capable hands. I look forward to seeing the changes she makes to the magazine in the future.

Kathryn Holderman Editor

Since I'll be editor of this magazine in the coming year, I'd like to tell you a bit about my background. I have a Bachelor of Fine Arts from the University of Memphis, and I worked as a technical illustrator for the U.S. Navy for many years. After retirement, I worked for a private company as a graphic artist for a number of years before really and truly retiring. Now I have the time to devote to what I could only do in my spare time up to now.

When I was a little girl, my grandmother would tell me exactly how each and every person we encountered in her small town was related to us and to each other. Did I listen? Of course not. It all went in one ear and out the other. After my grandmother's death, my Dad and I were sorting through some boxes of old photos that Grandma had kept. She'd very considerately noted on the backs of the pictures the names of all the people in them. But Dad couldn't tell me, in many cases, who were relations of ours and who were not. And if they were relatives, he didn't know exactly how they were connected to us. I got started in genealogy because of these old photographs; I wanted to know who was who.

I've been working in genealogy for about thirty years now, and although I know a lot about my ancestors at this point, there's still a lot I don't know. That's one of the great things about this field; you never run out of things to research. You never sit down one day, look over all your charts and notes and data, and say, "That's it; I've done it all. I'm finished."

My job in the coming year is to help you keep going.

—Janice Ingram

President's Message

It has been a very good and active year for your society! We worked most of the first half year preparing and publishing the "Court Minutes of Carroll County TN." This six-volume set, complete with an index for each volume and attractively stitched and bound, is now ready for sale.

Our "Adopt A Book" program has continued to grow each year, and this year, with the major purchase of 400 Tennessee books by our society, the program has totaled almost 500 new books for the library. Now whenever your research directs you to another Tennessee book, you can be 99% sure we will have it available.

Additionally we had two very successful seminars: Mr. Mark Lowe in the spring, and Mr. Charles A. Sherrill, Director of the State Archives, and Judge Jon P. McCalla with the presentation of his new book about North East Shelby and surrounding counties, in the fall.

The many "Let's Discuss It" sessions led by Debbie Ashley were well attended and answered questions about Family Tree Maker as well as other software programs.

This fall was also the time of year to elect new officers for the two-year term of 2012-2013. All officers were re-elected, except Jack Jayroe who chose not to run again for Vice President. Jack also served as program chairperson and did a great job of scheduling and handling all the details for every meeting. GREAT JOB, JACK! Your hard work made the past two years pass very smoothly. Mrs. Kathryn Holderman decided for health reasons to retire as editor of the magazine after three very successful years. Kathryn has made many very good and important changes to the magazine; her contributions are very valuable.

Our newly-elected Vice-President is Mrs. Tina Sansone; she has worked for both the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints research center and as a Family Historian for a number of years. She certainly has the background for program planning with her wide knowledge of those who work in the field. As editor for the next two years, we welcome Ms. Janice Ingram; she has an extensive background in the graphic arts and has produced directories and brochures for the Memphis/Germantown Art League.

While I am saying thanks to some very special people, I would be remiss if I did not mention Mrs. Loretta Bailey, our Executive Secretary, for her many hours of dedicated work, and Vince Hughes, our Director of Communications, for all the work he has done to keep our web site up and running with good information for everyone.

Finally, I want to thank Jim Bobo who, while working all year on many and varied projects, really came through to publish three of the editions of the magazine, as well as taking charge of our Germantown Student Project. There will be more on this in the next issue of the magazine.

Finally, my thanks to all the women and men who volunteered this year and did such great work.

To everyone, have a great 2012.

Alphabetical List of Awards of The Distinguished Service Cross in National Groups – Americans—Tennessee

During the War between the States it was determined that there was a need to honor those who fought above and beyond what duty required, thus the creation of the Congressional Medal of Honor and the Distinguished Service Medal. Listed below are the men who were awarded the Distinguished Service Medal from the U.S. War Department who were either born or resided in the State of Tennessee. Please refer to the Key to be able to read the list correctly.

At the end of World War One, this was amended under the act of Congress, January 1, 1927-June 30, 1937. Later on in 1928 and again in 1934 the rules were changed to cover both peace time and war time.

If you are looking for a Confederate, please refer to the publication by Jim Bobo, published by the Society, for a complete list of those awards. Explanatory Notes

Awarded for extraordinary heroism in action under the provisions of the Act of Congress approved July 9, 1918

Abele, Herbert A. Near Ville-en-Woevre, France, Nov. 9th 1918. R-Memphis, TN, B-Memphis, TN, G.O. No. 32 W.D., 1919. First Lieutenant, 324th Infantry, 81st Division. He voluntarily went through an intense machine-gun barrage at great risk in order to rescue a wounded soldier.

Anderson, Leonard (13083354) Near Premont, France, Oct 8, 1918. R-Hillsboro, TN, B-Coffee County, TN. G.O. No. 81, W.D., 1919. Corporal, Company G.177th Infantry, 30th Division. Wounded by shell fire, he led an automatic-rifle team forward under intense enemy fire to knock out an enemy machine-gun position which had held up the advance of his company. He refused to be evacuated until the final objective had been reached.

*Anders, Roy B. near Soissons, France, July 19, 1918. R-New York, NY, B-Knoxville, TN, G.O. No. 15, W.D., 1919. Second Lieutenant, 16th Infantry, 1st Division. He fearlessly led his platoon in the face of heavy machine-gun fire to a cave in which several hundred Germans had taken shelter. Rather than subject any of his men to such extreme damage, he entered the cave alone and demanded the surrender of the enemy and was killed as a result of his heroic act. Posthumously awarded, Medal presented to his father, George S. Anders.

Bane, Thomas P. (1307266) Near Busigny, France, Oct. 9, 1918. R-Knoxville, TN, B-South Boston, VA, G.O. No.78, W.D., 1919, Corporal, Company C, 117th Infantry, 20th Division. While leading his squad in the advance with his company, he was wounded by a machine-gun bullet in the head. Despite his wound, he continued in the advance until the objective was reached and the position consolidated. Corporal Bane, on the day previous, in company with two companions, rushed a near-by machine-gun nest killing five of the enemy and capturing the remainder. lost in the fog, Lieutenant Boyd, although wounded in the arm by shell fragments, sk

Bassi, Joseph (562059) Near Bois-du-France, Oct. 4-7, 1918. Private, Company I, 59th Infantry, 4th Division. R-Memphis, TN, B-Italy. G.O. No. 71, W.D. 1919. Showing marked personal courage, he repeatedly crossed ground swept by heavy artillery and machine-gun fire to deliver important messages. He volunteered for dangerous missions, his example being an inspiration to other runners.

Beaty, Leslie (1315887) Near Ribeauville, France, Oct 18, 1918. R-Jamestown, TN, B-Tennessee G.O. No. 50, W.D., 1919. Private, first class, Company G, 119th Infantry, 30th Division. When enemy machine-gun fire was holding up the advance of the line, Private Beaty carried ammunition forward and aided a comrade to knock an enemy nest out of action and kill a sniper who was inflicting heavy losses on our troops.

Beauchamp, Felix Near St. Etienne, France, Oct 3-4 1918. R-Alaska, B-Nashville, TN, G.O, 37, W.D., 1919. Captain, 5th Regiment, U.S. Marine Corps, 2nd Division. He took command after his company commander had been evacuated, and despite severe wounds, participated in many engagements, continuing until additional wounds forced his withdrawal from the field.

Blake, Arthur David (1723612) Near St. Remy, France, September 12, 1918. R-Gary, IN, B-Jackson, TN, G.O. No.24, W.D. 1920. Private first class, Company B, 103 Machine Gun Battalion, 26th Division. During an enemy attack, Private Blake, although not on duty, first discovered the presence of the enemy and gave the alarm. During the action four of the enemy attempted to flank one of the machine-gun positions. Private Blake killed one of the flanking groups with his pistol and captured the other three unaided.

Boyd, Logan W. Near Bellicourt, France, Sept.29 1918. R-Knoxville, TN, B-Stanford, KY. G.O. No.43, W.D., 1922. Second Lieutenant, 117th Infantry, 30th Division. Assuming command of his company after all other company officers had become casualties or were lost in the fog, Lieutenant Boyd, although wounded in the arm by shell fragments, skillfully led his company forward under a heavy hostile artillery fire until their objective was reached and the position consolidated, when he consented to go to the rear for treatment. During the advance through the heavy fog Lieutenant Boyd, by personal leadership, kept the company intact, thereby making possible the capture of 100 prisoners by his organization.

*Boyd, Richard H. Near La Hale Menneresse, France, Oct. 17, 1918. R-Knoxville, B-Richmond, Ky. G.O. No. 64, W.D. 1919. Second Lieutenant 117th Infantry, 30th Division. After his platoon had suffered severe casualties, and his ammunition entirely exhausted, Lieutenant Boyd went about the town, under annihilating fire to collect the stragglers. With the few he managed to collect he attacked and put out of action three enemy machine-gun nests, after which he reported to the front line. Here he voluntarily exposed himself in assisting wounded from the face of murderous fire, and while standing in full view of the enemy, directing his men to seek shelter, he was killed by a shell explosion. Posthumously awarded, Medal presented to mother, Mrs. Ben F. Boyd.

Boyd, Theodore E. Near Conflans, France, Sept. 14, 1918. R-Carthage, TN, B-Ashland City, TN, G.O. No.20, W.D., 1919 Second Lieutenant, 7th Field Artillery, observer, attached to the 88th Aero Squadron, Air service. Time Officer, being derailed for the protection of a photographic mission with five other planes, proceeded on his mission. When flying near Conflans the formation engaged in combat with five enemy pursuit planes. Wounded in both legs, the left foot, and the right elbow, he displayed exceptional tenacity and courage by continuing to fire his guns until the enemy were put to flight.

Boyd, William C. Near Ponchaux, France, Oct 7, 1918. R-Knoxville, TN, B-Crab Orchard Springs, KY, G.O. No.4, W.D., 1923. First Lieutenant, 117th Infantry, 30th Division. During the attack of his company, displaying exceptional bravery and disregard of his personal danger, Lieutenant Boyd went forward in the face of heavy machine-gun fire, and in full view of the enemy carried a badly wounded soldier to safety in a nearby shell hole. His gallant conduct was an excellent example and inspiration to his company.

Brinkley, Amiel V. Near Beaurevoir, France, Oct 7, 1918. R-Memphis, B-Memphis, G.O. No. 37, W.D. 1919. Captain, 117th Infantry, 30th Division. While commanding his company in action Captain Brinkley was wounded by shell fire which fractured his jawbone in two places. He continued in command of his company, reorganizing it sufficiently to advance, when he was forced to withdraw because of the loss of speech.

Brookshire, Albert B. (1305450) Near La Salle River, France, Oct. 16-19, 1918. G.O. No. 81, W.D., 1919. Sergeant, Company B, 113th Machine Gun Battalion, 30th Division. In addition to performing his duties as gas noncommissioned officer, he on five occasions volunteered and successfully delivered important messages, passing through intense enemy fire, from his company to the advanced positions in the front line.

Brooks, Elbert E. At Bouresches, France, June 6, 1918. R-Memphis, TN, B-Tennessee. G.O. No 119., W.D. Private, 79th Company, 6th Regiment, U.S. Marine Corps, 2nd Division, he was conspicuous for heroic action in placing his body in front of his platoon leader while under heavy machine-gun fire, in order that he might dress the officer's wounds. He was shot twice in the hip while shielding the body of his leader.

Brown, Berlin Wesley (1309673) Near Busigny, France, Oct.18, 1918. R-Tellico Plains, TN, B-Towns County, GA. G.O. No. 133, W.D., 1918. Sergeant, Company M, 117th Infantry, 30th Division. When his platoon had been driven back by a concentrated machine-gun barrage and his commanding officer had fallen on the field, Sergeant Brown and another soldier volunteered and brought the officer back to our lines.

Brown, Lester (7377186) Near Joully, France,

Nov. 10, 1918. R-Murfreesboro, TN, B-Donalds Chapel, TN. G.O. No. 50, W.D., 1919. Private, Company M, 11th Infantry, 5th Division. After a small patrol had failed to silence a machine gun, Private Brown rushed forward with an automatic rifle through a heavy machine-gun fire and was wounded.

Buford, Edward, Jr. In the region of Commercy-St. Mihiel, France, May 22, 1918. R-Nashville, TN, B-Nashville, TN. G.O. No. 129, W.D., 1923. First Lieutenant, 95th Aero Squadron, Air Service. While on a barrage patrol against German photographic machines in the region of Commercy-St. Mihiel, France, he engaged in combat, alone, five German biplane machines, attacking one or more of them in three separate combats in 25 minutes. One of the machines he shot down and the others he drove off, thus fulfilling his mission against heavy odds.

Bunyard, Clarence H. Near Bellicourt, France, Sept. 29, 1918. R-Memphis, TN, B- Canton, MS. G.O. No. 59, W.D., 1919. Corporal, Company A, 113th Machine Gun Battalion, 30th Division. Though wounded soon after the opening of the attack, he continued to lead his squad until he was incapacitated by a second wound.

Burdett, William C. Near Medeah Ferme, France, Oct 3, 1918. R-Mortel, TN, B-Nashville, TN. No. 21 W.D., 1919. Captain, 9th Infantry, 2nd Division. Throughout five days of most bitter fighting, he displayed most exceptional valor and coolness in leading his men through intense machine-gun and barrage fire. He fell, seriously wounded, while at the head of his men.

Cable, Robert B. Near Montbrehain and Busigny, France, Oct 7-17, 1918. R-Tellico Plains, TN, B-Carter County, TN. G.O. No.46, W.D., 1919. First sergeant, Company M, 117th Infantry, 30th Division. For repeated acts of extraordinary heroism near Montbrehain and Busigny, France. Leading 2 platoons of his company after officers had become casualties, Sergeant Cable effectively cleared the ground on the right flank of the company of machine-gun nests, capturing 2 guns. Later in the day he took command of the company, when no officers remained with it, and continued to be in charge for a week, in which time he led his men in 6 attacks, inspiring them by his fearlessness. On Oct 9 he led an attack on the town of Busigny, charging across an open filed in the face of heavy machine gun fire from the houses to the village and clearing the town of enemy. This gallant soldier was later wounded while leading 2 platoons against an enemy machine-gun nest.

*Cagle, Thomas G. (1309440) Near Ponchaux, France, Oct 6, 1918. R-Lenoir City, TN, B-Lenoir City, TN. G.O. No 14, W.D., 1925. Private, first class, Company L, 117th Infantry, 30th Division. When part of the line had been halted by heavy fire from 3 machine-gun nests. Private Cagle and Corp. George W. Spears, armed only with rifles and bayonets, rushed the nearest hostile position and, of the crew of 6, killed 3 and put the remainder to flight. Being unable to advance on the 2 other guns because of their heavy fire, these 2 soldiers then opened fire with their rifles and forced the remainder of the crew of approximately 12 to abandon the position after 2 of their number had been killed and 2 wounded. Private Cagle was wounded in this action, but declined to be evacuated and shortly thereafter was killed. Posthumously awarded, Medal presented to widow, Mrs. Addie Cagle.

Callen, Nathaniel Ernest Near Molain, France, Oct. 17, 1918. R-Athens, TN, B-Knoxville, TN. G.O.No. 35. W.D., 1919. Major, 117th Infantry, 30th Division. While leading his battalion into advanced positions, Major Callen made a personal reconnaissance of the territory ahead of his troops in order to locate strongly held machine-gun nests which were holding up the advance of his battalion. On several occasions he personally superintended the cleaning out of machine-gun nests. Throughout the engagement he was subjected to continuous machine-gun, sniper, trench mortar and artillery fire, but continued his work setting an excellent example of courage and bravery.

Cannon, Clarence F. (1309393) Near Ponchaux, France, Oct 7, 1918. R-Lenoir City, TN, B-Concord, TN. G.O.No 37 W.D., 1919. Sergeant, Company L, 117th Infantry, 30th Division. After being severely wounded by machine-gun fire he continued to lead his platoon in attack until he was ordered to the rear by his commanding officer

Cardwell, Henry Warren (130722). Near Molain, France, Oct. 17, 1918. R-Normandy, TN, B-Madera, CA, G. O. No. 37, W. D., 1919. Corporal, Company D, 117th Infantry, 30th Division. Having been separated from their company in a smoke barrage, Corporal Cardwell and Private Carl Lee found themselves face to face with a party of the enemy. Private Lee brought his automatic rifle to his shoulder and attempted to fire, but the gun was jammed and would not shoot. Seeing themselves covered by the gun and not knowing its condition, the Germans threw up their hands, and while Private Lee kept the rifle at his shoulder, Corporal Cardwell rounded up the Germans and disarmed them. Their ruse resulted in the capture of 12 of the enemy, comprising three machine-gun crews.

*Carr, John M. (1306503) Near Montbrehain, France, Oct. 1918. R-Knoxville, TN, B-Knoxville, TN. G, 0, No. 37, W. D., 1919. Sergeant, Machine Gun Company, 117th Infantry, 30th Division. While leading his section in an assault upon a hostile machine-gun nest, Sergeant Carr fell mortally wounded, but he inspired his men by urging them on and giving detailed instructions to the soldier whom he placed in command to succeed himself. Posthumously awarded, Medal presented to father, Andrew J. Carr.

Carter, Paul D. During the Argonne-Meuse offensive, France, Oct. 9, 1918. R-Knoxville, TN, B- Knoxville, TN. G. O. No. 37, W. D., 1919. Second lieutenant, 28th Infantry, 1st Division. Rendered helpless by the explosion of a gas shell, he refused evacuation, but after regaining consciousness returned to his command and was instrumental in repulsing a strong enemy counterattack.

Cates, Clifton B. Near Chateau-Thierry, France, June 6, 1918. R-Tiptonville, TN, B-Tiptonville, TN. G. O. No. 81, W. D., 1919. First lieutenant, 6th Regiment, U. S. Marine Corps, 2nd Division. While advancing with his company on the town of Bouresches, their progress was greatly hindered by withering machine-gun and artillery fire of the enemy, which caused many casualties, one of whom was his commanding officer.

Taking command, Lieutenant Cates led them on to the objective, despite the fact that he was rendered temporarily unconscious by a bullet striking his helmet and that this was his first engagement. Exposing himself to the extreme hazard, he reorganized his position with but a handful of men. Oak-leaf cluster. For the following act of extraordinary heroism in action near Boie-de-Belleau, France, June 13-14, 1918, Lieutenant Cates is awarded an oak-leaf cluster. to be worn with the distinguished service cross: During the night a severe gas attack made it necessary to evacuate practically the entire personnel of 2 companies, including officers. Lieutenant Cates, suffering painfully from wounds, refused evacuation, remaining and rendering valuable assistance to another company.

Chambers, Reed M. Over the region of Epinonville, France, Sept. 29, 1918. R-Memphis, TN, B-Onaga, KS. G. O. No. 14, W. D., 1920. First lieutenant, 94th Aero Squadron, Air Service. While on a mission Lieutenant Chambers, accompanied by another machine piloted by First Lieut. Samuel Kay Jr., encountered a formation of six enemy machines (Fokker type) at an altitude of 3, 000 feet. Despite numerical superiority of the enemy, Lieutenant Chambers and Lieutenant Kaye immediately attacked and succeeded in destroying one and forced the remaining five to retreat into their own lines.

Oak-leaf clusters (3). A bronze oak-leaf cluster was awarded to Lieutenant Chambers for each of the following acts of extraordinary heroism in action: First oak-leaf cluster: Near Montfancon and Vilosnes-sur-Meuse, France, Oct. 2, 1918, Lieutenant Chambers, while on a mission, at an altitude of 2, 000 feet, encountered an enemy two-seater (Halbertstadt type). He immediately attacked and, after a brief combat, succeeded in shooting it down. Second oak-leaf cluster: Near Montfancon and Vilosnes-sur-Meuse, France,

Oct. 2, 1918, at 7.40 o'clock, Lieutenant Chambers saw four enemy machines (Fokker type) attacking another American machine (Spad type). He immediately went to its rescue, and, after a few minutes of fierce combat, he succeeded in shooting down one. Third oak-leaf cluster: Near the Bois-de-la-Cote-Lemonte, France, Oct. 22, 1918, while on a voluntary patrol, Captain Chambers encountered five enemy planes (Fokker type) harassing our infantry at an altitude of 300 meters. Attacking them without hesitation, he shot down two of them and drove the others off.

Cinamon, Archie (1306540) Near Bellicourt, France, Sept. 29, 1918. R-Rogersville, TN, B-Hawkins County, TN. G. O, No. 37, W. D., 1919. Private, Machine Gun Company, 117th Infantry, 30th Division. Private Cinamon, a runner, carried many messages under heavy fire. At one time when his platoon was held up by machine-gun fire, he, with another soldier, refused to lake cover but delivered effective rifle fire until the machine-gun was silenced, thereby enabling his platoon to continue its advance.

Clark, William L. (1320230) Near Bellicourt, France, Sept. 29, 1918. R-Knoxville, TN, B-Claiborne County, TN. G. O. No. 37, W. D., 1919. Private, first class Company D, 120th Infantry, 30th Division. With 8 other soldiers, comprising the company headquarters detachment, he assisted his company commander in cleaning out enemy dugouts along a canal and capturing 242 prisoners.

Collier, James W. (125842) Near Fleville, France, Oct. 6, 1918. R-Hot Springs, AR, B-Jamestown, TN. G. O. No. 35, W. D., 1920. Private, Headquarters Company, 6th Field Artillery, 1st Division. Private Collier voluntarily went forward and made his way to the enemy front lines to locate hostile artillery firing at short range on our batteries. While on this mission, he was seriously wounded by machine-gun fire.

Cook, Everett Richard Near Damvillers, France, Sept. 26, 1918. R-Memphis, TN, B-Indianapolis, IN. G. O. No. 13, W. D., 1919. Captain, pilot, 91st Aero Squadron, Air Service. While on a photographic mission in the vicinity of Damvillers, which necessitated a penetration of 20 kilometers within the enemy lines, Captain Cook was attacked by seven enemy pursuit planes and his plane was riddled with bullets. In spite of the attack he continued on his mission, turning only for our lines when his observer had secured photographs of great military value. In the combat one enemy aircraft was destroyed.

*Cooper, William N. (1316775) Near St. Souplet, France, Oct. 10, 1918. R-Knoxville, TN, B-Knoxville, TN. G. O. No. 87, W. D., 1919. Private, Company L, 119th Infantry, 30th Division, He left shelter to advance under heavy machine-gun fire and rescued a wounded soldier, carrying him back to safety. He was killed in action the following day. Posthumously awarded, Medal presented to mother, Mrs. Mary Cooper.

Coram, Claude A. (1300542) Near Bellicourt and Nauroy, France, Sept. 29, 1918; and near Premont, France, Oct. 9, 1918. R-Knoxville, TN, B-Knoxville, TN. G. O. No. 78, W. D., 1919. Private First Class, Machine Gun Company, 117th Infantry, 30th Division. When his platoon was held up by enemy artillery fire, Private Coram, a runner, succeeded in passing through the severe fire and establishing liaison with the Infantry nearby. On Oct. 9 he again showed unusual coolness in carrying a message through a wood containing numerous enemy snipers and machine guns.

Costner, Oley. (1309445) Near Ponchaux, France, Oct. 7, 1918. R-London, TN, B-London, TN. G. O. No. 81, W. D., 1919. Private, Company L, 117th Infantry, 30th Division. When his company commander, for whom he was orderly, was wounded, he carried the wounded officer for 75 yards, under heavy fire, to a shell hole. When this location was fired upon by a machine-gun, he crawled out, against his captain's advice, attacked the enemy position, and brought back the gun. Though ordered by his company commander to leave him and save himself from the heavy fire to which they were subjected, he remained at his post until he could effect the officer's evacuation to the rear.

Cotton, Orville L. (1330179) Near Bellicourt, France, Sept. 27, 1918. R-Memphis, TN, B-Falkner, MS. G. O. No. 21, W. D., 1919. Corporal, Company C, 105th Field Signal Battalion, 30th Division. In order to maintain communication between two regiments of Infantry and, after an assisting detachment had suffered severe casualties, Corporal Cotton alone kept the line in repair, working under constant heavy shellfire. Although badly gassed, he refused evacuation, requesting and obtaining permission to continue with his work.

Cox, Omar Clark (1330030) Near Ypres, Belgium, July 16, 1918. R-La Follett, TN, B-Heiskell, TN. G. O. No. 21, W. D., 1919. Sergeant, first class, Company A, 105th Field Signal Battalion, 30th Division. He volunteered and assisted a British soldier to reestablish communication lines, which the heavy artillery fire had made useless. Crawling through almost direct machine-gun fire and making his way through barbed wire, he reached his point, where he remained for almost two hours. He made his way back to our lines, through an intense handgrenade bombardment.

Cross, James Near St. Souplet, France, Oct. 15, 1918.R-Helenwood, TN, B-Huntsville, TN. G. O. No. 74, W. D., 1919. Second lieutenant, 108th Infantry, 27th Division. Accompanied by 4 soldiers, Lieutenant Cross made a reconnaissance of the River La Salle, the journey being under constant heavy machine-gun fire. To secure the desired information it was necessary to wade the stream for the entire distance. On the following evening Lieutenant Cross tapped the line from which his regiment would launch their attack, and in the battle that followed he was severely wounded.

Cross, Willie (1309733) Near Bellicourt, France, Oct. 7, 1918. R-Jefferson City, TN, B-Jefferson City, TN. G. O. No. 21, W. D., 1919. Private, Company M, 117th Infantry, 30th Division. After three runners had been killed in attempting to carry a message to an advance platoon through a heavy artillery and machinegun barrage, he volunteered for the mission and carried the message through.

Cunningham, William A. Near Sommerance, France, Oct. 12, 1918. R-Athens, GA, B-Nashville, TN. G. O. No. 13, W. D., 1919. Captain, 321st Machine Gun Battalion, 82nd Division. Captain Cunningham, though painfully wounded in the face by shrapnel when his battalion was seriously engaged, continued to lead his men through heavy shellfire, leading them with skill and inspiring them with courage.

Brickey, Wiley J. R-Maryville, TN, B-Tuckaleeche Cove, TN. First sergeant, Company H, 47th Infantry, U. S. Volunteers. For distinguished gallantry in action near Malabog, Luzon, P. I., February 14, 1900. For saving a comrade from drowning at Lakeside, California, May 7, 1911.

Davis, Edgar C. (2387703) Near Dun-Sur-Meuse, France, Nov. 5, 1918. R-Lewisburg, TN, B-Lewisburg, TN. G. O. No. 37, W. D., 1919. Sergeant, Company H, 61st Infantry, 5th Division. He voluntarily advanced alone against an enemy machine-gun which was holding up his platoon, capturing 4 prisoners and the gun. Later he led a few men into a dugout and captured 13 prisoners. He then continued the advance until the day's objective was reached and the platoon position organized.

Davis, Luther F. (1309122) Near Busigny, France, Oct. 9, 1918. R-Chattanooga, TN, B-Flat Rock, KY. Q. O. No. 37. W. D., 1919. Sergeant, Company K, 117th Infantry, 30th Division. While commanding a platoon, he repeatedly volunteered and went forward to draw fire from enemy machine-guns, thereby locating the positions of the machine-gun posts and facilitating their destruction.

Diggs, Benjamin W. (1309738) Near Montbrehain, France, Oct. 7, 1918. R-Oliver Springs, TN, B-Oliver Springs, TN. G. O. No. 60, W. D., 1919. Private, first class, Company M, 117th Infantry, 30th Division. Private Diggs volunteered and successfully carried a message through heavy shell and machine-gun fire in plain view of the enemy after one runner had been killed and two others wounded in attempting to accomplish this mission. Though he was gassed in performing this feat, he refused to seek first aid until he was wounded later in the afternoon.

D'Olive, Charles R. Near St. Benoit, France, Sept. 12, 1918. R-Memphis, TN, B-Suggsville, AL. Q. O. No. 123, W. D., 1918. First Lieutenant, pilot, 93rd Aero Squadron, Air Service. He, in conjunction with another American pilot, engaged and fought five enemy planes. Outnumbered and fighting against tremendous odds, he shot down three enemy planes and outfought the entire enemy formation.

Douglas, John E. Near St. Etienne, France, Oct. 8, 1918. R-Bessemer, AL, B-Nashville, TN. G. O. No. 66, W. D., 1919. First lieutenant, 142nd Infantry, 30th Division. Lieutenant Douglas was a member of a patrol consisting of himself, another officer, and 3 soldiers, which came under fire from an enemy machine-gun nest. Leading the patrol forward by short rushes to within a short distance of the enemy position, he had his companions take cover, while he continued on alone in full view of the enemy, and by accurate fire from an automatic rifle at a range of 40 yards silenced the nest, capturing 20 men and 4 machine guns.

Dozier, Carmon (1307019) At Estrees, France, Oct. 8, 1918. R-Yorkville, TN, B-Yorkville, TN. G. O. No. 46, W. D.1919. Private, first class, Company B, 117th Infantry, 30th Division. After being severely wounded by shell fire, he crawled forward, killed two enemy machine-gunners, and captured their gun, thereby clearing the way for the further advance of his company.

Dudley, Mack (1865562) near Terny-Sorny, France, Sept. 1, 1918. R-Dickson, TN, B-Dickson, TN. G. O. No. 04, W. D., 1919. Private, first class, Company G, 128th Infantry, 32nd Division. During the preparations for attack, he acted as runner, carrying several messages through extreme machine-gun and shell fire to the different platoon leaders, maintaining liaison until the reorganization was complete.

Duncan, Basil E. (1306546) near Busigny, France, Oct. 8-9, 1918. R-Fordtown, TN, B-

Washington County, TN. G, O. No. 78, W. D., 1919. Private, first class, Machine Gun Company, 117th Infantry, 30th Division. Private Duncan, a runner, repeatedly carried messages with great coolness and daring, undeterred by the most intense artillery and machine-gun fire.

*Duncan, Charles B. Near Bois-de-Septsarges, France, Sept. 29, 1918. R-Nashville, TN, B-New York, NY. Q. O. No. 71, W. D., 1919. Captain, 77th Field Artillery, 4th Division. When an enemy shell landed in the ammunition dump of his battery he jumped in among the burning shells and succeeded in getting the fuses away and extinguishing the fire. Later he was mortally wounded by enemy shellfire. Posthumously awarded. Medal presented to grandmother, Mrs. W. M. Duncan.

Dyer, Hertiert Ralph Near Premont, France, Oct. 9, and near Molain, France, Oct. 17, 1918. R-Columbia, TN, B-Dunn, WI. O. O. No. 68, W. D., 1920 First lieutenant, 7th Infantry, 30th Division. On Oct. 9, when his company was held up by heavy fire from numerous machine-guns, Lieutenant Dyer showed extraordinary bravery in driving them out and allowing the advance of the battalion to continue. On Oct. 17, when all the officers of an adjoining company had been killed, he promptly took command under the terrific enemy fire, and although twice wounded continued to lead the two companies in the advance.

*Eckel, William H. Near Ponchaux, France, Oct. 7, 1918. R-Knoxville, TN, B-Knoxville, TN. G. O. No. 74, W. D., 1919. Second lieutenant, 117th Infantry, 30th Division. When heavy fire was encountered from enemy machine -gun nests located in a railroad cut, Lieutenant Eckel led his platoon in several successful attacks on these nests, personally killing and wounding a number of the enemy with his pistol and disarming 1 of them in a hand-to-hand struggle. He then reorganized the captured position and held out against the enemy with such men as he had left, opening fire himself with an automatic rifle, which he secured from a dead soldier. While attempting to destroy some enemy machine-gun nests in front of his platoon this gallant officer was mortally wounded by a shell fragment. Posthumously awarded. Medal presented to father, Hugh Eckel.

*Edwards, Garrett (42866) near Soissons, France, July 19, 1918. R-Kittyton, TN, B-Unicoi County, TN. G. O. No. 15, W. D., 1919. Sergeant, Company F, 16th Infantry, 1st Division. When the Infantry of which he was a part was held up by an enemy machinegun nest which was inflicting heavy losses upon his platoon, he unhesitatingly went forward to ascertain its location and was killed while performing this courageous duty. Posthumously awarded. Medal presented to father, J. B. Edwards.

Ellis, Nathaniel Watson Near Montbrehain, France, Oct. 7, 1918. R-Tellico Plains, TN, B-Elizabeth, TN. O. O. No. 46, W. D., 1919. First lieutenant, 117th Infantry, 30th Division. When his company was held up by sweeping machinegun fire, Lieutenant Ellis rushed forward alone, in the face of direct machine-gun fire, to an enemy machine-gun nest 60 yards in advance of his platoon, and by the effective use of his pistol killed 5 of the enemy and captured 26 prisoners, together with the machine-gun. Although he had been seriously wounded in two places while advancing he held the position until his platoon came up.

Engle, Joseph C. (1315222) Near Bellicourt, France, Sept. 29, 1918. R-Memphis, TN, B-Cincinnati, OH. G. O. No. 81, W. D., 1919. Sergeant, Company D, 9th Infantry, 30th Division. Although himself wounded, he continued to lead the advance of his platoon, and when it was held up by fire from an enemy machine-gun nest he advanced against it alone, bombed it, and thus allowed a resumption of the advance.

Epley, Bruce (734104) At Frapelle, France, Aug. 17, 1918. R-Newport, TN, B-Newport, TN. G. O. No. 44, W. D., 1919. Sergeant, Company M, 6th Infantry, 5th Division. Rather than ask another to undertake so dangerous a mission, Sergeant Epley himself cut the enemy's wire under heavy bombardment and led his section to its objective. Later, in the absence of his platoon commander, he assumed command of his platoon and directed the consolidation of its position. He then crossed an open field under heavy machine-gun fire to locate another platoon which had become lost, found the remnants of the platoon, which he reorganized and led to the objective. Though he had been seriously gassed, this soldier continued on duty throughout the 3 days' bombardment, refusing to be evacuated until he was ordered to the rear.

*Fitts, William T., Jr. Near Ribeauville, France, Oct. 17, 1918. R-Knoxville, TN, B-Keysville, VA. G. O. No. 3, W. D., 1921. Second lieutenant, 117th Infantry, 30th Division. When a friendly tank appeared suddenly out of the fog and opened fire on his organization, Lieutenant Fitts rushed in front of the tank, signaling it to cease firing. He was wounded in the chest in the performance of this act, but remained with his organization until compelled to go to the rear due to weakness caused from loss of blood.

Fontaine, Hugh L. In the region of Hageville, France Sept. 14, 1918. R-Memphis, TN, B-New Orleans, LA. G. O. No. 13, W. D., 1919. First lieutenant, 49th Aero Squadron, Air Service. He, together with First Lieutenant Hugh Brewster, attacked 9 enemy monoplanes (Fokkers) at an altitude of 4, 000 meters. He dived into the midst of the enemy formation without consideration for his personal safety, subjecting himself to great danger. By the suddenness and extreme vehemence of his attack, the machines were driven into confusion. Although greatly outnumbered, he and Lieutenant Brewster succeeded in shooting down 2 of the enemy. Oak -leaf cluster: a bronze oak leaf is awarded Lieutenant Fontaine for extraordinary heroism in action near Champigneulles, France, Oct. 10, 1918. While leading a patrol of 3 other machines he attacked 4 enemy planes in the region of Champigneulles. He succeeded in shooting down 2 of the enemy planes in flames. The first of these he shot down in the initial attack. The second he attacked while it was endeavoring to shoot down one of our planes, which had been rendered helpless by the loss of 1 of its wings.

He dived on the attacking plane and shot it down in flames.

French, Henry (1316782) near St. Souplet, France, Oct. 10, 1918. R-Maynardville, TN, B-Knox County, TN. G. O. No. 81, W. D., 1919. Private, first class, Company L, 119th Infantry, 30th Division. When his platoon was ordered to withdraw he manned a Lewis gun, the crew of which had become casualties, and by delivering a heavy fire successfully covered the withdrawal. Himself subjected to heavy enemy fire and wounded in the course of action, he remained at his post till the danger to his platoon was over.

Frierson, Meade, Jr. Near Sergy, France, July 31, 1918. R-Nashville, TN, B-Columbia, TN. G. O. No. 64, W. D., 1919. Captain, Cavalry, attached to 125th Infantry, 32nd Division. He was continually at the head of his company in the attack on Hill 212, near Sergy and was constantly exposed to the terrific enemy fire while leading his men forward. After the objective had been gained and the men had dug in on the crest of the hill, he remained on watch the entire night, constantly patrolling his company sector under the heavy rifle, machinegun, and artillery fire from the enemy's lines. He was later killed while on a hazardous reconnaissance in the vicinity of Juvigny, France. Posthumously awarded. Medal presented to father, Meade Frierson, Sr.

Fritz, Leonard B. (1309759) near Busigny, France, Oct.18, 1918. R-Laurel Bloomery, TN, B-Laurel Bloomery, TN. G. O. No. 133, W. D., 1918. Private, Company M, 117th Infantry, 30th Division. When his platoon was held up by an enemy machine-gun post, Private Fritz, with another soldier, took their automatic rifle and rushed forward through intense fire, skillfully placed the rifle in position, and opened an effective fire.

Foster, Donald A. (6920666) R-Cedar Bow, TX, B-Memphis, TN. For heroism displayed in rescuing an enlisted man from drowning in Limon Bay, Republic of Panama, at 11:40 p.m., July 1, 1939. When an enlisted man fell overboard from an army vessel as the ship was steaming about a mile from land across a deep, shark-infested tropical bay, Private First Class Foster, with utter disregard of his personal safety, immediately dove overboard and went to his assistance. Despite the darkness of the night and the danger of being struck by the propellers of the vessel, Private First Class Foster managed to reach the struggling man and support him above the surface of the water until, the ship's searchlight having picked up his position, the vessel was brought about and the crew assisted him in getting the drowning man aboard, thereby saving his life. The immediate response to the emergency without thought of the danger to his own life displayed by Private First Class Foster on this occasion reflects the highest traditions of the United States Army.

McIntyre, Augustine R-Chattanooga, TN, B-Chattanooga, TN. Colonel, Field Artillery, U. S. Army. For exceptionally meritorious and distinguished service in positions of great responsibility. By his leadership, high professional attainments, and executive ability while serving as president of the Field Artillery Board and as commandant of the Field Artillery School, Colonel McIntyre has made important contributions to the national defense. His thorough tactical and technical knowledge of Field Artillery has forwarded the modernization of field Artillery material, and has established sound doctrines for the training of field artillery officers of the Army of the United States. (Something missing here?) Denied by force of circumstances the increased grade appropriate to his position as commandant of the Field Artillery School, the vigor and efficiency with which he has carried out the exacting and important duties of this assignment afford a fine example of the highest soldierly qualities.

Neas, Lucas M. (6384778) R-Johnson City, TN, B-Johnson City, TN. Private, Company F, 22nd Infantry, U. S. Army. For heroism displayed on August 8, 1938, in rescuing an enlisted man from drowning in the waters of Red Creek, De Soto National Forest, near Wiggins, Mississippi. On hearing cries for help from an enlisted man who had been thrown from his horse into deep water while fording Red Creek, another soldier who went to the rescue succeeded in bringing to the surface the drowning, struggling man who could not swim, but being almost exhausted by his exertions was forced momentarily to release his grasp on the helpless man. Private Neas, who was some distance from the bank of the stream, realizing that the soldier would be unable to effect the rescue alone, with utter disregard of his own safety, without hesitation, and with great presence of mind, went to his assistance, jumped from the steep bank into the water, swam in the dangerous current to the drowning man, and with the help of the other soldier, brought him safely to shore. The heroism displayed by Private Neas reflects great credit upon him and the military service.

Ryan, Jr. John L. R-Chattanooga, TN, B-Fort Oglethorpe, GA. Captain, 13th Cavalry, U. S. Army. For heroism displayed on May 23, 1938, at Nashville, Tennessee, upon seeing a fully loaded and driverless commercial gasoline truck moving rapidly down grade and heading toward a group of spectators, including children, and toward several Government trucks lined up in the road, Captain Ryan, with utter disregard of his own safety, jumped onto the running board and although unable to make his way into the driver's cab brought the truck under partial control from his position on the running board. By his prompt action Captain Ryan was able to steer the truck away from the nearer spectators, children, and vehicles, and thereby avoided the probability of a fatal accident. This, however, was not accomplished until Captain Ryan, just prior to leaping to safety from the careening vehicle, with great danger to himself, had guided the truck off the road where it crashed into a clump of trees.

Mrs. C. F. Wilkins Dead

Mrs. Caska Davis Wilkins died at her home at this place Friday evenine. The sad news was a great shock to the community, and to the many relatives and friends here and elsewhere. She was born near Mt.Pleasant in 1878 and two years ago married to Mr. Clem Wilkins. Early in life she joined the Methodist Church, and her life was one of piety and devotion to her church. She was universally loved and esteemed for her many virtues of heart and mind. The remains were interred at Red Banks Saturday, and a large concourse of sorrowig relatives and friends. To the bereaved husband and relatives, we join with other friends in offering our deepest sympathy.

Francis Marion Davis

Francis Marion Davis was born Aug. 30, 1827

in York District, SC, and after a protracted illness of three years, he departed this life in peace at his home near Mt. Pleasant, MS April 26, 1887. He moved with his parents in early life from SC to Henderson County, Tenn. and from there when grown to North MS, where he spent the remainder of his life. He embraced religion at the age of seventeen, and joined the Cumberland Presbyterian Church, but afterward joined the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, in which he lived aconsistant member until he was called to his reward. He was married on Mar. 13, 1851 to Miss Mary Lockhart who was a tender and faithful wife till his death. He possessed a strong cool, calculating mind, that enabled him to meet the issues of life, whether in sickness or in health. in that quiet business way that is always productive of good results. The writer was present when the physician informed him that there was no hope for his recovery, and advised him to attend to his business at once, which he did without the slightest sign of alarm or excitement, not withstanding his whole family weeping around him. After he had gotten through with his business, I asked him in regard to his spiritual condition, and he answered my saying "My way is perfectly clear. Many years ago, I sought first the Kingdom of God, and his righteousness and now I have no fears." Such was his testamony in the power of God to save a dying believer. He left his family in easy circumstances. He was a good husband, a kind father, a worthy citizen, and a true friend to the church, and will be greatly missed by all. J. W. Anderson

The Editor's Sad Trip. Obituary

On Sunday, the 13th instant, the editor received a dispatch informing him of the serious illness of his mother and left on the evening train for her bedside. After overcoming the many obsticles of travel and traversing the long distance of 1045 miles in the shortest time possible, he arrived at his old home about noon Tuesday – to late to see his mother again in life and just in time for her funeral.

Mrs. Mary Davis died at her home three and a half miles southwest of Mt. Pleasant, MS at 2:30 P.M. Monday, July 14, 1902. She was buried in the family graveyard the following day at 4:00 P.M., mourned by a large number of relatives, neighbors and friends.

The deceased was born in Anson County, NC October 4, 1836, and was therefore 65 years 9 months and 10 days of age at the time of her demise. She was the daughter of Charlie and Emeline Lockhart, and was one of a numerous family of boys and girls, most of whom are dead, after having become widely separated. Two sisters only, Mesdames Emeline Edwards and Sophronia Ballard, attended her last illness. At the age of a few weeks, her parents moved with her from NC to TN. Later they settled in North MS, where after losing her parents at a tender age, she married F. M. Davis November 13, 1851.

Their home had always been in North MS, and she had resided in the same place since 1869. Thirteen children, five boys and eight girls, were born to her. Six of these are dead; six of them, Marion, Emily, Bettie, Charlie, Fletcher, and Taska are known to be living and were present at the funeral; the whereabouts of one, Lum, and his family is unknown. Several grand-children and great grand-child also survive. Her husband died April 26, 1887.

At a very early age, she joined the Missionary Baptist church, but soon after her marriage, she and her husband united with the Methodist church, and she died as she had lived, consistant and hopeful in the faith of her creed, and beloved and trusted most by those who knew her best. Her funeral took place under the auspices of her church, her pastor officiating.

After the last sad rites had been paid to the dead, and the editor had rested a few days from the long trip, he bade farewell to MS, his boyhood friends, his home, and started for Texas Sunday, arriving home on Tuesday, and one of the saddest trips it ever falls to man's lot to make was done.

The cold unsympathetic clods have hidden forever the face of the editors dearest friend and naught remains save the sweet remembrances of a saintly mother, now gone to rest. While faith whispers, "peace be still", to the mourning spirit, and we know th t it is well with the departed, yet the rude sundering of the ties that bound a mother and son has left a sorrow that time may soothe --- death alone can heal. To the many frieds both here and in MS who have been so kind to him and for many expressions of sympathy, from everywhere, the editor is profoundly thankful, andeach and all will be gratefully remembered. Fletcher Davis.

Florence Jemima Dean—nee Stuart

(Found with the donated research papers of Martha Anne Dean Babin)

Florence Jemima Dean – nee Stuart December 5, 1852 – April 15, 1941

Florence Jemima Dean was born in Marshall County, Mississippi. She was the daughter of Doctor Charles Stuart and Mary Adalene Tarkington, their third child of nine. As a nine year old when the Civil War broke out, and thirteen when it finished, she had many vivid memories of its events around her home. She told her grandchildren the story of the Confederate attack on a Federal Cossack post near her father's house, and passed by it, of a negro division of Federal Troops.

The Federal command in Collierville had as a security detachment, a cossack post of cavalry at a cross road near Dr. Stuart's home. Somehow the Stuart children heard that the Confederates were going to attack the post so they streaked across the fields and mounted a zig-zag rail fence to watch. Soon they heard firing and down the road came the Federals. their horses flat out, returning to Collierville and to the main body of Federal troops. Right behind them came the Confederates. She tells to her grandson: "And there came a fine looking Yankee on his horse, going just as hard as he could tear and we kids were jumping up and down yelling. Right behind him came a Confederate, standing up in his stirrups and shooting his pistol. Bang, Bang, Bang and son, he missed him every time." "They all disappeared in the direction of Collierville. In about an hour the Confederates came back, with their tails between their legs, carrying the wounded; and son, you never saw so many bloody men."

"Along toward the end of the war, we were in school when one of the negro women came for us; "Your Ma says you chillun come right home, there is a whole nigga division coming and they say they is going to kill ever' white man they can catch!" So we started out across the fields, but by the time we got to the road, the division had started to pass, solid blue as far as you could see both ways. Bayonets and black faces glistened in the sun, all walking except for the white officers, who rode horses. There was no gap in the ranks, and none of us knew what to do, and we were most scared to death. After we visited for a while, my brother Ben, who was 14 or 15 at that time, said he thought he could make it, and he darted quick as a flash right between the ranks, and got on the other side of the road. He didn't get stuck by a bayonet so the rest of us, one at a time, dashed through and got home. The division passed by all day. My mother had pulled the shades down on the house, and hidden my sister Mary, who was about 14 in a chest, covered her up with clothes, and sent the rest of us to bed. She and a negro girl about 16 or 17 years old, knelt in the front parlor and watched them go by through a crack under the shade. About dark she saw six or seven leave the ranks and go around back of the house. She said to the negro girl, "Well, we will have to face them.", so she got the lantern which had been lighted and hidden in the fireplace, and stood facing the back door of the hall, just as they came in. Before they could do anything, she heard the front door open behind her, and there was a white officer. "What are you negroes doing in here?" "We's just come in for a chunk of fire" (as fire was always kept going in the main house and the negroes came there when they wanted fire for their cabins or outside cooking." This was the only excuse they could readily think of for being inthe house." "Get on back in the ranks" and they left. He turned to Mrs. Stuart and said, "Madam, I would stay with you but the rear guard is passing now, in a few minutes there will be no more danger." He stayed a while longer, then rode off. My mother regretted to her dying day that she was so frightened, that she forgot to ask his name so she could have written to him her deep gratitude.

Florence Stuart had an uncle Tarkington who evaded service on both sides during the whole war. He kept a horse saddled and tied in the woods back of the house, when anybody came near, he would silently disappear. Never caught either by the Confederates as a draft dodger or by the Federals as a man of military age, therefore an eligible prisoner, he went free to the end. His fate or whether he had any descendants, Florence Stuart never told her grandchildren.

Dr. Stuart and his family were bitterly opposed to secession and to the war. Florence grew up as an admirer of Lincoln and a Republican, so that when women's sufferage came, her sons would not allow her to vote, for fear she might disgrace the family.

Taught by private tutors and by her father, who spent much time on her education, she had a keen mind, perhaps the best in the family. She read everything she could lay her hand on and was extraordinarily well informed. Strongly prejudiced against the French and all Catholics, she was all for the Germans in World War I, and shared none of the popular enthusiasm for the Allied cause. Once she had the opportunity to buy 500 paper backed classics, she did and read them all.

Hating her father, she said because he drank and was brutal to her mother when drunk; nevertheless she spoke of him with great admiration. In the shadowy past before her marriage, she claimed she loved a man, but who he was she never told her grandchildren. When Robert James Dean asked her father for her hand, Dr. Stuart granted it, and as a dutiful daughter, she married him. She claimed she never loved him until after 54 years of marriage and 3 children he died, then she knew she had loved him all along.

Dominating her family completely, she was a schemer and a thinker. Once, Bob her husband, wanted to buy a farm, but as she had noticed that all the children of the farmer were sickly, she would not let him buy it. The well turned out to be contaminated and several of the farmer's family died soon after.

Once she went to Memphis to buy a piano. The clerk was a bit high handed with her, thinking perhaps she was just a country woman. In spite of his attitude, she made him turn his back and tucking up her shirt, took $500 in cash out of a secret pocket and paid him. He completely changed his manner when he saw the wad of bills, she said butter wouldn't melt in his mouth, he was so nice. So they loaded the piano in the wagon, drove 25 miles home to Collierville with it and Bessie learned to play. She always had servants, first slaves, then negro hired help. She loved to garden and raised some of the largest chrysanthemums in the county.

Greatly loved by her grandchildren and adored by her children, she lived too long and became meaner every year, so that in the end she alienated the affections of some of the grandchildren who lived nearby. She was hard on her in-laws and both sons and daughters. No one could have been good enough for her children.

Sometimes her scheming crossed her up. When Bob was about eighty she decided that she was going to die first, and that when she did, there was an old maid in the town, a lady postal delivery clerk (RFD) who was going to marry him for his money. To forstall this, she made Bob turn the deeds to the farm over to the children and reserve the income from them to himself, and to herself as long as they each should live. Unfortunately for her plans, he died first. She lived on for 14 years, and not having control of the property, to will as she pleased, she found her children more independent than she would have liked.

In contrast to her later ways, when she was young, she nursed her mother-in-law, Jane Fleming Dean, during her last years, until she died in 1878 of skin cancer which had started on her forehead.

Striking in physical appearance, but not beautiful, she was small boned, about 5'-2" in height, weighed about 100 pounds most of her life. She had pale blue eyes, reddish blond hair which she wore in a pug; a large thin roman nose and in later life wore false teeth. She claimed bad health, said she had tuberculosis when she was about 35, but she lived to be 90.

No church goer, but knowing the Bible well, she was probably not very religious. With a strong sense of humor, but little compassion, she often laughed at other peoples' misfortunes, a clumsy fall by another might provoke her laughter. She was honest in her dealings, speaking the truth. Hating liquor in every form, probably because her father and brothers used it to excess, she never allowed her children or husband to touch a drop. However, when she was in her eighties, she must have decided that she and they were too old to ruin, so she began to take a drop now, and then to the horror of all.

Her brother Benjamin never married and lived out his life in his father's farm. Mary E., her sister married James McDuffe Glenn and has by him, Mary, who married a Mr. King and had Ralph. Mary E. died young of typhoid fever, Glenn then married Cornelia (Nellie) another sister, who had Rilla (Thompson) who had Glenn Thompson.

Nellie also had Max, Earl and Ethel who married Henry Meyers.

Another brother, Charles Stuart, Jr. who she said was the best of the lot, married but died childless. He and his wife died the same day, June 2, 1893.

Thomas A. was good for nothing. He had 2 no good boys and 2 girls, one of whom became an actress in New York and married a Texas oil man.

Edgar died as a 6 year old boy and a sister Adalene died as an infant.

Antoinet married a Mr. Arnold and outlived them all. She was Aunt Linc, called Linc by her father because she was born on Lincoln's first inaugeration.

Florence Jemima Stuart and Robert James Dean had three thildren:

Elizabeth married Dr. J. C. Farr, a dentist, and had Elizabeth (Reed) and William Dean Farr, who married Elizabeth Baker.

Thomas marrried Amanda Maginnis. They had Thomas Miller who married Eula Dudney.

Dorothy not married as yet.

Charles Dean married Martha Little, they had:

John Little married Anna Gordon Davis. – Anne, Charlotte

Orville Cole married Thelma – O. C., Jr., Robert James

Katherine Marie married Robert Tillotson—Charles

Florence Stuart Dean died in Collierville, TN on April 15, 1941, and is buried in Coldwater Church Cemetery, Barton, Marshall County, MS beside her husband.

Bright Little Miss Neery

Two weeks ago Mary Jane Neery, a bright eyed diminutive girl of 13, arrived from Liverpool. She made the voyage all alone, having been sent out by her widowed mother to some relatives in Brooklyn. The young stranger did not come with flattering recommendations, for it is thus that Mrs. Neery wrote to her sister Mrs. Kelly of 195 Walworth Street about her: "Keep a sharp lookout upon her. She is heartless and truthless, and will hesitate at nothing to accomplish her purpose. When only 10 years old she stole the pennies from her dead father's eyes."

A brief experience with Mary Jane had convinced the aunt that her mother's warning was entirely justified. On Thursday night Mrs. Kelly and her niece parted company, and the latter is now an inmate of Raymond Street jail. There is some mystery in the circumstances which sent the girl to jail. She entered a jewelry store of Mr. Banwalwyk Myere on Franklin Avenue on Thursday evening, and taking two glittering rings from her little satchel, asked the jeweler if he would give her $2 for them. The jeweler was surprised, as the rings were worth $500, one being a splendid solitaire diamond and the other a cluster of emeralds and pearls. As the girl refused to tell where she got the rings Mr. Banwalwyk communicated with the police and she was arrested. When arraigned before Police Justice Kennaslie, she still refused to tell where she got the rings, and she was held pending an investigation. It is thought she may have stolen them from one of her fellow passengers from Liverpool.

Mary and Her Little Lamb – Perhaps the majority of boys and girls when they grew up to be men and women came to the conclusion that Mary and her lamb were both fiction, as much so as the old woman who lived in a shoe and Cinderella, but strange to say, there was a Mary and also a lamb. The author was Sarah J. Hale who died in Philadelphia at the age of 56. The lamb must have died long ago, and on Dec. 10, 1889 the heroine of the poem breathed her last. Her name was Mary F. Sawyer. She was born in Sterling, Mass. in 1806 and in that town, the said lamb episode is said to have taken place. Her married name was Tyler, and Mary Tyler was know by everybody and esteemed by all. The poem is like many of those imperishable things like the "Iliad" which generations to come will read with undiminished pleasure.

The computer swallowed Grandma Yes, honestly it's true She pressed 'control' and 'enter' And disappeared from view.

It devoured her completely, The thought just makes me squirm. She must have caught a virus, Or been eaten by a worm.

I've searched through the recycle bin, And files of every kind. I've even used the Internet, But nothing did I find.

In desperation I asked Jeeves My searches to revive. The reply from him was negative Not a thing was found 'online'.

So if inside your 'Inbox', My Grandma you should see. Please 'copy', 'scan' and 'paste'. And send her back to me. There Are More Like Him
When I was in my blooming teens
I thought my father slow;
When I left school I'd illustrate

How business ought to go.

His ancient fogy notions
Were so prosy and absurd,
I'd teach him money-making tricks
Of which he had not heard.

I quite believed progression Was our family's natural law. And wondered then if every boy Was smarter than his pa,

For while I thought my father clever, Yet to me it seemed, I had such brilliant plans Of which he never dreamed.

My time arrived and I began In business for myself. And thought that speedily I'd lay the fogies on the shelf.

I'd touch the mystic springs
That yield their gracious gifts of gold,
And pile up mighty stacks of wealth
Of value quite untold.

The years have fled, The money given me With which to start, Has vanished quite,

And now I'm broke And sad and sick at heart. I'll beg a stamp from some one And a letter write to Ma,

And ask her if she can't secure for me a "ten" from Pa.

James Harvey Dickey Family

(Found with research papers of George Nelson Dickey, Germantown, TN)

The Dickeys are of Scots-Irish descent. The Scots-Irish seem always to have been aware of their pure Scottish origins, and to have understood that the "Irish" part of the term refers only to a geographical location, namely Ulster. It is quite likely that these Dickey progenitors immigrated to America in the mid-1790's from county Antrim in the north of Ireland. Presently the spelling "Dickie" is predominant in Scotland, and in Ireland and America it is "Dickey".

James Harvey Dickey was the first of this particular line of Dickeys to reside in Gibson County. He was born in Rutherford County, TN, on 13 Sep 1828, the son of Matthew Dickey and grandson of David Dickey (abt. 1760-1835) who had moved to Rutherford County from Orange County, NC in 1809. He died at Milan, TN July 14, 1900.

The father of David Dickey was John Dickey, Sr. who died in Caswell County, NC early in 1802. His will was dated 16 Jan 1802, and it was probated at the April term of Court in the same year, naming sons Zachariah, John, Jr. and David, and daughters Frances Douglass and Rebeccah Dickey. The mother is unknown.

David Dickey's wife is unknown; however, his children who moved to Rutherford County, TN, with him were Matthew (1785-1865); James L. (1788-186?) who married Mary Wells; John Linsay (1795-186?) who married Martha B. Taylor; William L. (1799-1860), a lifetime bachelor; Frances (1792-1874) who married Francis M. Baldridge; and Elizabeth "Betsy" (1782-?) who married Robert Baldridge in Orange County, NC. There was one other daughter whose name is unknown. The family purchased land on the waters of Stewart's Creek, a tributary of Stone's River in Rutherford County, TN.

Matthew Dickey, our direct ancestor, married Mary Jordan, a daughter of Enos and Elizabeth Jordan of Giles County, TN, 18 Mar 1814. Elizabeth Jordan was a daughter of Elizabeth Stepp of Person County, NC. Her father is unknown, as well as the father and mother of Enos Jordan as of this writing. Matthew Dickey's known children were Chelanisa (1824-?) who married Richard "Dick" Lewis: Frances E. (abt. 1829-?) who married first Joseph Lewis and upon his death, Taylor J. Beasley, a son of James Beasley; Rebecca Amanda (abt. 1833-?) who married John L. Council; James Harvey (1828-1900) who married Kittura Malissa Rowlett (1836-1914), a daughter of Thomas Rowlett and Rebecca James Beasley: Martha J. (abt. 1838-?) who married James F. Cobler. All of these children's marriages took place in Rutherford County, TN.

Brothers James L. and John Linsay moved with their families to Ray County, Missouri in 1827 and abt. 1835 respectively. William L. remained a bachelor and died in Rutherford County, 24 March 1860 after the death of his father. James Harvey Dickey and family moved to Milan in 1869. He was a wheelwright by trade. The family moved to Lavinia, TN in Carroll County, sometime before 1880, but returned to Milan in 1892. The TN State Gazeteer and Business Directory for the year 1887 lists him as a carriage and wagon maker in Lavinia, a community with a population of 43. To the marriage of James Harvey and "Kitty" were born four children: William Thomas "Will" (1857-1924); Mary Rebecca Adline "Mollie" (1859-1921);

Martha Frances Lucy Elizabeth Jane Dove (1864-1940); James Major (1867-1917).

"Will" Dickey married Katie Johns Jones, a daughter of Alfred Jones (1801-1865) and Karrenhappuch P. Hartzog (1822-1905), a daughter of George Hartzog, at Spring Creek, TN, 14 September 1883. "Happy", as she was called, married William Flynn Kizer upon the death of Alfred Jones. They had one child, Lucy Willie "Aunt Lucy" Kizer (1871-1953) who never married and lived with the Dickey family until her death. "Will" Dickey was a blacksmith by trade and for many years owned and operated a blacksmith shop and livery stable at the northwest corner on Church and Main Streets. He served as an elected alderman for several years.

The children born into this family were Alfred Lester "Fred" (1884-1962); Joe Harvey (1886-1958); Sophye Wheeler (1888-1972); George Hervey (1891-1987); Ferman Jones "Jack" (1893-1978); Katie Florence (1895-1978); twins Bert German (1897-1965) and Jessie Benjamin (1897-1943); William Everett (1900-1901) and Hugh Grady "Buster" (1904-1981).

Fred married Nelle Kate Cox (1890-1975), a daughter of James Morrison Cox II of Brownsville, TN, and had daughter Sophye Harriet who married William C. Card of Memphis. Fred, a wagon maker and machinist by trade, was one of Milan's first auto mechanics. He was a partner in Dickey & Fesmire, blacksmiths until the late 1950s, when the business closed due to changing times. He and Nelle started the firm of Dickey's Flowers during the 1930s. His civic service as a volunteer fireman spanned 50 years, the last 25 as chief of Milan's volunteer fire department. He was a deacon in the 1st Baptist Church and a past master of Milan Lodge #191.

Joe married Catherine Trantham of Gleason, TN, having lost two previous wives to death. He was employed by the Memphis Press-Scimitar until his retirement. There were no children.

Sophye married first William Wade
McCollum, and upon his death Bruce Nelson of Athens, AL. Their only child was Katherine Dickey Nelson. She married
William B. Young, and their children were Katherine Neal and Bruce Nelson Young.

Hervey married Mayme Huber Chumler at Fulton, Kentucky, 05 March 1925, and had William Lewis (1928-1930) and George Nelson who married Gladys Ann Ross, a daughter of William Granville Ross and Rebecca Pauline Pollock Ross, 19 June 1957. Hervey was a railroad man for 51 years, three with the L & N and 48 with the IC railroad at Milan as Chief Clerk. He was the first Milan man to volunteer for service in France during WW I, but did not meet army requirements due to being underweight. Requirements were later modified, and he was accepted, serving with the U.S. Army in France as a regimental sergeant major with Co. A., 51st Railroad Engineers of the 81st Division. He was a Mason, Shriner, and Historian and was named Poet Laureate of Gibson County by the Poetry Society of TN, 26 April 1984, in his 93rd year. Active in civic affairs, he served as President of the Exchange Club, past master of Milan Lodge #191, F. & A. M., was a deacon and long-time Sunday school teacher in the 1st Baptist Church. He was instrumental in persuading the U.S. Government to locate the Milan Ordnance Depot near Milan in 1940-41 and was employed there as a railroad superintendent during WW II.

Jack married Alma Brewer of Martin, TN. His lifetime employment was with the L. & N. Railroad at Milan, TN, retiring as Chief Clerk after 50 years of service. He served in France for 15 months during WW I as a 1st Class Private in Co. D. 323rd Infantry, 81st Division. He was a past master of Milan Lodge #191, a member of the 1st Baptist Church. He served as a deacon, general Sunday school secretary for 44 years, and church treasurer for 12 years. There were no children.

Kate married Rufus Watterson Puckett, a son of Rev. W. R. Puckett. Their only child was Dickey Watterson Puckett, who married Charlane Easterday of Paducah, Kentucky. Watt Puckett died in 1937 leaving Kate a widow. She never remarried.

Bert married Loraine Wallin of Earle. AR and had Bert, Jr. and Dixie Dee. He became a wealthy land owner and planter with extensive banking interests.

Ben never married. He was employed by Dickey & Fesmire blacksmith shop until his death at Milan

"Buster" at age 68, married Charlotte E. Strickland of Memphis. There were no children. He served as a Chief Petty Officer in the U. S. Navy Seabees during WW II. After the war he returned to Memphis and became a successful public utilities contractor and developer of properties.

The second child of James Harvey and "Kitty" was Mary Rebecca Adline "Mollie" who married Matthew Wesley Wheeler. Their children were Loni May; Rhesa Everett; Kitty Eugenia; Ruel H. who married Lillian Dossett and had Mary Louise (1911-1914) and Dorothy Belle who married William "Bill" Burgess and had Delle Rhue and James N. Burgess; Eulene who married Raymond Jefferson "Jeff" Keaton; Otis E.;

and Hollis Elmore who married Vera Pearce and had Glynn Pearce Wheeler.

The third child, Dove, married 1st Bert Cook and had Bert, Jr. Her 2nd marriage was to Levi Wilson. There were no children.

James Major Dickey married Elizabeth Milan (1877-1896), a daughter of Henry Bascom Milam and Laura Milam. These were children of unrelated Milam families. Their children were Aileen (1894-1978) and Eva Elizabeth (1896-1980). Aileen married John Curtis Thompson (1887-1965) and had James Lafayette (1915-1916) and Richard Curtis "Dick" Thompson (1918-1963). James Harvey Dickey, his wife, all children and grandchildren, with the exception of Bert, Sophye and "Buster" are buried in Oakwood Cemetery at Milan. Bert and wife are buried at Crittenden Memorial Park near Marion, AR, Sophye at Athens, AL, and "Buster" in Forest Hill Midtown at Memphis, TN.

I have purposely omitted many dates herein. Future generations and historians can do what I did, look it up! It is partially a matter of public record, and searching is part of the fun of it.

Autobiography of John A. Gardner

the request of my children and affectionally dedicated to them. (With research papers donated by Grace Upshaw)

I was born on the 19th day of August 1809, in the western part of Robertson county. Tennessee. My father's name was John and my mother's maiden name was Patience Whitehead. They married in Southhampton Co., Virginia about 1795, and immediately removed to and settled in the western part of Robertson Co., Tenn., where I was born, and where they continued to reside until about the year 1829, when they came to Weakley Co., West Tennessee, where several of their children had previously settled. They raised seven sons, of whom I was the seventh, and two daughters, all living to arrive at the years of maturity. The

My father was most of his life a man in independent, though moderate circumstances. He was a farmer and gave each of his nine children a rudimentary education, such as was common that day among the farmers of the West. Of course my early education was defective. I never went to school in a University, a college or even an academy, nor in a city, a town or even a village. I was sent to county schools in the winter and kept at home and labored on the farm through the summer season.

sons were all older than the two daughters.

In 1827 I removed from Robertson Co. to Weakley Co. Tenn. In 1828 I bought a half interest with Amos R. Johnson as my partner, in the type, press, etc. of the "West Tennessean", a newspaper published weekly in the town of Paris, Henry County, Tenn. The paper was democratic in politics. I assumed editorial control and advocated the election of General Jackson to the presidency, with what little discretion and ability, my youth and inexperience allowed me. At the end of about nine months I sold out my interest in the paper and returned to Dresden and engaged in reading Autobiography of John A. Gardner, written at law, with - with, well nobody in particular. I gave the only piece of property I owned, a horse, to my brother, Richard to board me a year. Before the expiration of the year I had obtained a license to practice law – to the bar at Dresden, and on the 28th of Oct. of that year, 1829 (I think I am right in these dates) I married Ritta Maria Terrill, an orphan girl whose mother and father were both dead, with whom I lived happily for a period of about twenty years. She died the 28th of Nov., 1848. Our surviving children are Ada B. Caldwell, Laura A. Gardner, M. L. Hankins, and A. C. Gardner.

> On the 30th of March 1850 I married my second and present wife in Nashville, Miss Agnes Hunter Cowardin. With her I have also lived a pleasant life, with a temper naturally quick and rendered greatly more irritable by old age, increased nervousness and pecuniary misfortune. We have five living children – three sons, Almus Howard Gardner, Ernest Morehead Gardner and Percy Whitehead Gardner, and two daughters Fannie Gardner Caldwell and Josie Lee Gardner, our voungest child.

> For somewhat more than ten years from 1840 – 1850, including the period of my best physical health, and greatest intellectual vigor, I was actively connected to politics. In every contest duing those years, State or National, I was either a regular standard bearer or an active volunteer for my party. In 1829 before I was constitutionally eligible I was nominated by a Confention of my political friends for State Senator for the counties of Weakley, Henry and Obion. This nomination I declined and my venerable friend Gen'l Robert Love of Henry County was elected to the position. In 1840 in the memorable 'Hard Cider' and 'log Cabin' compaign for the presidency between Mr. Van Buren & General Harrison I actively and vigorously canvassed my county of Weakly in favor of Van Buren against the Hon, E.

Etheridge, then a very young man, who with ardor and ability advocated the claims of Genl. Harrison. We spoke in the month of August, in every civil district in the county (at least, I did. I believe he missed one appointment), making twelve speeches in thirteen days, each from 2 ½ to 4 ½ hours in length. This was a most laborious canvass of its duration I ever made. In independent candidate, relying on Whig 1841 my political party again nominated me for the State Senate. I accepted and was returned without opposition. It so happened that the election of two United States Senators from this We met in joint public discussion two or three state devolved on that Legislature. Our of 1834 consisted of 100 members, 75 in the H. of Reps., and 25 in the Senate. Political parties in this state were then very evenly balanced. A result of this was that in the year 1841 the democrats had a majority of one in the Senate and the Whigs a majority of three in the House. This was an exact political equipoise. Our custom and usage had been up to that time for the two Houses to meet in joint convention to elect a United States Senator. To have followed this usage would have given the Whigs the numerical advantage of us and would have enabled them to elect both Senators. Congress having omitted to exercise the power conferred upon it by the Federal constitution of enacting a law prescribing the time, place and manner of electing Senators, the democratic majority in the Senate refused to meet the Whig majority in the House in joint convention to elect U.S. Senators, one from each of the opposing political parties – each party to select the men it preferred.

Upon my motion, John C. McLemore was elected by the democrats of the Senate and on sending our joint concurrent resolution to the House, it refused to pass it, so the State remained without Senatorial representation in Congress from this State for two years. From this circumstance the democratic senators were called the 'immortal 13'.

In 1843 I was a candidate for reelection to the State Senate with Genl. John W. Rogers as my only competitior. He was a democrat brought out by the Whig party as the best method of defeating me. I carried by handsome majorities each of the three counties, and was again returned by the people. In 1845 I was before the people for the third time for the Senate. Doctor Dewitt, a Henry County democrat, a popular and able man, took the field against me, as an support, and some prejudice on the part of a few democrats against me, on account of my having been of the 'immortal 13', to beat me. times, when like Belshazzar, seeing the legislature, then under the amended constitution handwriting on the wall, he quit the contest and retired from the race. No other candidate coming out, of course, I was elected again. When the legislature of 1845-6 met in October 1845, the Senate stood 13 democrats and 12 Whigs. Each party as usual held a caucus to select its candidate for speaker. The choice of my friends fell on me. The Whigs nominated one of their number, Mr. Murray of Williamson County. The Whigs had determined if they could by any means prevent it, that no one of the 'immortal 13' should be elected to preside over the deliberations of the senate. It was thought by many that they anticipated that my friends would present my name for the speakership, and they intended to defeat me, by any means in their power. The next day when the election for Speaker came up, Mr. Murray and myself were put into nomination by our respective friends. The ballot proceeded, my name being called before Mr. Murray's. I did not vote at all. When Mr. Murray's name was reached he voted for another Whig Senator, Mr. Tyler of Montgomery, the result was I had received 12 votes, Mr. Murray 11 and Mr. Tyler 1. There was no election, the rule in such cases requiring a candidate to get a majority of all the votes cast before the temporary chairman could declare an election. The balloting continued through that day and a part of the next, with precisely the same result. I then took my position near Mr. M. intending to change my tactics and put Mr. M. to a severe test. So when my name was called, I voted for Mr.

Murray to see if he would return the courtesy, and thus secure my election. This, however he declined to do, and continued to vote for Mr. Tyler. The vote then stood Gardner 12, Murray 12 and Tyler 1; still no election.

The balloting continued with this result till the evening of the third day of the session, when on the announcement of the 135th ballot, I arose and in a brief speech, withdrew my name, and put the Hon. Harvey M. Watterson in nomination, who on the second ballot was elected by the vote of Mr. Bradbury, the Whig Senator from Perry. Thus ended this memorable contact for the Speakership of the Tennessee State Senate. I was allowed by my friends to choose my own time to retire, and to nominate whom I pleased, whenever I withdrew.

In the Presidential election of 1844 between Mr. Polk and Mr. Clay, the former being my personal as well as political friend, I supported him ardently, with all my influence and energy, making many speeches at barbecues and mass meetings of the people in his behalf.

In 1847 at the urgent solicitation of numerous and prominent political friends, in all parts of the state, I was a candidate for Congress in a Whig district with a majority of 2500 against me. I had neither hope nor expectation of being elected, and only ran to help my party in the general struggle of that year. For awhile Col. C. H. Williams of Henderson and Genl. W. T. Haskell of Madison County were both running as Whig candidates. Col. Williams retired and the contest went on between Genl. H. and myself. I reduced the Whig majority about one thousand votes. Genl. Haskell beating me about fourteen hundred. In 1848, my party put me forward as a candidate for Presidential Elector in the race that year, for the Presidency between Genl. Cass and Genl. Taylor. Col. C. H. Williams was the Whig or Taylor elector. Genl. Taylor received the vote for Tennessee, there being nine counties in the district. The canvass between Col. Williams and myself was arduous and energetic, as we spoke several times in each of the counties.

Col. Williams was a high-toned and truly amiable gentleman, an adroit and able debator, and a social and agreeable companion- making the canvass to me a real pleasure, regardless of the labor. Just after close of the canvass in the month of November 1848, I had the misfortune to lose my first wife, leaving me five children, the youngest being two years old. I immediately decided to abandon politics and devote my entire time and energies to the practice of my profession. I entered into a law partnership with E. Etheridge, Esq., who had read law with me and resided in my family while he was preparing himself for the bar. He was a young man of rare brilliance and promise, with a wonderfully retentive memory, studious habits, quick comprehension, great warmth of heart, strength and fidelity of personal attachments, and generosity of disposition. This connection lasted about four years, during which time Mr. Etheridge's progress and advancement in his profession, his rapid addition to his previous stock of legal knowledge, exceeding anything of the kind that ever came under my personal observation. We did a large and lucrative practice. In 1852 Mr. Etheridge, having been elected a representative in Congress, and I having undertaken to get up the stock for a railroad, then recently chartered from Nashville to a point on the Mississippi River in the Madrid Bend, called the 'Nashville and Northwestern R. R. Co.', our partnership was dissolved by mutual consent. I succeeded in getting the stock, and in the autumn of 1852 the company was organized at Nashville and the Board of Directors elected me President of the company. I was re-elected three or four times. During my Presidency the work was out under contract, and a part of the road out of Nashville, and at the west end was put in operaton. I resigned the presidencey, or declined a re-election. I cannot now remember which, in 1856, I think, a part of the time while I was president of this company, I boarded with my wife and children in the family of Josian Ferriss in Nashville, and afterwards bought a residence in the city and lived there for about two years. I devoted four or five years of the hardest labor of my life to the service of this corporation which I have never regretted, in view of the advantage of the road to my secton of the State. When I quit the railroad I went back to the bar and practiced law, until the Civil War broke out. A part, or most of which time I practiced with my son-in-law, afterwards the Hon. W. P. Caldwell. At the beginning of the war, during its progress, and at its close I was a Rebel sympathizer. I however, never took any part in it.

In 1870, I was chosen a delegate from Weakly County to the Constitutional Convention that year. B. B. Edwards, Esq. was my competitor. I served in that body as chairman of the Committee on 'Finance and Taxation'. In 1878 while I was a refugee in Kentucky, with my family at 'Glen Lilly', the country seat of Genl. Bolivar H. Buckner (a cousin of my wife) died from yellow fever at Martin. A convention of my political friends convened in Weakly County to nominate a candidate to to represent the County at the Session of 1878-9. Some trouble coming up between democratic aspirants for the position to secure harmony and success, the Convention tendered me the nomination. Recognizing the obligation to serve the people, when called on, unsolicited to do so, I accepted and was successful—beating J. M. Troutt, Esq., an independent democratic candidate. I served as chairman of the Judiciary committee at the following session and can say truthfully, it was the severest season of seventy five days continuous labor I ever performed in my life. This service terminated my connection with politics and public life.

It is true that without making any canvass whatever, without making a single speech, or even an address to the electors of the State, I had the supreme folly of going before the State Convention in 1878 as a candidate for the nomination of Governor. I was beat, I might add 'of course', but not by an open and known competitior, of whom there were five, Fleming, Caldwell, Savage, Burch and Colyer, but by a dark horse, the Hon. A. S. Marks, an exconfederate Colonel who had lost a limb in the rebel service, an able, amiable and popular man—to have beat by whom would have been no disgrace to the greatest.

I encountered two other horses of the same color before Col. Marks was brought in, namely, Judge J. C. Guild and Judge John V. Wright, both of whom were prominent, popular and influential men in the State, and with the Democratic party. I disposed of them in 'short order', but Marks was too hard for me and served my term as Governor. My friends seemed to think I made a good race under the circumstances, and for a time felt very confident of my nomination.

I believe that many generations of the lower animal adapted to the state of the earth's atmosphere and other physical conditions, have inhabited our planet, and when it became unfitted to their existance, these primordial races perished and became utterly extinct, and that new higher and more complex types, better suited to the changed physical conditions of our world followed. I believe in the variability of the species, but the difficulty seems to be to fix a limit beyond which these variations can never proceed. The survival of the fittest, in the struggle for life, to my mind is a demonstrated proposition.

Shiloh church was formerly in the Richland circuit which embraced Giles, Marshall, and a part of Lincoln county in the early days. Preaching was once a month at each church. Shiloh was the extreme southeast corner of the circuit. Friday was the day for preaching at Shiloh.

The preacher rode horse-back and his wardrobe and library was a pair of saddle bags. The first preacher I remember was William G. Hensley, 1854, Logan D. Harwell, Hartwell Brown. In 1858 the circuit was divided again, and it was called Pisgah circuit. I remember very well the churches that were in the circuit in 1864 -- Pisgah, Mt. Zion, Center Point, Rehobeth, Bethesda, Midbridge, Emory, Bee Springs, Shiloh and many others that i can't remember now. In 1869 the circuit was divided again into two circuits, Bee Springs and Shiloh had Robert M. Haggard as their pastor. Then in 1880 Dellrose was added and John H. Nichols was the preacher. In 1900 bee springs was cut off from Dellrose and Shiloh. B. L. Lyle Was The Preacher To Take The Last Divide, Dellrose And Shiloh.

Shiloh was built in 1859 and dedicated the second Sunday in September by Hartwell Brown and Logan D. Hartwell. The services were continued for two weeks. There was a glorious revival at that time. However the first church house was built in 1842. It was built on a flat near the branch called Turkey Creek. It was built of hewed logs; it had two doors, one on the side and one on the back side. There was a little square window which let the light in for the preacher. The pulpit was a square box with a broad piece in front for the preacher to lay his books on.

In 1843, a large arbor was built where the church now stands. Tents were built on the ground too -where the graveyard now is and also on the north and west sides. They were built of split boards.
Everything was completed for a tent meeting in 1843. The meeting was held by Thomas A. Youngand John W. Phillips. It was one of the biggest revivals among the people in that day. The people came from miles away. After a few years the tent houses went down and wasted away as all other things go. In 1859, the big arbor was torn down and moved out. The house which now stands was built by George Beck, the contractor. The house was covered with shingles made by James Gill.
Just twenty years afterwards the Masonic hall was built on the church -- 1879. It was covered with hand-drawn shingles. The church and hall were covered with California red-wood shingles in 1906.
In about 1922 or 1923 during Bro. C. B. Cook's ministry, the hall was torn down and the building repaired. It is the present building. Following is a list of the traveling preachers since 1811. By Holman Hampton, uncle of Wade Hampton.

Ulrich Buler (Beeler) of Shenandoah County, Virginia, and His Descendants by David R. Cosper, 8 ½ x 11, hard cover, cc 2011, 239 pp plus vi pp. Cost: $40.00 including p&h. Personal check, postal money order or cash is required. Foreign orders can be arranged by contacting author. Order from: David Cosper, 6824 Valley View Drive, Downers Grove, IL 60516-3513. e-mail: drclac3884@cs.com.

This family history of Ulrich Buler (Beeler) was started when the author began searching for his wife's ancestors in East Tennessee. In his research he found Ulrich Buler (Beeler), who appears to be the first of the family to come to America from Germany. Most of the immigrants used the more anglicized name (Beeler), Other spellings of the name were Bular, Beeler, Bealer.

The history of this family contains genealogical sketches of Ulrich Beeler, his children and grandchildren. The information was found by visiting courthouses in Tennessee, Missouri, Iowa, Indiana, Illinois, Wisconsin, Oregon and Washington, and from using microfilm. Each sketch is abundantly footnoted and has numerous citations so that there is no doubt as to the accuracy of his information. Sketches of other Beelers with Tennessee connections can be found in Appendix A, and Appendix B is an essay on Joseph and Jacob Beeler of Sullivan County, Tennessee.

A few of the other surnames found in this book are Arkard, Arnwine, Bolin, Booker (Boor-Barker) Brock, Carter, Coffman, Cook, Dunn, Harlin, Hammond, Honeycutt, Hughes, Hunter, Jackson, Lance, Lewis, McBee, Miller, Moore, Nicely, Retri, Rodman, Rogers, Sherertz, Smith, Summers, Vance & Wolfbarger.

If you plan to research the surname Beeler or any of the other surnames in this history, this volume is an excellent place to start.

Shipping and handling $4.90, Visa and Master Card accepted.

The Guide to Family Search Online is the most complete book that could be written to provide detailed instructions to the content and organization of all the current Family Search websites. The book includes information on: FamilySearch.org, New.FamilySearch.org, Forums.FamilySearch.org, Indexing.FamilySearch.org plus many more. James L. Turner is a leading genealogical expert and Blogger with over ten years' experience in teaching and writing about technology issues for genealogists. He is the featured Blogger and writes for the FamilySearch Teach Tips website as well as his own blog.

It would be impossible to explain all the many changes that have been made to FamilySerach.org. You will just have to check them out for your selves. It was my experience in using this book that the download would work better since I could have access to the information very quickly on just that part of Family Tree where I was working.

There is no doubt that if you use Family Tree Maker, or really any other genealogical program, that if you use the book or PDF download, either will help you a great deal.

Freedom & Slavery Documents in the District of Columbia, Vol. 1, 1792-1806 Compiled by Helen Hoban Rogers, 8 ½ X 11, soft cover, cc 2007, 39 pages of index and over 65 pages of abstracts. Over 250 entries are abstracted, plus corrections and indexes of surnames of enslaved and free persons of color and an index of slaveholders.

Volume 2 covers the period 1806-1816, 8 ½ X 11, soft cover, cc 2008. Contains 102 pages of index, 180 pages of abstracts for over 680 entries abstracted. Also includes surname list for Volumes 1 and 2.

Volume 3 covers the period 1816 into 1822, 8 ½ X 11, soft cover, cc 2009. Contains 89 pages of index plus 163 pages of abstracts. 530 entries are abstracted. Surname lists of enslaved and free persons of color and slave holders for all three volumes are included.

All three volumes start with a Table of Contents, Preface, early District of Columbia History, Users Guide, Location of Records and Additional Research. Lists of enslaved persons, free persons of color and of slave holders are included in these two volumes but have been added to Volume 1.

The source of these abstracts was the libers or deed books in the District of Columbia. The District of Columbia was originally made up of land ceded by the States of Virginia and Maryland. After various adjustments, the U. S. Congress retroceded all the land ceded by the State of Virginia, and only the land ceded by Maryland makes up the District of Columbia. The abstracts refer to the city of Georgetown, the city of Washington and Washington County as separate entities. The type of records abstracted are Bills of Sale, Certificates of Freedom, Certificates of Slavery, Emancipations and Manumissions.

Each volume begins with an index (names of slaves and free persons of color bolded) showing the year, names of slaves or owners and the page number for the hand-written copy in Register of Deeds office (Old) and typed copy in U. S. Archives and Records Administration (New). The remainder of the books contains the details involved in the index. The details contain the names of all parties involved and name many different places and counties, especially in Virginia and Maryland, although other states are also mentioned

There are too few records available which show the names of slaves, free persons of color and the slave owners in one place. Ms. Rogers has unearthed these before-hidden documents and given researchers another source to locate their ancestors, especially for the early years. These volumes would also be useful for anyone interested in the history of slavery or in the area covered.

Dollarhide Numbering for Genealogists. An Authorized Guide for the Serious User By Brian R. Smith, 8.5 X 11, 35 pp., soft cover, saddle stapled. Item # FRO119. Price $15.95 plus $4.90 p&h for the 1st book; add $2.50 for each additional book. Order from Family Roots Publishing Co. (for further ordering information, see end of reviews for this company.)

Any serious genealogist is familiar with the name of William Dollarhide from the 13 books and other articles he has published. In addition to his publications, Mr. Dollarhide has made up a numbering system when doing his own research. In this book, Mr. Smith has given detailed instructions on how to use the Dollarhide numbering system in terms that are easy to understand.

The Dollarhide numbering system uses the Ahnentafel system for ancestors and the Henry numbering system for descendants. By combining the two systems, it can be used for indexing almost all relationships one might find within a family. It is designed to include direct relations and also items such as multiple spouses, including former and later marriages, half siblings, adopted and step children, other non-blood relatives and more. Most software lacks this ability. For those who want a comprehensive index of all that their research has uncovered, this indexing system is for them.

A statement by William Dollarhide is included stating he has reviewed and verified that the details of this numbering system have been accurately presented.

Genealogical Research in Nebraska, By Ruby Coleman, 8.5 X 11, soft cover, 108 pp. perfect bound, cc 2011, Item # FRO117 Price $25.95 plus $4.90 P&h for first book, $2.50 for each additional book. Order from Family Roots Publishing Co. (for further ordering information see end of reviews for this company.)

Nebraska is 16th largest in size of the 50 states. The land that made up the state was purchased in 1803 as part of the Louisiana purchase. The first settlers came in 1810 to the Bellvue area along the Missouri River. A village was founded in 1823, the first white settlement.

The great migration began in 1841 and all of the migration roads crossed Nebraska. The primary trails to cross this State were: the South Pass, the Oregon Trail, the Mormon Trail, the California trail, the Overland Stage trail, and the Pony Express. Whether these immigrants traveled across or stayed, they created a record in Nebraska.

The author begins with a short history of the State. In this State, the variety of records kept, as in other States, is unique, and finding out what kind of records are available, and where to find them, is the place to start. This matter is very well covered by the author.

Some of the chapters covered are: Nebraska settlement, Court Systems and Records, Probate, Guardianship, and Adoptions, Land Records, Civil and Criminal Court Records, County Histories, Territorial, Federal & State Censuses, Military records, School records, Cemeteries, Institutional and Railroad records, Ethnic groups, including Native Americans, Religious records; Orphan Trains, Cattle Brands, Societies, Repositories and Libraries, State censuses & Substitutes from 1854-1976. Maps showing County boundary changes, and County records, shown alphabetical by county are included, as well as suggested internet web pages and suggested reading.

This is Volume 39 of a series of books published by this company to aid in the research in Germany. Unlike research in America, research in Europe is usually related to where birth, christening, marriage, death and burial records can be found. In Germany that would be to search Parish Registers for Catholic, Lutheran, Reformed and other church records. Until this series of books, most German parishes were not clearly defined and it was difficult to know where one parish stopped and another began.

Each of these volumes are divided into five sections:

- 1) Province/Duchy resources
- 2) Maps of Parish boundaries for the main Lutheran churches
- 3) Maps of Parish boundaries for Catholic churches
- 4) Records available for minority religions
- 5) a complete index of all the towns and parishes represented.

Each parish is numbered starting with #1 for the Lutheran Maps and continues on through the Catholic maps until all are numbered.

The map section provides a graphic view of each district and parish and a parish key including the Family History Library microfilm number and listing of towns in the district.

Each volume does the following: Identifies the parish where an ancestor went to church, gives the family History Library microfilm number of the family's parish records; Identifies nearly every city, town and place with residents; Identifies parishes for Lutheran and Catholic, Identifies neighboring parishes in case an ancestor attended another parish; Aids in conducting area searches across borders; Provides visual identification of search areas in which to look; Helps in determining proximity of one area to another; Aids in deciding reasonable distances from one area to another; Identifies Population centers in each parish, Identifies archives, repositories and other resources; Aids in identification of the location of minor religions.

There are 40 volumes of this series now in print, and there will probably be 55 volumes when complete. This series of books has taken the research in Germany from very difficult to much easier, and I would recommend the applicable book before you start your research in Germany.

Tech Tips

There have been a lot of new terms out there on the internet. Some of these affect genealogy research and record keeping. This is what prompts the return of Tech Tips this issue.

"The Cloud" — This is where you store documents, music, pictures or the like for you to access from any computer, anywhere in the world where you have an internet connection. It also refers to applications. Email has existed in "the cloud" for a while now, but the term has only come into our language as it is today in the past couple of years. There are many companies out there now offering to store things for you; you use and access them in the "the cloud."

"App" — This is referring to tiny applications that can be used on your mobile device or tablet computer. There are many different phones and tablets out there now that use these apps. A little research showed me that there are several genealogy "Apps" out there these days.

"Tablet" — This refers to new computers that are only operated by touching the screen. These tablets allow you to do many things from the comfort of the couch, chair, bed or such. Some are 3G capable and some are only WiFi capable.

"3G" or "4G"— This refers to how your mobile device connects to the cell phone towers. 4G is the faster of the two. Your cell phone, tablet, and Kindle can be "3G" and allow you to do things from anywhere you can get a mobile connection. How reliable this is depends on coverage in the area where you are.

"e-reader"— This refers to special devices that allow you to read books on the go. Amazon, Barnes & Noble, Google Books, and Apple all have stores that allow you to buy books to read on devices. Amazon and Barnes & Noble both have applications that allow you to also read these books on your phone, computer, or even from the "the cloud".

This photo was actually marked with pretty good info. When identifying your own photos for others to follow, think about how they won't know the people you know, and won't know the references. So be certain to identify everyone by full name.

This is also a gentle reminder to identify your own photos and put them with said photos. Your descendants will thank you for this small effort.

Every day someone out there is going through a box of photos that are unidentified.

Tennessee Ancestry Certificate Program

The Tennessee Genealogical Society sponsors this program to recognize and honor the early settlers who helped shape the great state of Tennessee. Persons wishing to place their ancestors in this roll of honor are invited to submit an application with supporting documents or other evidence that proves their prime ancestor lived in Tennessee or the area that became Tennessee before 1880. Family charts or computer printouts are not considered sufficient proof.

Attractive hand-lettered certificates suitable for framing are issued to each person whose application meets program qualifications. The certificates are inscribed with the prime ancestor's name, when and where he or she settled in Tennessee, and the applicant's name. The application form for the certificate can be printed at our web site www.tngs.org or via snail mail from

Ansearchin' News Policies

Contributions

Everyone is invited to submit unpublished material of genealogical value. Pre-1945
Tennessee material is our priority. This includes diaries, letters, tombstone inscriptions, deeds, church records, military records, etc. If a photo is needed for an article, please contact us about how to submit an electronic copy.

We are a nonprofit organization and do not pay for contributions; however, we do acknowledge the contributor and give by-lines.

All correspondences with TNGS should include your name, address and telephone number or email address.

Oueries

Queries will appear in Ansearchin' News and on the TNGS web site.

Members are entitled to one free query each year and may place additional queries for $3 each. (Nonmembers pay $5 for each.) Queries should be 50 words or less. (See "Queries" in any current issue for correct form.) Please submit queries typed or printed.

Surname Index File Cards

Members are urged to send vital statistics of ancestors to be included in our Master Surname File. Please type or print information on a 3x5 index card Information should include subject's surname, given name, middle name, dates of birth, marriage, death, parents, spouse, children, origin, state and county. Please include name, address and e-mail address on the back of the card.

Book Reviews

Books will be reviewed in Ansearchin' News if the book is donated to The Tennessee Genealogical Society. After a book is reviewed, it will become part of the GRHGC library. All books will be reviewed in the order received. Tennessee Ancestry Certificates

TNGS sponsors this program to recognize and honor the settlers who came to Tennessee before 1880. To place your ancestors in this roll of honor, please request an application from Mrs. Grace Upshaw, Director of Certificates, at www.tngs.org or the address at the end of this page. Upon completion of the application, please return it along with supporting documents or other proof of your ancestor's residency, along with a $10 application fee. Attractive certificates suitable for framing are issued to each person whose application meets program qualifications. Certificates are inscribed with the prime ancestor's name, date and place of settlement in Tennessee along with the applicant's name.

Note: TNGS has published two volumes of Tennessee Settlers and Their Descendants compiled from information contained in these applications, and will publish a third volume when adequate numbers of additional applications are received.

Photo Gallery

TNGS may publish pre-1945 unidentified photos in Ansearchin' News. Please advise us of the origin of the photo and any other information that might aid our search. Please contact us about how to submit an electronic copy.

Letters to The Editor

All letters to the editor should be addressed to Kathryn Holderman. Please feel free to forward any comments or suggestions. In many instances, throughout the magazine, grammar and spelling are left verbatim in order to preserve the character and charm of the era.

Volunteering and Donations

TNGS is strictly a nonprofit organization. It exists to keep the history of Tennessee and our ancestors alive. Volunteers run every aspect of the Society, and if you would like to join the 'cause,' please contact a Board member or other volunteer. There is no job too small — remember, Tennessee is the Volunteer State! TNGS is a federally recognized nonprofit, tax exempt, educational organization, and as such contributions are tax deductible within the IRS guidelines. Your gift will be acknowledged by mail and will include the TNGS tax number.
