OVER THE EDITOR'S DESK

Fall is here - the beginning of another school year for many households, and the beginning of meetings for many organizations which have recessed for the summer. We know genealogists have been active because we have received notices of your family reunions, seminars and research opportunities. Three societies report seminars:

The Florida State Genealogical Society will hold its Thirteenth Annual Conference on November 3-4 in Gainesville. Contact Mrs. Mary Murphy, 3206 NW 52nd Place, Gainesville, FL 32605 for details. Her phone number is 904-378-8092.

Two Michigan groups, Huron Valley and Lyons Township Genealogical Societies, will combine forces to host the Michigan Genealogical Council's seminar, one with the intriguing theme of "Goin' Courtn" - 200 Years of the Judicial System." The dates are September 28-30, and the place is the Novi Hilton, Novi, MI. Lois Spiter, 1900 Horseshoe Dr., Highland, MI can direct any inquiry to the proper person.

The West Florida Genealogical Society will be having its Annual Conference on September 23rd with Helen F.M. Leary as the speaker. Her subject is "Dead Ends and Open Roads: Open Roads Are Better." The meeting place is Pensacola Civic Center. For reservations contact W.F.G.S., P.O. Box 947, Pensacola, FL 32594.

Three family organizations have written to us:

The GANN family gathered in June and formed a society. All Gann descendants may become charter members by joining before 1990. Joy Gann Brown, Rt. #4, Box 1078, Hillsborough, NC 27278 is the chairperson.

The GOWEN Research Foundation, a non-profit heritage society, was recently organized with Arlee Gowen, 5078 Gary Ave., Lubbock, TX 79413, as its president. She invites correspondence and contributions of Gowen research. Any spelling of the name - Gawan, Goin, Govan, Goyne, Gouwen etc. - is acceptable and welcome.

The LOUDIN-THOMAS family gathers every year on the last Sunday in July at Indian Mountain State Park in Jellico, Tennessee. Information about these families may be obtained from Shelby Alexander, 7673 Shields Rd., Lewisburg, OH 45338. Phone: 513-962-4909.

Another society is planning a publication:

The Historical Society of Maries County, Missouri has chosen a two volume format for its county's history. Volume 1 is a pictorial record, and Volume 2 is devoted to county and family history. Write the Society at P.O. Box 289, Vienna, MO 65582.

Verna Baker Banes, P.O. Box 7435, Huntsville, TX 77342-7435 has written us that she has three WILSON death certificates from Tullahoma, Coffee Co., Tennessee which do not seem to fit into her Wilson line. Names of the deceased are: Marion Wilson (b1851 IN, d 1925), Mrs. Nancy Wilson (d 1912, age 52), and Nancy Wilson (d 1912 age 61). Mrs. Banes will send copies to anyone able to identify the family of these persons.

The Clayton Library, Center for Genealogical Research opened to the public last fall in Houston, Texas. It is known as one of the finest and largest of all genealogical libraries, and judging from the plat of the facilities, it seems to have catered to every need of the researcher. Current hours are:

Monday - Wednesday, 9am to 9pm; Thursday - Saturday, 9am to 5pm.

FAMILY GATHERINGS

Prepared for publication by Mary Louise Graham Nazor

UNUSUAL WEDDING STORY OF PASCHALL-WILSON 1864 - Contributed by Betsy Foster West,
825 S. Perkins, Memphis, TN 38117

Dr. Newton Julian PASCHALL was born 21 May 1840 Weakley Co TN and died 12 Oct 1900 in South Fulton, TN. He married Sarah Jane WILSON, who was born 7 Feb 1844 Ballard Co KY (now Carlisle Co) and died 18 Jan 1921 S. Fulton, KY. She was the daughter of James Rutledge Wilson and Elizabeth Johnson HOLMAN (who lived near Milburn, KY). Newton and Sarah were married 17 Jul 1864 during the Civil War under very unusual circumstances. There are two versions of these circumstances: one written by Sarah and one appearing in the 1898 Fulton Daily Leader on three consecutive days penned by Newton.

Sarah's story: "The author of this article was sixteen years old when the war of the rebellion began. Although of immature age, I was very decided in my preference of the political situation. So with South Carolina blood tingling in my veins, I donned the secession badge, which was a rosette made of red, white, and blue ribbon cut half in two. While the Union Party wore the unsevered rosette and at that time were greatly in the majority in the community where I lived. But, nothing daunted, I wore mine pinned on the left breast as the pride of my heart...In the spring of sixty-four the Southern troops were moved from Kentucky. But frequently parties were sent back for recruits, such as men and horses, and in July Capt. N.J. Paschall was detailed by Col. Ed. Crossland of Forrest's cavalry as recruiting officer into Kentucky. As we had previously arranged to get married, we decided to take advantage of this perhaps last opportunity. So we managed to get a legal license and get a preacher brave enough to say the ceremony, but this was not done without some difficulty. Then the next thing was to get out of there (that is to get out of the Federal lines) for to our chagrin the news had reached Paducah that Paschall was in the country and also that he had married a girl near Paducah. And they immediately sent out a company of a hundred men to make search for the soldiers and also the bride. How the soldiers were to get out was not much of a problem as their tactics were to out run any crowd they could not whip. But alas for me, how was I to escape? But the alert Capt. was equal to the emergency. And while he had his men vigilantly guard the movements of the enemy and cautioned to be sure to keep in the rear, he managed to secure the services of a little old gray-headed man who had a little old mule and an old delapidated buggy to convey me through this country to where we would be under the protection of the southern army. The arrangement being completed, the Capt. proceeded to get his men together with a number of new recruits. They made their escape in the night and got back to Col. Crossland with a very satisfactory report."

"But my escape was to come yet. I did not know and did not much believe that they had had orders to molest me, but such were their threats and an excuse they made for searching houses as though they expected to find me under the beds or in closets, pantries, and trunks and other such places. But all I did was to keep advised where they were and keep out of their route. And this was not hard to do as they were not fond of prowling around when they thought there were southern soldiers in the woods. I waited a few days until the excitement lulled, and according to promise the little old man with the little old mule put in his appearance. He found me waiting dressed in very unassuming costume and wearing a sun bonnet. And about four o'clock in the morning we started on our trip. By the time people were stirring much through the country we were far enough away from home and acquaintance not to be recognized. As we plodded along through the heat and dust we had to stop several times to get water and let our mules rest a little. And a little to our surprise as well as displeasure, people eager for the news about what was going on would ask how far we had come and if we had seen any soldiers. As we couldn't tell them anything, they would tell us what they knew. We were told two or three times that 'Paschall is in here with a company of soldiers and they say he got married the other day, married a girl who lived down near Paducah.' The little old man never knew anything about it, and was ready to drive on. A little after sundown we reached our appointed destination. Next morning the old gentleman (for such he was) set out to return by a different route. I felt secure of being sent to prison or being exiled. What do you think of such a bridal trip?"

Newton's story: "...That Western Kentucky and West Tennessee were disputed territory, first one and then the other occupying the grounds, and frequently both at the same time; and every now and [then] a collision of the blue and the gray would occur, and those who could not hold their ground would have to do the best running. At the time this narrative crystallized there were 'Yanks' at every crossroad, and the scouting 'Rebs' had to be ever wakeful and constantly on the lookout. There was a certain young Rebel soldier who had a sweetheart back in Kentucky, and it became noised about that they were married every time the young 'Reb' crossed the Yankee lines. The report became so notorious that it was very unpleasant to the young lady and annoying to the soldier. They, therefore, concluded they would get married, if they could, and stop the unpleasant talking."

"To procure marriage license and assemble a Rebel wedding party within the Yankee lines, with Yankee sympathizers filling every office at the county seats, required no little nerve, and was attended with many dangers. The young Rebel Captain detailed twelve of his best men, all brave and well mounted, to accompany him through the enemy's lines and procure the necessary credentials, as well as the girl. The first county seat they attempted to enter to procure the necessary marriage license was found heavily guarded by Yankee soldiers, and strongly fortified. Another was sought, more distant from Yankee headquarters, and finally entered by circuitous routes; and by taking and holding one prisoner, captured on the way, least he might be induced to tell who he had seen, and where...In approaching the town or city limits the squad was halted; two men assigned picket duty on each road that entered the town; with instructions to advance at least one half mile and there remain until a signal of a pistol shot by the captain would call them in. Another detail was to take charge of all persons on the streets, hold them Status quo until authoritatively released. A third detail was made to accompany the captain through his ordeal with the officers of the law. When all except the last detail had gotten in position to comply with orders, the young captain dismounted and marched into the court house followed by his escort."

"Not having had the exquisite pleasure of meeting the Honorable County Court Clerk, a federal appointee, over a county whose people sympathized with the South and its soldiery, as much as South Carolina ever did, and had furnished as many Southern soldiers in proportion to population. It made it necessary to look out for the man who suited the description of the distinguished gentleman sought...Whereupon, after a very brief, 'Howdy do!' the Captain stated his business. Says he: ;I want a marriage license from this office for one Mr. ____ to marry one Miss ____, at your very earliest convenience.' The somewhat indignant looking clerk replied, 'What did you say?' The Captain repeated what he had said before in a more emphatic manner. The dignified clerk this time replied, 'I don't understand you.' The Captain considered precious time unnecessarily consumes (sic) and drew from the scabbard of his belt one of his ever faithful army guns, pointed it in the direction that Mr. Clerk was sitting, and said: 'I guess you had better understand me at once?' 'All right! certainly,' says the affable clerk. 'What are the names please?'... 'I would take you to be of lawful age to get married, but how old is the young lady?'... This stumped the Captain because he doubted she was as old as the required twenty-one so he turned to his escort who said, 'I don't know, but she is older than me', whereupon the clerk said 'that's alright, I guess she is about thirty...' The captain thought that for fear some might think that he had impressed his license he had better pay for them in the standard money of the country and gave the clerk the fee in Greenbacks, which set a quietus upon him for all time, so far as I know. That object having been accomplished, the next thing to do was to get out and get away from there... a single shot fired into the air from the Captain's pistol brought all the pickets in, in a long gallop and as the whole party darted out of town, they left the citizens pinching themselves and saying who am I?"

"The boys with us were all former citizens of that country and knew the ropes. We made a forced march that night, each man taking care of himself, either going to his home or seeking the protection of some of his friends in the vicinity. We had [an] understanding as to when and where we would come together again... Matters having gone thus far the young lady had made up her mind to get married and seek refuge further South, and the whole Yankee army, in her judgement, could not prevent it. That's woman. Thus continued the conditions and surroundings until the evening before the marriage was to take place the next morning, which was Sunday. Late Saturday afternoon the Rebel squad re-assembled... After lunch, and after all civilians should have been at home and at rest, the captain and his ever faithful comrade Bob, mounted their horses and set out to see if the way was clear and if the young lady was in readiness for the next day's flight and its consequences. They arrived at her boarding house, found the coast clear, whereupon the captain dismounted... He found the young lady somewhat excited from the rumors of the day... After arranging with her all preliminaries for definite action the coming day, the captain stole his first kiss from his intended bride and hurriedly sought the midnight darkness and the rendezvous of his command."

"The Captain's wardrobe consisted of a nice suit of military gray cloth, trimmed in polished brass buttons and gold braid that had been smuggled through the Yankee lines to him by the old friend whom he had held as a prisoner a few days before. His hat was a broadtrimmed, low-crowned black felt; such as a Southern planter feels proud of. It was decorated on one side with a silver star and plume of Ostrich feathers. His boots were of the old cavalry style, worn outside of the pants, coming up to and enclosing the knees; the heels being decorated by a large pair of spurs. His arms consisted of two army six-shooters, of large size, carried in a belt worn, usually, outside of his coat, and when mounted, a carbine swung to his saddle. After the Captain had donned a clean shirt (a white one at that) the boys fell into line and proceeded to the house where they expected to find the young lady ready to elope. It was no surprise to find a horse saddled, the girl dressed in a nice gown, which rustled like silk; and which proved sure enough silk. In a short time she was mounted upon a horse, a good one, and as one of the boys had tendered the captain his horse for that day, it being the best in the expedition, it is reasonable to suppose that she and the captain led the way... had we met on that flight a body of the enemy outnumbering us four to one, the courage and determination we possessed would have made us charge through smoke, fire, missiles of death and steel, although fatal wounds might have torn through our mortal bodies, but thanks to a kind Providence we did not encounter any until we had proceeded several miles and arrived at the place where we were to meet the brave young minister who had been engaged to say the ceremony that was to unite the young couple for life, although it might be brief. In this instance all dismounted, no one was detailed to hold horses, as was usual, but went straight into the house - not a prepared room or bridal chamber, but stood up in the floor just as they dismounted except each soldier reverently held his hat in hand while a brief and appropriate ceremony was performed, pronouncing them man and wife ...permit me to state that all the survivors of that expedition so far as I have known, have been good citizens, loyal to the government they were then fighting and have reared respectable families..." An Ex-Confederate

INDEX TO PROBATE RECORDS IN MEMPHIS/SHELBY COUNTY, TENNESSEE ARCHIVES

In the 169 years of its existence, the Shelby County Court system has produced literally tons of papers which document the lives of its citizens. Those papers were boxed and stored in any available space, frequently shoved to the back as newer boxes of papers arrived. Fortunately, many of those boxes have survived the damage of time, soot and humidity and are now housed in the Memphis/Shelby County Archives, under the supervision of Dr. James R. Johnson, Head of the History Department, Memphis/Shelby County Public Library and Information Center.

Of special interest to genealogists are the loose papers from the Probate Court concerning the estates of deceased persons. For the past eight years volunteers from the Tennessee Genealogical Society have been separating probate records from county business and other court records. Papers were unfolded, cleaned, repaired, sealed in mylar if fragile, and organized for placement in acid-free folders. The folders are filed by year, estate number and name of the deceased. Some estates contain one piece of paper; some contain hundreds of pieces. The name of the deceased person may appear in several years; if there were minors involved, there was action on the estate for a number of years. Some original wills were found, even though wills are usually housed separately in the Shelby County Courthouse.

The TGS team, led by Mary Louise Graham Nazor, consisted of Elizabeth Riggins Nichols, Stewart Caya Phillips, Louise Tittsworth Tyus, Martha Everett Weatherford, Jessie Taylor Webb and Betsy Foster West. Mrs. Nazor entered the data for the years 1820-1860 into the computer, using a program designed by Dr. Barbara Flanary, Archivist and Preservationist. Information from the computer print out comprises this index. Copies of individual files may be obtained by the following procedure:

1. Send the Archives a request for information on the number of papers in the estate file of your interest, including the name of the deceased, the year and the estate number, and a Self-Addressed, Stamped Envelope [SASE] for your reply. You will receive an answer giving the number of pages in the file along with the cost of copying.
2. Send a check or money order in the designated amount to Memphis/Shelby County, TN Archives, 30 South Front Street, Memphis, TN 38103.

Charges for Mail Order Photocopy Service:

$.20 per copy
$ 4.00 minimum handling charge 1-5 copies
$ 15.00 per hour additional charge for more than 5 copies

The index to Probate Records in Memphis/Shelby County, Tennessee Archives includes names of Deceased, Administrators, Executors, Guardians, relatives, persons of the same surname, witnesses to wills and persons or places of special interest. Some estates contain many more names, such as lists of persons who purchased at a sale. These are not included in the index. The ID (Identification) column indicates the relationship of that person to the deceased. Besides the normal abbreviations, two additional ones were used: frmly = formerly and decd = alternate spelling of deceased surname.

BOOK REVIEWS

CEMETERY INSCRIPTIONS OF CARTER COUNTY OKLAHOMA, VOL. III by Sandra Tedford. 1987. Soft back, 8½x11. 231 pp, indexed. Order from the compiler, 200 Sherry Lane, Farmersville, TX 75031. $18.00 (TX residents add $1.26 sales tax)

Carter County Oklahoma was established in 1907 (the year Oklahoma became a state), from the Chickasaw Lands, with Ardmore as the County seat. The Rose Hill Cemetery is the largest and oldest cemetery in Ardmore. It is especially important to the researcher as some of the very earliest settlers were buried here in the late 1880s. Another attraction of this cemetery is that a large number of veterans from all the wars, from the Spanish American to the Vietnam war, are buried here. The Confederate Home for Veterans is in Ardmore, and the Veterans Administration chose this cemetery for burial of the soldiers who died there. Though many of the soldiers are from Oklahoma, some are from other states - Ark, Tenn, Miss, Kans, Mo, & Ohio. The records have been copied with the researcher in mind. All pertinent information was copied; besides dates, some have where born, some have marriage dates and names of their children. Also included in this volume is a map of the cemetery with the sections numbered and the various sections are copied and numbered accordingly, which is very beneficial.

GILES COUNTY, TN. 1840 FEDERAL CENSUS compiled by M. Janell McCann. No date. Soft back, 8½x11. 40 pp, indexed. Order from author, 313 N. Chandler, Fort Worth, TX 76111. $15.00

Although the 1840 census did not assign a family number, Ms. McCann has kept the original order of the census, enabling researchers to know who is living a few houses up and down the road from their ancestor(s). Blue paper gives the index a distinct advantage. Pensioners of the Revolutionary War or other military service are included in the household count, yet separated by name and age. Also included in this annotated manuscript are the number within the household who are blind, insane, idiots, slave, or free colored persons. In the introduction the author reminds us of the changes within the county that time has wrought; changes of county lines, and changes of names of landmarks.

"TIME AND TIDE" A FRANCISCO FAMILY HISTORY by Virginia Billingsley Fletcher. 1989. Hard back, 6x9. 440 pp, indexed. Order from the author, 721 NW 73 Ave., Ft. Lauderdale, FL 33317. $38.00

This family traces the Francisco line from the immigrant ancestor, Christopher Franciscus of Lancaster Co PA, who came from Germany around 1710. He sent his sons to the Shenandoah Valley of Virginia to manage his vast land holdings. Some of them later moved to southwest Virginia. The book focuses on Christopher Francisco and Halana Bowen who moved to Claiborne Co TN, around 1859. Their children and grandchildren are covered in detail. Christopher Francisco's account book is of special interest; it names many of his neighbors in southwest Virginia from 1838 to 1858. "Time and Tide" has 105 photographs, is fully indexed and includes complete documentation. A limited number is being printed.

FAMILY DISEASES ARE YOU AT RISK? by Myra Vanderpool Gormley. 1989. Hard back, 6x9, 165 pp. Order from Genealogical Publishing Co., Inc., 1001 N Calvert St., Baltimore, MD 21202-3897. $17.45

The chapter title clearly states the contents of this manuscript, a pioneer into genetic diseases written by a layperson for the layman. Titles are (1) "The Genetics Revolution and You"; (2) "What are Genetic Diseases?"; (3) "Is Your Family at Risk?"; (4) "Your Mental and Behavioral Roots"; (5) "Adoption and Your Genetic Roots"; (6) "Tips for Researching Your Medical Pedigree"; (7) "Using Personal Computers for Your Genetic Data"; (8) "Your Family Health Tree: A Legacy for Your Descendants"; (9) "Genetic Counseling: Should You Consider It?"; (10) "Genetic Research in Progress." This book explains how standard genealogical practices may be used in compiling a family health history; however, it is not intended to replace the services of a family physician.

JAMES MONROE NABERS FAMILY compiled by Thomas Augustus Nabers. 1983. Hard back, 6x9. 122 pp, indexed. Order from the compiler, 1003 Waverly Ave., Muscle Shoals, AL 35661. $26.75

In 1794, Nathan Neighbors was born in Newberry County, S.C. He married Lucretia Murphy and they had five children; only two lived to maturity, James Monroe and his sister, Nancy Margaret. By 1840 the family had moved to Lauderdale Co, Ala., and later migrated into Itawamba Co, Miss.

About that time, James Monroe Neighbors changed the spelling of his name to Nabers or Nabors. This book traces the family of James Monroe Nabers who had two marriages, fourteen children and four Grissom step-children. His descendants eventually moved into various counties of Mississippi, and on into other states. The author's sources are census, church, cemetery, court house and family Bible records, also personal knowledge of family members.

THE FIRST PUTNAM COUNTY TENNESSEE U.S. CENSUS, 1860 compiled and published by Joyce Bradley McComb. 1989. Soft back, 8½x11. 89 pp, indexed. Order from the compiler, 1730 Jessamine Road, Lexington, SC 29072. $12.00

Putnam County Tennessee was created in 1854 from White, Jackson, Overton and DeKalb Counties. The first census consists of 1353 families, most of whom were farmers. In addition to the usual census information, this transcription uses a code to include a person's position in the family (head of house, spouse, children in order of age), school attendance, literacy, multiple birth, handicaps, married or widowed within the year, occupations etc. The alphabetical surname index is by family number on the census, not by the page number. The book is computer produced and printed on acid-free paper.

THE ORIGINAL SCOTS COLONISTS OF EARLY AMERICA 1612-1783 by David Dodson. 1989. Hard back, 6x9. 353 pp, alphabetized. Order from Genealogical Publishing Co., Inc., 1001 N Calvert St., Baltimore, MD 21202-3897. $28.50

More than 7,000 of the nearly 150,000 Scots who emigrated to America before the Revolutionary War are listed in this book. A native of Scotland, the author has provided an alphabetical listing of names and as much information on each person as could be found from British sources including his own previously published works. A letter code is used to identify 71 primary & 15 secondary sources; at least one code follows each name. One might find date and place of birth, parents, education, residence, port and date of embarkation & arrival, place of settlement, names of spouse(s) and children, and date and place of death, plus other statistics. A Ships Index and a Spouses Index are included. The fact that the entries have been fully documented makes this work as near to being complete as British sources will allow.

JOURNAL OF CONFEDERATE HISTORY, Volume 1 Number 1, Summer 1988 by The Guild Bindery Press. Soft back, 6x9. 210 pp, indexed. Order from The Guild Bindery Press, Box 2071 Lakeway Station, Paris, TN 38242. $12.00 per issue

This is an academic journal devoted to the publication of scholarly articles on The War Between the States. The first issue contains a variety of articles by ten writers, persons knowledgeable about different aspects of the War. Chapter Titles include Why Study Confederate History; The Mysterious Mist of Gettysburg; Hood's Division Opens the Assault; In the Prison Cell I Sit; A Private's Imprisonment: The Wartime Diary of Chaplain Thomas H. Davenport; The Federal March Through Georgia: An Account of Pvt. William Norrell; Iron Afloat: Buchanan and the Mobile Squadron; The Battle of Nashville; An Account of the Battle of Nashville by Pvt. Joe Johnston; The Constitution of the Confederate States of America as a Model of American Constitutional Reform; Strategic Victories or Tactical Defeats? Nathan Bedford Forrest at Brice's Crossroads, Harrisburg and the Memphis Raid.

JOHN OWSLEY, A Virginia Soldier of the American Revolution and Pioneer Settler of Tennessee by Ronny O. Bodine. 1989. Soft back, 8½x11. 43 pp, not indexed. Order from the author, 3024E Thompson Court, Fort Meade, MD 20755. $7.50

Three previously published accounts of varying depth have been brought together in a chronological narrative, verified against the original sources, and in many cases corrected; much new information concerning John Owsley's parents, his military service and his life in Tennessee has been added. The story begins in Stafford County, VA and moves with the second generation to Claiborne County, TN. Although the focus is on John Owsley, many other family members are mentioned throughout. A separate section has been devoted to John and Charity (Barton) Owsley, bringing the grandchildren up to the present century.

CORRECTION: The price of the book, THE LEGACY OF ADAM FISHER (-1757) was incorrectly quoted in our last issue. The price should be $50.00 pp. Sales tax is your responsibility.

TENNESSEE STATEHOOD

One event which is important to every facet of Tennessee history is the celebration of the Bicentenary of Tennessee Statehood. The actual date is 1996, but plans are already made for three public meetings sponsored by the Tennessee Historical Society. The purpose of these meetings is to find out what are the needs in each field of our history and how they can be met during the bicentennial era. Meeting dates are:

West Tennessee - 7 Oct 1989	Carnegie Center for Art and History 305 East College St., Jackson, Tennessee
Middle Tennessee - 14 Oct 1989	First American Center Auditorium 326 Union St., Nashville, Tennessee
East Tennessee - 28 Oct 1989	Candy Factory, World's Fair Park 1010 Laurel Ave., Knoxville, Tennessee

All meetings will begin at 9:00 a.m. and conclude by mid-afternoon.

The Tennessee Historical Society's executive director, Jim Summerville, emphasized that the meetings will be free and open to everyone. "We want all Tennesseans who love the history of their area and state to come and propose historical projects that they'd like to see carried out from now through 1996 and beyond."
