From the Editor

We have a great issue for you this Fall. There is an article about the rich and famous in Memphis in the early years, that Jim Bobo researched and wrote. An autobiography taken from the donated papers of Grace Upshaw.

We have 2 pictures from Christine School, previously known as Market Street School. This school opened in 1872. It was later closed and demolished in 1964. It was located at Market and 3rd Street in Downtown Memphis. It was the first “real” school in Memphis.

On the front cover of the magazine we have a photo from Guthrie School that was located at 951 Chelsea Street in Memphis. 80 years later, there is still a school at that location.

Please email me with any comments, questions or suggestions at tngeneditor@gmail.com. We love publishing articles from our members, so don’t be afraid to submit something. We have lots of opportunities for you to contribute. Please contact us if you are interested. All of our content is done by volunteers.

President’s Message

What it going on at TN-Gen? Lots and lots of work. Here are just a few of the projects we are working on at this time.

Loretta and Jennifer, along with a lot of other volunteers, have been working to order and receive over 400 new books on Tennessee history and genealogy. It has taken several weeks to identify the books that we have from a total available list and to choose those to order. That job has been completed and we have been receiving the hundreds of new books, have gotten them labeled, and they are now on the shelves for you to use. Now, when you are researching a particular county in Tennessee, there is a good chance that we will have information on it in the over 1,500 linear feet of books and magazines on Tennessee history and genealogy. We might still be missing a few titles since it is a never ending battle to stay up to date with what has been published. Come by and see this great addition to the Germantown History and Genealogy Research Center.

A second project is the upcoming, October 8th, seminar that will feature several outstanding speakers for only $5.00. You will hear Mr. Chuck Sherrill, the Tennessee State Library Archivist in Nashville who will speak on the materials in the Archives that are now available online and how to access this valuable information from home. The second section of the program features four speakers, Mr. John Phipps McCalla, Chairman of History Archives of Rosemark and Environments, Inc. and Editors Penny Saucier Glover, Ruth Blakely Billingsley, and Louise Woodridge Rhodes, who will present “An Illustrated History of the People and Towns of Northeast Shelby County and South Central Tipton County”. Mark this date, October 8th from 9:00 AM to 3:00 PM, for these very unique presentations.

Thirdly, local members are reminded to renew your membership now by coming by the Research Center and showing Jennifer the proof of your identity with a driver’s license or some other piece of identifying material like an MLGW bill. This identification process has been made necessary by the change to a new computer system by the Germantown Community Library.
Follies Of The Rich And Famous—The Early

By James E. (Jim) Bobo

Fact! At approximately 11:20 a.m., Tuesday, 10 March 1891, distinguished Memphis attorney Colonel Henry Clay King held a .44 caliber Colt pistol inches from the stomach of prominent Memphis attorney David Hammill Poston and fired a fatal shot.

This act was the culmination of years of lust, greed and legal bickering among and between some of the wealthiest and most powerful people in the City.

The actors in this antebellum/postwar Victorian melodrama were: Colonel Henry Clay King, soldier, power broker and author, had been born to Alfred and Nancy Haggard King on 28 July 1831, in Burksville, Cumberland Co., KY. As a young man he moved to Paducah, KY and entered into a law partnership with his cousin, the future Lieutenant Governor of Kentucky, John Quincy Adams King. They shared a very lucrative practice. He was as popular in society as he was in business and won the hand of the belle of Paducah, Maria J. Dallam. Maria was the twenty-four year old daughter of James and Elizabeth Flournoy Dallam. James was the cashier of the Commercial Bank of Paducah. Clay and Maria were married 10 June 1856. She died 24 December 1856 of consumption.

At the outbreak of the War Between the States, King recruited from among friends and acquaintances in the Paducah area, the Pillow Guards #2, an infantry company of which he became Captain. On 13 June 1861, this Kentucky unit became Company K of the 21st Tennessee Volunteer Infantry Regiment, a unit made up mostly of men from the Memphis, TN area. In September 1861, General Leonidas Polk ordered King, now a Major, back into Kentucky for further recruiting. His efforts resulted in expanding his Pillow Guards #2 into a battalion size organization designated as the 1st Kentucky Infantry Battalion. This enlarged unit was composed of Boyd’s, Pell’s and Swan's companies. King was a fearless soldier, an excellent commander and scavenger. The Battalion was later designated as cavalry and known as Clay King's Hell Hounds. The unit eventually became Company A of the 1st Confederate Cavalry Regiment.

King was passed over and command of the regiment was given to General Claiborne. Near the end of the war, while King was billeted at the home of James H. and Caroline Haughton in Aberdeen, Mississippi, he met their twenty-seven year old daughter Sarah (Sallie) Eliza. On 19 April 1865, within weeks of their first meeting, he and Sallie were married. They soon moved to King’s place at Gill Station, three miles east of Memphis, TN on the Memphis & Charleston Railroad. There were four children of this marriage: Haughton, Fannie (1869-1956), Maud (1871-1946), and Ida Lee (1873-1933).

In 1865, King formed a law partnership in Memphis, with future Judge John P. Caruthers. They continued to share office space until 1871, first at 276 2nd Street and then at 55 Madison. During this time King compiled and published in four volumes the Tennessee Digest: A digest of the judicial decisions of the state of Tennessee, from the year 1796 to July 1868, with notes. King practiced alone until 1883 when he formed a partnership with Lee Thornton.

David Hammill Poston, soldier, lawyer and son and brother of lawyers, was born in Memphis 9 Feb 1844, the first of thirteen children, to William and Mary Letitia Park Poston. In 1861, seventeen year old David joined the 4th Regiment of Tennessee Infantry as a private and was severely wounded at the battle of Perryville. On 23 December 1869, he married Mary Leroy Rives (B: 6 August 1847, Marshall Co., MS. D: 8 October 1879, Greeneville, Greene Co., TN) There were four children of this marriage: William King (1871-1936) Mary Louise (1873-1896) Anna Rives (1876-1950) Hammill (1878-____). General Gideon Johnson Pillow was born 8 June 1806, in Williamson County, TN and educated at the University of Nashville. He was practicing law in Columbia, TN when on 24 March 1831 he married Mary E. Martin. They had a total of thirteen children. He became a Brigadier General of the Tennessee Volunteers in the Mexican War and in 1847, at age 41, was commissioned Major General and second in command, U. S. Army, Mexican War. He was an unsuccessful aspirant to the vice-presidency of the United States in 1852 and 1856. Tennessee Governor Isham G. Harris appointed him Senior Major General of Tennessee's Provisional army in 1861 and subsequently he became a Major General in the Confederate Army. He was one of the three Confederate generals at Fort Donelson. Generals John Floyd and Pillow turned over command of the Fort to General Simon Buckner to surrender the same to General Grant. Both Floyd and Pillow departed the area before the surrender. Pillow with a portion of his staff crossed the Cumberland River and escaped to Nashville. Under the cloud of this action Pillow spent the balance of the war in its backwater in administrative positions. Isham Green Harris, lawyer, State Legislator, United States Representative, Civil War Governor, Volunteer Aide-De-Camp, Confederate States Army and United States Senator, was born 10 February 1818 in Franklin Co TN. After the war, he faced Federal charges of treason, and, with a $5,000 reward offered for his capture, fled to England. He returned to Memphis in 1867 and reestablished his law practice in partnership with General Pillow. Mary Eliza Dickson was born 13 November 1846, in Bossier Parish, LA, the daughter of Michael Dickson and Hannah Palmer Dickson. From childhood she was a perfect example of Creole beauty. Rich and pampered, she was a belle of the parish. Both the Dicksons and the Palms, her maternal grandparents, were planters with extensive landholdings and slaves. (The Slave Census of 1860 indicates that her father owned more than one hundred-twenty slaves.) On 16 April 1861, at age fourteen, Mary wed James B Trigg, son of John and Elizabeth Trigg, one of the wealthiest families of Memphis. Although James Trigg died soon after the war there was one child of this union, Elizabeth Trigg. (The Triggs were neighbors of William and Mary Poston, and son David, who lived on Hernando Rd. at Kerr Avenue.) Soon after the war Mary retained attorneys Harris & Pillow to press her claims against the U.S. Army and Federal government for cotton that her husband had lost during the war. While living with her mother Hannah, in New Orleans, LA during the early 1870’s, she continued to use their services in land purchases and her bankruptcy. Pillow’s wife Mary Elizabeth died 4 October1869. She had maintained their home place in Columbia, TN, while Gideon and his oldest son George lived in Memphis. In early 1872 sixty-five year old widower Gideon Pillow and widow Mary Eliza Dickson Trigg reached an “understanding” and signed a prenuptial agreement “to keep estates separate and divide home furnishings between them.” On 27 November 1872, two weeks after her twenty-sixth birthday, they were married in New Orleans. There were three children of this union, Mary Gideon Pillow (1873-1887), Anna Payne Pillow (1875- ), and Gideon Johnson Pillow, Jr. (1877-1962). Gideon died 10 August 1878 in Helena, AR of (Continued on page 8)
“congestion of the brain.”

For many years Col. Clay King had an office at 41 Madison between Main and Front. His practice was small but lucrative. Being attorney for the Vaccaro family, he served almost all of the Italian families of Memphis.

The tragic death of his first-love and four years of war had apparently left him eccentric, reticent, a strong alcoholic propensity and a man of strange character. His family life was not very happy and there seemed to be little love between the father and his family. He lived almost alone in one part of the house, the family in another.

In 1876 King purchased a plantation in Lee County, AR. At about this time he settled this and other property, amounting to two-thirds of his entire estate, upon his wife and children He first made G. W. Winchester, and later, R. J. Black, trustee.

Mrs. King moved to the plantation with her daughters and son. During this time Clay “boarded” with Mrs. Pillow. Mrs. King desired that her children attend Memphis schools and returned to the 150 Mosby St. home. The 1880 Federal Census indicates that Mary E. Pillow is living on the Lee County, AR property, known as the “Pillow Plantation,” along with her three children by Gideon, daughter Elise Trigg, a governess, an overseer, and two servants. Based on later testimony by Mrs. Pillow, the plantation was being farmed in “partnership” with Clay King who often visited her. This arrangement continued for several years.

In 1883 Mrs. Pillow and Mr. King were both living in Memphis but at different addresses. By 1885, Mrs. Pillow was living in King’s 150 Mosby home with King as a “boarder.” In 1887 her daughter Mary Gideon Pillow died while living at this address.

In later court action, it was alleged that during this time Mrs. Pillow exercised an “undue influence” over King and induced him to make a deed to the plantation with the promise that he could live in her home during his lifetime. She was not to file this deed for record until after his death. However, by 1887 the love affair was over and she did file it.

In 1888 Mrs. Pillow was living in Birmingham, AL, with her son-in-law and daughter Elsie Trigg Shield. Letters written by her to King during this time and later introduced in Court indicated that there was a probability that the son-in-law would kill King for dragging Mrs. Pillow’s name “through the mud.”

On 11 May 1889, H. Clay King filed a bill in chancery against Mary E. Pillow, Annie Payne Pillow and Gideon J. Pillow, Jr. to recover possession of certain lands in Arkansas and in Tennessee. The suit included a plantation in Lee County, AR, valued at about $15,000. The suit was instituted in Shelby County, TN Chancery Court and in the Circuit Court of Lee County AR. It was to be tried in both counties on the same testimony. With agreement between Counsels, Judge J. M. Sanders of Lee County tied to the case with Chancellor Bedford M. Estes.

On 17 July 1889, through her attorneys Poston & Poston, Mrs. Pillow entered suit in the Shelby County, TN Circuit Court against King asking $10,000 damages for defamation of character. It charged that the bill filed by King in Chancery “reflected on the character” of Mrs. Pillow who sought to recover damages and the vindication of her reputation. Mrs. Pillow claimed that the property in question was bought with money she had loaned King and that the allegations against her character were made for purpose of compromising her so she would not make a defense of the suit.

King then brought suit against the Avalanche and The Appeal for printing, prior to the trial, the content of some of the affidavits filed in behalf of Mrs. Pillow. The Avalanche commented editorially on those damage suits and was critical of King, who because of this editorial brought another suit against the Avalanche for $25,000.
When the case came up for trial the court rooms were crowded with spectators eager to catch every word exchanged between counsels, Messrs. Poston & Poston and Col. King, who appeared on his own behalf. Most agreed that David Poston was harsh in his questioning of King. Even though in his original bill to divest her of title, King admits that he made her the deed to the property the case was decided in favor of King. The bill which was filed by Mrs. Pillow in the Circuit Court, asking $10,000 for defamation of character was dismissed.

After months of suppressed anger at real and supposed disrespect from his peers and the public; crippling depletion of his personal fortune; alcoholism, and loss of his beautiful paramour, King reached the end of his emotional tether.

“The shot was fired without a moment's warning.”

On this blustery March morning H. Clay King walked up to David Hammill Poston, who was walking leisurely down Main street and had arrived at a point just below the alley, adjoining S. L. Lee's cigar store, at 275 Main street, drew a revolver, placed it near the right side of Poston’s abdomen, and fired one shot, accompanied by the words, "You --- - -----, I've got you now."

Poston cried for help, and several friends rushed to his assistance. He fell back unconscious into their arms. They carried him into Floyd & Mooney's restaurant. Where after half an hour Poston was taken to the Mitchell & Maury Sanitarium at 111 Court Street, where Drs. R. W. Mitchell, E. D. Mitchell, Richard B. Maury, William B. Rogers, Gustavus B. Thornton and William W. Taylor were in attendance. Immediately after his arrival and before any drugs were administered, Sheriff A. J. McLendon, Frank P. Poston, his brother and law partner, and Notary Public Hunsdon Cary were summoned and took a statement and will. In his statement Poston declared that he had no idea of his danger when he saw King and that the firing of the shot was the greatest surprise of his life.

As soon as the shooting occurred a crowd began to gather. Deputy Sheriff C.T. Smith, who was on Madison Street between Union and Second Street, and on hearing the shot fired, hurried to the spot and took King into custody. King, fearing personal violence asked Smith to permit him to keep his pistol in his overcoat pocket. The request was granted although Smith did keep his hand on the pistol. Detective Issac Wolff who was also nearby accompanied King and Smith to the County jail located on Front at the NW corner of Auction. The new .44 caliber Colt pistol was left in the pocket of King’s “heavy blue chinchilla overcoat” until the jail was reached, when it was taken out and delivered to Jailer Lewis Williams. As he was put behind bars he was greeted by condemned murderer Andrew Jackson, Pat Loague and other prisoners.

Although he knew it was against the prison rules King several times asked for and was refused liquor. Mrs. King arrived at the jail, about 1:00 p. m., and attorneys Lee Thornton (King’s law partner) and W. Weatherford were sent for. They immediately entered into service for his defense.

At the infirmary an operation was performed. The ball had entered the abdomen at the right of the navel and exited above the left hip. The prognosis was dire. (Poston died the second day after she was shot.) The Poston family gathered in a side room of the infirmary and in the hall many friends and anxious acquaintances gathered to hear condition reports of this “victim of the cowardly bullet.” The prominence of the principals and the prejudice existing against the would-be murderer all joined to stir the community to a dangerous pitch, and the words "Poston is dead” might have been the signal for a lynching.

There was little doubt that the shooting was premeditated. For twenty-four hours, or longer, prior to the shooting King had been under the influence of alcohol. On Monday while dining in the Vienna Cafe with Justice G. K. Strickland, he declared that he would "get" Poston. On Monday evening he reiterated this threat in a conversation with T. T. Stratton, at Duffy's Hotel. The new revolver that King had purchased was significant in determining premeditation.

King was indicted and found guilty of murder in the first degree in a trial that began on 1 June 1891 and lasted thirty-three days. He was sentenced to be hanged on 6 November 1891. The judgment and sentence were appealed to the Tennessee Supreme Court. An opinion delivered by Justice Lurton on 7 July 1892 affirmed the judgment of the lower court and sentenced King to be hanged on 12 August 1892.

On Tuesday, 9 August 1892 word was received in Memphis that Col. H. Clay King would not die on the gallows the next Friday. Gov. Buchanan “had yielded to the persistent appeals of the prisoner's wife and daughters and other Memphis ladies, his Counsel and the urging of Senator Isham Harris and other influential politicians,” and commuted the sentence to life imprisonment. The news was received by the Poston family and the entire community with indignation.

Postscript:

Colonel H. Clay King, 73 years old, died of stomach cancer at 10:00 a.m. 10 December 1903, at the Tennessee State Penitentiary in Nashville where he had been imprisoned for eleven years. Drs. R. E. Fort, J. D. Witherspoon and Dr. Black had been attending him and reported, “His end was as peaceful as his life had been stormy.” Also in attendance were his three unmarried daughters, Ida, Mary and Fannie King and his wife. King was treated with consideration during his imprisonment. For the last two years he did no work and spent his time reading. “He kept abreast of the times and retained to the last his brilliancy of conversation and culture of bearing that had always marked him.” He is buried Calvary Cemetery Nashville, TN.

Mary Eliza Dickson Pillow moved to Washington in the 1890s, supposedly, to press her suite for reimbursement for losses of cotton and other valuable that her first husband sustained during the War Between the States. In 1900 she was living in Washington DC and running a boarding house. In 1910, she was living there with her 26 year old son Gideon Pillow and twenty-eight year old daughter Anna Payne Pillow. Neither had ever been married. Mary was working as a clerk in the Internal Revenue office; Anna a clerk in the Adjutant General Office and Gideon as a clerk in the Land Office. Her widowed daughter, Elsie Trigg Shield and her 16 year old son John R. Shield were also living in the DC area. Mary died May 4, 1913, in Washington, DC as a result of “being struck by a streetcar

a. Clay King, with his force, 500 to 600 strong, has been ordered to Lexington, toward the Mississippi, about 55 miles from Camp Lowe.

b. Two companies of independent cavalry, or mounted men, poorly armed and equipped, were stationed at Humboldt, sending out scouting parties toward Paris.

c. The last party of this kind was seen at Paris last Thursday.

d. The troops garrisoned at Memphis were diminishing daily by being ordered toward Corinth.

“Camp Beauregard is located one mile northeast of Water Valley, Ky., which is on the Louisville Division of the Illinois Central Railroad, about midway between Louisville, Ky., and Memphis, Tenn. It was named in honor of General Beauregard, who was at that time in command of the Western division of the Confederate forces. It was considered a very important fort on account of its being so near the middle of the dividing line between the Northern and Southern troops, this line of battle running from Columbus, Ky., to Fort Donelson, Tenn. The generals under General Beauregard were General Alcorn, who had mixed troops from Tennessee and Mississippi; General Bowen, in command of two Arkansas regiments; General Bliffe, in command of troops from Mississippi. Col. Clay King was commander of the Kentuckians, commonly known as Clay King’s Hell Hounds.”

The Stinson Family

(Copy of letter written to Emma McKnight of Lebanon, Missouri by David Newton Stinson of Crittendon Co., KY in 1896)
David N. Stinson was the son of Andrew Stinson and Katherine McAlester. (Taken from the files donated by George Nelson Dickey.)

Dear Emma,

I will endeavor to give you an outline of the Stinson family. In order to explain I will say that I spent the summer of 1843 with my grandfather, David Stinson 1764-1843 in North Carolina. I learned from him that his father, Andrew John Stinson 1740-1779 came from Ireland and settled in North Carolina where he and his wife both lived and died, leaving a family of orphan children. Four boys and four girls as I remember. If this is true, I have lost sight of the two girls now.

They were poor people and the boys were bound out to learn trades. Their names were David, Andrew, John and Alexander. They all lived to be old men. (I have seen them all.) All had families. David and John lived and died in North Carolina, while Andrew and Alexander came West. John died in 1843 while I was in Carolina. I saw him while on his death bed, the only time I ever did see him. He had a family of four children, three boys and one girl. Their names were John, Andrew and William. The girl’s name I have forgotten, all dead long ago except for William, he was living a few years ago and may be living yet. (I have seen them all.)

Andrew came West as before stasted and settled in Kentucky in the neighborhood where I was raised. He afterwards moved to Illinois. He had a family of four children, three boys and one girl. Their names were David, Andrew and William, the girl’s name Fanny. They all died long ago except for William, he died a year or so ago. He was in his 89th year. (I have seen all of that family.)

When Alexander left Carolina, he settled in Tennessee in Giles County, about one mile north of Connersville. He lived there a number of years, got rich, raised a large family-nine girls and one boy. The old man had nine sons-in-laws, all living at the same time. Two of the girls married two brothers by the name of Sawyer, 2 married Ewings, and 2 married Cunninghams, one married Clark, one Taylor and one Briggs. James the boy never married, went to California and died. The old man and his wife and all his sons-in-laws, the whole platter moved to Iowa away back before the war where most of them died. The last account I had from them, which was several years ago, there was some three or four of the girls living. There may be some of them living yet. (I have seen all of that family except one or two of the girls)

As before intimated, the old man David (my grandfather) lived and died in Carolina. They lived in Mecklinburg County, Charlotte is the county seat. He also had a large family, eight boys and four girls. Their names were James, William, Andrew, David, Jedediah, Johnathan, Cyrus and Newton. The girls

Polly, Martha, Sally and Margarett. Polly and Martha never married. Sally married a man by the name of Neal and moved to West Tennessee. Margaret married a man by the name of Stewart, they lived in York District South Carolina when I was there. James the oldest boy moved at an early day to West Tennessee. William, David and Jedediah went to Morgan County, Alabama. William afterward moved to Mississippi while Andrew (my father) came to Kentucky. Newton died young. Johnathan and Cyrus lived and died in Carolina. Cyrus died a year or two ago. They most all lived to be old men, although my father died comparatively young, he was only about forty years old at the time of his death. (I have seen all the family except James and Newton, Martha and Sally and William.)

As regards the girls, children of Andrew John Stinson as before intimated, I can only give an account to but two, Mary and Martha. Mary married William Dickey. They lived in Kentucky but afterward moved to Illinois. They had a family of eight children, six boys and two girls. Their names were John, James, William, Jessie, Andrew and David, the girls Edith and Polly. (I have seen all that family except Edith.) All dead. Mattie or Martha married David Dickey. I never knew much about them, they lived in Indiana. I have seen two of their children, Eleanor and John. Eleanor married a man by the name of Elder. She has been dead a good many years. John was a Presbyterian preacher. I have lost sight of him. I suppose he is not living. I believe this is about what I know of the old stock of Stinson.

(Note) David Stinson wrote another letter to Emma from Norris City, Illinois on August 22, 1897. He said his mother was Katy McAlester, daughter of Angus McAlester who came from Scotland and landed in Charleston, South Carolina, and then moved to Kentucky. Her mother was Mary Spence, an Irish girl.)

Notes by Carol Lee Yarbrough

(Note) It was Margaret, not Martha who married David Dickey on September 4, 1788. Margaret was born December 24, 1760 in NC and died April 29, 1814 in Kentucky. David Dickey was born October 18, 1747 in Augusta County, VA and died on November 7, 1823 in Washington, Indiana. Their children were born in York County, SC.

(Note) Mary married William Dickey on March 26, 1790 in North Carolina. She was born on March 26, 1774 and died June 25, 1862. William was born May 6, 1764 and died June 28, 1832. This info. comes from the History of Macon Co. Ill.

(Note) Margaret and Mary used the name Stephenson/Stevenson. The name comes from the court docket record when they were bonded out to learn a trade. Actually, it was their father’s wish that Margaret raise the children. She was nineteen years old when he died. Mary was about five years old. Margaret did not raise the younger children, and they were bonded out under the name of Stevenson/Stephenson.

Autobiography of John A. Gardner

I was born on the 19th day of August 1809, in the western part of Robertson county, Tennessee. My father’s name was John and my mother’s maiden name was Patience Whitehead. They married in Southhampton Co., Virginia about 1795, and immediately removed to and settled in the western part of Robertson Co., Tenn., where I was born, and where they continued to reside until about the year 1829, when they came to Weakley Co., West Tennessee, where several of their children had previously settled. They raised seven sons, of whom I was the seventh, and two daughters, all living to arrive at the years of maturity. The sons were all older than the two daughters.

My father was most of his life a man in independent, though moderate circumstances. He was a farmer and gave each of his nine children a rudimentary education, such as was common that day among the farmers of the West. Of course my early education was defective. I never went to school in a University, a college or even an academy, nor in a city, a town or even a village. I was sent to county schools in the winter and kept at home and labored on the farm through the summer season.

In 1827 I removed from Robertson Co. to Weakley Co. Tenn. In 1828 I bought a half interest with Amos R. Johnson as my partner, in the type, press, etc. of the “West Tennessean”, a newspaper published weekly in the town of Paris, Henry County, Tenn. The paper was democratic in politics. I assumed editorial control and advocated the election of General Jackson to the presidency, with what little discretion and ability, my youth and inexperience allowed me. At the end of about nine months I sold out my interest in the paper and returned to Dresden and engaged in reading law, with -- with, well nobody in particular. I gave the only piece of property I owned, a horse, to my brother, Richard to board me a year. Before the expiration of the year I had obtained a license to practice law -- to the bar at Dresden, and o the 28th of Oct. of that year, 1829 (I think I am right in these dates) I married Ritta Maria Terrill, an orphan girl whose mother and father were both dead, with whom I lived happily for a period of about twenty years. She died the 28th of Nov., 1848. Our surviving children are Ada B. Caldwell, Laura A. Gardner, M. L. Hankins, and A. C. Gardner.

On the 30th of March 1850 I married my second and present wife in Nashville, Miss Agnes Hunter Cowardin. With her I have also lived a pleasant life, with a temper naturally quick and rendered greatly more irritable by old age, increased nervousness and pecuniary misfortune. We have five living children -- three sons, Almus Howard Gardner, Ernest Morehead Gardner and Percy Whitehead Gardner, and two daughters Fannie Gardner Caldwell and Josie Lee Gardner, our youngest child.

For somewhat more than ten years from 1840 -- 1850, including the period of my best physical health, and greatest intellectual vigor, I was actively connected to politics. In every contest during those years, State of National, I was either a regular standard bearer or an active volunteer for my party. In 1829 before I was constitutionally eligible I was nominated by a Convention of my political friends for State Senator for the counties of Weakley, Henry and Obion. This nomination I declined and my venerable friend Gen’l Robert Love of Henry County was elected to the position. In 1840 i the memorable 'Hard Cider' and 'log Cabin' campaign for the preidency between Mr. Van Buren & General Harrison I actively and vigorously canvassed my county of Weakly in favor of Van Buren against the Hon. E. Etheridge, then a very young man, who with arder and ability advocated the claims of Genl. Harrison. We spoke in the month of August, in every civil district in the county (at least, I did. I believe he missed one appointment), making twelve speeches in thirteen days, each from 2 ˝ to 4 ˝ hours in length. This was a most laborious canvass of its duration I ever made. In 1841 my political party again nominated me for the State Senate. I accepted and was returned without opposition. It so happened that the election of two United States Senators from this state devolved on that Legislature. Our legislature, then under the amended constitution of 1834 consisted of 100 members, 75 in the H. of Reps., and 25 in the Senate. Political parties in this state were then very evenly balanced. A result of this was that in the year 1841 the democrats had a majority of one in the Senate and the Whigs a majority of three in the House. This was an exact political equipoise. Our custom and usage had been up to that time for the two Houses to meet in joint convention to elect a United States Senator. To have followed this usage would have given the Whigs the numerical advantage of us and would have enabled them to elect both Senators. Congress having omitted to exercise the power conferred upon it by the Federal constitution of enacting a law prescribing the time, place and manner of electing Senators, the democratic majority in the Senate refused to meet the Whig majority in the House in joint convention to elect U. S. Senators, one from each of the opposing political parties – eachparty to select the men it preferred.

Upon my motion, John C. McLemore was elected by the democrats of the Senate and on sending our joint concurrent resoluition to the House, it refused to pass it, so the State remained without Senatorial representation in Congress fromn this State for two years. From this circumstance the democratic senators were called the 'immortal 15'.

In 1843 I was a candidate for reelection to the State Senate with Genl. John W. Rogers as my only competitor. He was a democrat brought out by the Whig party as the best method of defeating me. I carried by handsome majorities each of the three counties, and was again returned by the people. In 1845 I was before the people for the third time for the Senate. Doctor Dewitt, a Henry County democrat, a popular and able man,tok the field against me, as an independent candidate, relying on Whig support, and some prejudice on the part of a few democrats against me, on account of my having been of the 'immortal 13', to beat me. We met in joint public discussion two or three times, when like Belshazzar, seeing the handwriting on the wall, he quitted the contest and retired from the race. No other candidate coming out, of course, I was elected again.

When the legislature of 1845-6 met in October 1845, the Senate stood 13 democrats and 12 Whigs. Each party as usual held a caucus to select its candidate for speaker. The choice of myh friends follen me. The Whigs nominated one of their number, Mr. Murray of Williamson County. The Whits had determined if they could by any means prevent it, that no one of the 'immortal 13' should be elected to preside over the deliberations of the senate. It was thought by many that they anticipated that my friends would present myh name for the speakership, and they intended to defeat me, by any means in their power. The next day when the election for Speaker came up, Mr. Murray and myself were put into nomination by our respective friends. The ballot proceeded, my name being called before Mr. Murray’s. I did not vote at all. When Mr. Murray’s name was reached he voted for another Whig Senator, Mr. Tyler of Montgomery, the result was I had received 12 votes, Mr. Murray 11 and Mr. Tyler 1. There was no election, the rule in such cases requiring a candidate to get a majority of all the votes cast before the temporary chairman could declare an election. The balloting continued through that day and a part of the next, with precisely the same result. I then took my position near Mr. M., intending to change my tactics and put Mr. M. to a severe test. So when my name was called, I voted for Mr. Murray to see if he would return the courtesy, and thus secure my election. This, however, he declined to do, and continued to vote for Mr. Tyler. The vote then stood Gardner 12, Murray 12 and Tyler 1; still no election.

The balloting continued with this result till the evening of the third day of the session, when on the announcement of the 135th ballot, I arose and in a brief speech, withdrew my name, and put the Hon. Harvey M. Watterson in nomination, who on the second ballot was elected by the vote of Mr. Bradbury, the Whig Senator from Perry. Thus ended this memorable contest for the Speakership of the Tennessee State Senate. I was allowed by my friends to choose my own time to retire, and to nominate whom I pleased, whenever I withdrew.

In the Presidential election of 1844 between Mr. Polk and Mr. Clay, the former being my personal as well as political friend, I supported him ardently, with all my influence and energy, making many speeches at barbecues and mass meetings of the people in his behalf.

In 1847 at the urgent solicitation of numerous and prominent political friends, in all parts of the state, I was a candidate for Congress in a Whig district with a majority of 2500 against me. I had neither hope nor expectation of being elected, and only ran to help my party in the general struggle of that year. For awhile Col. H. Williams of Henderson and Genl. W. T. Haskell of Madison County were both running as Whig candidates. Col. Williams retired and the contest went on between Genl. H. and myself. I reduced the Whig majority about one thousand votes. Genl. Haskell beating me about fourteen hundred. In 1848, my party put me forward as a candidate for Presidential Elector in the race that year, for the Presidency between Genl. Cass and Genl. Taylor. Col. C. H. Williams was the Whig or Taylor elector. Genl. Taylor received the vote for Tennessee, there being nine counties in the district. The canvass between Col. Williams and myself was arduous and energetic, as we spoke several times in each of the counties.

Col. Williams was a high-toned and truly amiable gentleman, an adroit and able debator, and a social and agreeable companion—making the canvass to me a real pleasure, regardless of the labor. Just after close of the canvass in the month of November 1848, I had the misfortune to lose my first wife, leaving me five children, the youngest being two years old. I immediately decided to abandon politics and devote my entire time and energies to the practice of my profession. I entered into a law partnership with E. Etheridge, Esq., who had read law with me and resided in my family while he was preparing himself for the bar. He was a young man of rare brilliance and promise, with a wonderfully retentive memory, studious habits, quick comprehension, great warmth of heart, strength and fidelity of personal attachments, and generosity of disposition. This connection lasted about four years, during which time Mr. Etheridge's progress and advancement in his profession, his rapid addition to his previous stock of legal knowledge, exceeding anything of the kind that ever came under my personal observation. We did a large and lucrative practice. In 1852 Mr. Etheridge, having been elected a representative in Congress, and I having undertaken to get up the stock for a railroad, then recently chartered from Nashville to a point on the Ississippi River in the Madrid Bend, called the 'Nashville and Northwestern R. R. Co.', our partnership was dissolved by mutual consent. I succeeded in getting the stock, and in the autumn of 1852 the company was organized at Nashville and the Board of Directors elected me President of the company. I was re-elected three or four times. During my Presidency the work was out under contract, and a part of the road out of Nashville, and at the west end was put in operation. I resigned the presidency, or declined a re-election. I cannot now remember which, in 1856, I think, a part of the time while I was president of this company, I boarded with my wife and children in the family of Josian Ferriss in Nashville, and afterwards bought a residence in the city and lived there for about two years. I devoted four or five years of the hardest labor of my life to the service of this corporation which I have never regretted, in view of the advantage of the road to my section of the State. When I quit the railroad I went back to the bar and practiced law, until the Civil War broke out. A part, or most of which time I practiced with my son-in-law, afterwards the Hon. W. P. Caldwell. At the beginning of the ward, during its progress, and at its close I was a Rebel sympathizer. I however, never took any part in it.

In 1870, I was chosen a delegate from Weakly County to the Constitutional Convention that year. B. B. Edwards, Esq. was my competitor. I served in that body as chairman of the Committee on 'Finance and Taxation'. In 1878 while I was a refugee in Kentucky, with my family at 'Glen Lilly', the country seat of Genl. Bolivar H. Buckner (a cousin of my wife) died from yellow fever at Martin. A convention of my political friends convened in Weakly County to nominate a candidate to represent the County at the Session of 1878-9. Some trouble coming up between democratic aspirants for the position to secure harmony and success, the Convention tendered me the nomination. Recognizing the obligation to serve the people, when called on, unsolicited to do so, I accepted and was successful—beating J. M. Troutt, Esq., an independent democratic candidate. I served as chairman of the Judiciary committee at the following session and can say truthfully, it was the severest season of seventy five days continuous labor I ever performed in my life. This service terminated my connection with politics and public life.

It is true that without making any canvass whatever, without making a single speech, or even an address to the electors of the State, I had the supreme folly of going before the State Convention in 1878 as a candidate for the nomination of Governor. I was beat, I might add 'of course', but not by an open and known competitor, of whom there were five, Fleming, Caldwell, Savage, Burch and Colyer, but by a dark horse, the Hon. A. S. Marks, an ex-confederate Colonel who had lost alimb in the rebel service, an able, amiable and popular man—to have beat my whom would have been no disgrace to the greatest.

I encountered two other horses of the same color before Col. Marks was brought in, namely, Judge J. C. Guild and Judge John V. Wright, both of whom were prominent, popular and influential men in the State, and with the Democratic party. I disposed of them in 'short order', but Marks was too hard for me and served my term as Governor. My friends seemed to think I made a good race under the circumstances, and for a time felt very confident of my nomination.

I believe that many generations of the lower animal adapted to the state of the earth’s atmosphere and other physical conditions, have inhabited our planet, and when it became unfitted to their existence, these primordial races perished and became utterly extinct, and that new higher and more complex types, better suited to the changed physical conditions of our world followed. I believe in the variability of the species, but the difficulty seems to be to fix a limit beyond which these variations can never proceed. The survival of the fittest, in the struggle for life, to my mind is a demonstrated proposition.

Note: Zeroxed October 1967 by Col. James S. Corbitt, 118 Gardner Ave., Martin, Tenn., 38237 from the original in the possession of Mrs. A. H. Damron, Martin, Tenn., a great granddaughter of Col. Gardner. Mrs. Damron says that this original was typed personally by Col. Gardner in 1883.
The Woods were among the early settlers of the Valley of Virginia and the country adjacent. The pioneers who peopled that part of the wilderness, (which before had been the hunting ground of the Indians), were immigrants from Europe, particularly from Germany and the north of Ireland. It was usual for them to land on the banks of the Delaware, to make settlements more or less temporary in Pennsylvania, and attracted by glowing descriptions of the fertile lands along the Shenandoah, and the ease by which they might be acquired, to remove by successive stages up the Valley. As a general rule, the lower portions of the Valley were occupied by Germans, while those further south were taken up by the Scotch-Irish.

The second child William, had a son William Woods b. ca 1771, d. ca 1848 who went to near Jonesboro, Washington County, Tenn. (see also Greene) In North Carolina State Records we find in 1770 William Woods, Sr. and Jr. filed depositions. This connects up our verified History of William Woods of Maryville, Blount County, Tenn. (our grandfather, father of Alfred and Woodford and Mary) He came to Indiana (Johnson County) in December 1830 and died in Greenwood, December 29, 1848. Upon these surmises I am compiling the following records which begin with John Woods and wife Elizabeth Worsop, a brother of Michael Woods of Virginia. Mary Wallace, a sister, heads another interesting line of Woods-Wallace kinship.

Christopher Acklin Woods was the oldest child of William Woods III, and Kaziah Acklin. He was born in Abington, Washington County, Virginia Sept. 13, 1797 and died near Winchester, Tenn. Aug. 13, 1827. He was a farmer. He was married to Jane Thompson (daughter of Samuel and Ellen Thompson), on October 5, 1819 in Blount County, Tenn. Jane was born Feb. 2, 1802 in Blount County, Tenn. and died there Oct. 12, 1884. Her full name was Jane Ellison (probably her mother’s name). The children of Christopher Acklin Woods and Jane Ellison Thompson were:

William Washington Woods was the second child of William III and Kaziah Acklin and was born September 18, 1799 in Abington, Washington County. Virginia. He was married to Martha (Gilaspie) Houston, Feb.
16, 1826. Martha was the daughter of James and ? Gillaspie and died April 7, 1907 at Iowa City, Ia. William was a Presbyterian minister and at the time of his death, which occurred at Camp Nelson, Ky., was Chaplain of the Federal Army. Their two oldest children were born in Athens, Tenn. and soon after, they removed to Greenwood, In., where his father and others of the family had located. Possibly they all went together – at any rate a colony of Woods came to the new country in Indiana. The children of William Washington Woods and Martha Gillaspie (Houston) Woods were:

Virginia Woods b. Iowa City, m. John Paul Morgan of New York City, d. at Oberlin, Ohio.

Geraldine Woods b. at Iowa City m.
  William Henry Morgan, d. Sept. 5, 1895, Oberlin, Ohio

Note: The name Wilberforce is carried down to the son of Alfred C. Woods. The name of Eudora occurs in William Washington’s family and in Alfreeds and Woodfords, and Nancy Stewarts. There is a real significance in it’s repetition, and I distinctly recall that Uncle Woodford and Nancy Jane each named children Eudora. Therefore the name of wife and of William Woods born about 1722 was Eudora, possibly Mary Eudora, as this combination occurs three times in the Woods’ families. Cadence G. Woods

Tennessee Ancestry Certificate Program

The Tennessee Genealogical Society sponsors this program to recognize and honor the early settlers who helped shape the great state of Tennessee. Persons wishing to place their ancestors in this roll of honor are invited to submit an application with supporting documents or other evidence that proves their prime ancestor lived in Tennessee or the area that became Tennessee before 1880. Family charts or computer printouts are not considered sufficient proof.

Attractive hand-lettered certificates suitable for framing are issued to each person whose application meets program qualifications. The certificates are inscribed with the prime ancestor’s name, when and where he or she settled in Tennessee, and the applicant’s name. The application form for the certificate can be printed at our web site www.tngs.org or via snail mail from TNGS P. O. Box 381824, Germantown, TN 38183-1824.
Contributions
Everyone is invited to submit unpublished material of genealogical value. Pre-1945 Tennessee material is our priority. This includes diaries, letters, tombstone inscriptions, deeds, church records, military records, etc. If a photo is needed for an article, please contact us about how to submit an electronic copy. We are a nonprofit organization and do not pay for contributions; however, we do acknowledge the contributor and give by-lines. All correspondences with TNGS should include your name, address and telephone number or e-mail address.

Queries
Queries will appear in Ansearchin’ News and on the TNGS web site. Members are entitled to one free query each year and may place additional queries for $3 each. (Nonmembers pay $5 for each.) Queries should be 50 words or less. (See “Queries” in any current issue for correct form.) Please submit queries typed or printed.

Surname Index File Cards
Members are urged to send vital statistics of ancestors to be included in our Master Surname File. Please type or print information on a 3x5 index card. Information should include subject’s surname, given name, middle name, dates of birth, marriage, death, parents, spouse, children, origin, state and county. Please include name, address and e-mail address on the back of the card.

Book Reviews
Books will be reviewed in Ansearchin’ News if the book is donated to The Tennessee Genealogical Society. After a book is reviewed, it will become part of the GRHGC library. All books will be reviewed in the order received.

Tennessee Ancestry Certificates
TNGS sponsors this program to recognize and honor the settlers who came to Tennessee before 1880. To place your ancestors in this roll of honor, please request an application from Mrs. Grace Upshaw, Director of Certificates, at www.tngs.org or the address at the end of this page. Upon completion of the application, please return it along with supporting documents or other proof of your ancestor’s residency, along with a $10 application fee. Attractive certificates suitable for framing are issued to each person whose application meets program qualifications. Certificates are inscribed with the prime ancestor’s name, date and place of settlement in Tennessee along with the applicant’s name.

Note: TNGS has published two volumes of Tennessee Settlers and Their Descendants compiled from information contained in these applications, and will publish a third volume when adequate numbers of additional applications are received.

Photo Gallery
TNGS may publish pre-1945 unidentified photos in Ansearchin’ News. Please advise us of the origin of the photo and any other information that might aid our search. Please contact us about how to submit an electronic copy.

Letters to The Editor
All letters to the editor should be addressed to Kathryn Holderman. Please feel free to forward any comments or suggestions. In many instances, throughout the magazine, grammar and spelling are left verbatim in order to preserve the character and charm of the era.

Volunteers run every aspect of the Society, and if you would like to join the ‘cause,’ please contact a Board member or other volunteer. There is no job too small — remember, Tennessee is the Volunteer State! TNGS is a federally recognized nonprofit, tax exempt, educational organization, and as such contributions are tax deductible within the IRS guidelines.
